Gee ...

I've declined the AARP (for now at least - they started sending me membership solicitations on my 50th birthday - maybe some day I'll see a benefit)

The NRA would be of interest if I was still a hunter, but alas, the XYL is a biologist and state-licensed wildlife rehabilitator, so for the sake of marital harmony, I've given up that hobby. (I have so many other things going on,
I don't know when I'd have the time for it anyway ...)

The AAA has never appealed to me ... I get good towing coverage for much less through my car insurance and my new Ford Explorer also comes with roadside assistance.

Skinheads ... well 'nuff said, I guess.

However, WRT the ARRL - as much as I've had some policy differences with them over the years, they DO do a LOT of good things for ham radio, and their member services and publications are also valuable.

All together, I made the value judgment to support the ARRL by maintaining membership for the past 25+ years (I should have become a life member years ago - I'd have really saved money over the years - but I resisted because of my policy differences with the ARRL leadership in a couple of areas.)

However, with BPL, CC&Rs (don't affect me, but affect a lot of hams), and the good work that the ARRL/IARU did at the WRC on 40m expansion, I finally decided to become a life member and to work my policy differences from the inside as well as from the outside. If I live an average life span from now, I'll just about break even on the $975.00 life membership. I also sent them $100.00 earmarked to support Ed Hare's work against the BPL threat.

I think that ARRL membership (with QST included) is a good value at the current dues rates and find it hard to understand how anyone who's REALLY interested in ham radio and its future could justify NOT joining and supporting the good things that the ARRL does - you don't have to agree with EVERYTHING they do or every position they take (I don't ...), but on balance they do much more right than wrong, so I support them for that and joust with them on the things I disagree with.

Better. I just posted some pix on our website, from FD in 1968. My guess is we have about three times the number as we did then.

Yup. During the day, I do no operating at all, just control op the GOTA station and talk to new people when any show up. And we have new people show up.

Yeah, lucky enough. If you want, you can bitch about the ARS. Or you could do something about it.

Just like you should! I'm amazed by the number of hams that seem to thing that the ARRL has to agree with all their personal opinions. I wonder how many of those type are married! 8^)

I wonder how many of the priveliges we enjoy - and many take for granted - in the ARS, would be around if not for the ARRL.

Your SIG says it all. An EXTRA in NO CODE INTERNATIONAL? I see you are a joiner. The more you belong to the better it is.

Help insure the survival and prosperity of ham radio? I think not. Insure the life of the ARRL and manufacturers? YES! No code is killing ham radio. See you on channel 22 good buddy.

Most of the NCI Directors are extras, of their national equivalent thereof.
One has DXCC CW only. What's your point?

> I see you are a joiner. The more you belong to the better it is.

I am ACTIVE in the things I've listed, except for TAPR. I am into digital communications but have not been active in TAPR projects for a number of reasons. However, I am VERY active in all of the others. (I didn't list my local club/RACES/ARES ...) So, it's not a

"the more you belong to the better it is" thing. What's your point?

> Help insure the survival and prosperity of ham radio? I think not.
> Insure the life of the ARRL and manufacturers? YES! No code is killing > ham radio.

Were it not for the no-code tech license since 1990, I'd bet we'd have about 1/2 the number of licensed hams in the US that we have now.
(and commercial interests would be better positioned to take some of our prime spectrum for lack of use)
So, how is no code "killing ham radio" ???

> See you on channel 22 good buddy.

Sorry, you'll have to find someone else to talk to on your favorite frequency.
I don't have any equipment that will transmit there. (But I do have 3 rigs that cover all of the amateur bands (except the 5 channels at 5 MHz) from 160m-70cm, all modes, and can be run without AC mains power - main station rig, mobile (I'm in the process of installing that rig in a new vehicle), and a QRP station I use for backpack/travel use.)

How many (ham band) rigs do you have? Can you run for extended periods (weeks or more, if need be) without commercial power? How active and well-prepared are you?

Oh, you're just trolling? That's become abundantly clear ... why not try another stream? I think the bites are about to dry up here.

Exactly. Working from within is generally the most effective way to bring about real, long-term change. However too many other people just want to be back seat drivers or focus on a single policy they don't like and "throw out the baby with the bathwater" so to speak.

Absolutely. Break time usually finds the newcomers making a beeline to the oldtimers and lively discussions about items they need help with. Several of us are on an "Elmer's phone list", all of us regular talk to new people over the air and give help, and several of us regularly teach classes with many others putting in a little help at one or more sessions of a class.

None as the ARS would have remained closed down after World War I. There was no intent on the government part to ever re-establish those privileges. While this is in the distant past, we don't have to look too far back to see loss of spectrum and proposals from the government for loss of spectrum.

You're right, Georgie-Doug; we love to see you expose your intimate knowledge of these things. It's quite an education! And we sit here and laugh at you, just as we always have.

You cried and whined most about CB stuff in the newsgroup so guess what? For 2004 there is a lot more on the way. Read it and weep. You are powerless. You prove it every time you post here, you limp wristed fairy.

What is with all this antikclown stuff and the homosexual talk?

It is ALL traced back to:
Doug Adair, N8WWM..taped on several occasions and busted by the FCC for jamming the Toledo Amateur Club's Repeater on more than one occasion.

George Busch,,wa3moj..Dogie's numero one cheerleader and supporter, extremely fond of homosexuals and related talk.

Frank Gilliland..N7VCF..foul mouthed, chicken choker of the group, forger, and pantywaste. Severe emotional atrophy and poor self-esteem. NG liar and punchclown.

Leland C. Scott, Kc8LDO, a nocode that can't pass the code test who has a severe inferiority complex. He was caught by a local and taped on the freeband. Has threatened many ng's participants with acts of violence.

Couple of 10 meter radios coverted with a couple of low power linears will do the job perfectly. You get quiet frequencies on the freeband and at times won't even need the linear. Piss on the repeaters, not enough privacy for what you want.

One aspect of almost all hobbies" is the cost to play which often results in an older cross-section of participants.
The same is true for antique cars, model railroading, etc.
Add to that the available "free time" which most older folks, especially retirees, have.

May I, Bill?

While I do not think No-Code Int'l. is "killing" ham radio, I do believe it is fostering a bad mindset.

If there were truly no no-code AR license available, I'd agree that the Morse code exam is a barrier to those who neither possess the "Morse aptitude" (For lack of a better term.) nor wish to utilize it OTA. However, there's been a no-code ticket available for over a decade now...with some pretty generous RF real estate and power limitations I might add.

IMHO, No-Code Int'l. has:

1. Encouraged the idea that it is preferable to lower the requirements through mass petition rather than encourage individuals to strive toward higher achievement. Some refer to it as "lowering the bar."

2. Made the notion of more privileges via higher achievement appear as if it's fundamentally wrong. If one wishes to upgrade, then meet the requirements necessary to achieve that upgrade. (Not just the requirements we want to meet.)

I've read enough posts here and on the countless code vs. no-code articles on the various ham radio web forums (As well as the actual RM petitions and their respective comments.) to confidently say that neither side can claim an overwhelming numerical advantage over the other. So I think it's safe to say that not all ascribe to the "barrier" notion.

What will happen? Well, the squeaky wheel gets the oil so I think we can be reasonably assured of the elimination of Element 1...at least for Technician "+" privies. Personally, I'm prouder to have achieved rather than squeaked.

The bites don't seem to drying up at all. I found a few nibbles yet.
The Extras on the no code board have to 5wpm Extras. Couldn't be real Extras that had at least one exam in front of a FCC examiner. Passed at least one test at a real FCC examination site. Actually learned radio theory.
The radios I own are not your concern. I will say I own enough to operate all bands and modes. Can stay active as long as some kind of power is still available.Also have had a Ham ticket long enough to know exactly what the ARRL has really done with the incentive crap from the 60's. Remember, it was Maxim not the ARRL thst got the frequencies back after WW 1. Maxim was a mover and shaker, unlike the deadheads in there now---The Good Ole Boy Club! You guys keep nibbling

Twist,

He mentioned 'handheld'. He didn't say 'radio in a vehicle'. I suspect trying to walk around with a handheld, a linear amp, and four Sears Die-Hards in a backpack might prove uncomfortable :)

15 to 20 miles is going to be very tough, unless one of the handhelds is located up four or five hundred feet in the air. The antenna and ground system (or, rather, lack thereof) is going to doom any 27 MHz handheld. MURS would have a good chance, as long as one of those units is up hundreds of feet in the air. FRS is unlikely to have the erp to make the distance (certainly not a reliable job) even if one of the handhelds was up 400 or 500 feet in the air. About the only choice I see is a tech license and using a repeater. The key here is 'handheld'. However, if Sarge is willing to use a radio in a car, things change a bit. MURS would likely make 15 miles with a decent antenna and tower at the base and a decent 5/8 wave antenna on the car.

Call it whatever you want. I guess the states "lowered" the bar when they stoped testing new drivers on manual gearbox autos.
The reality is the morse test is past its prime...and the entire body of international countries have seen fit to eliminate morse as an international treaty element.

I see it as fundamentally wrong when the added priviliges
have no rational link to the added/higher achievement attained.

How about my Yeasu FT-847 multiband multi mode rig
at my apartment, a Icom IC-706MKIIG multiband multi mode rig in my old van (both rig and van are being currently replace), and the Yeasu FT-817

At least he has the balls to admit to operating on the "Charlie" frequencies as I mentioned. Now all he has to do is come clean about the rest of it.

Or prove other wise.

Why waste my money on a CB, or one of those "export rigs", when for a few hundred more bucks I can have it all? 160m, 80/75m, 60m (with mod), 40m, 30m, 20m, 17m, 15m, 12m, 10m, 6m, 2m, and 70cm. Rig has crystal filters, built in DSP, noise blanker, AM, FM (normal and narrow), USB, LSB, digital modulation ability, auto control of external antenna tuner etc. All in a box about the size of your typical CB. Oh, and the power output too, 100 watts sideband and FM up to 6m, 50 watts sideband and on 2m, and 20 watts sideband and FM on 70cm. And there is more.

Yep, the dumbing down of America. The masses can't pass the test so we will make the test easier. Notice how they skirt the issue of having passed any test in front of a FCC examiner. The VEC program is another farce. Why not put the little piece of paper in a corn flakes box. At least you would have breakfast.

You can get a pair of communicators that are good from ship to surface.
We use them all the time on landing parties.
They work very well.

This is an excellent point, Bill! And the answer is YES, they did! I have a wife and kid that cannot drive a standard transmission auto or truck. I can drive standard as well as automatic transmissioned vehicles. Who knows more?

Got a time machine?

I can imagine the dropping of CB licensing bringing about a small increase,
but nothing major.
I have already seen the licensing changes mentioned on a motoring related Website, so there could be a bit of a market open up in mobile CBs again once the licence has gone.

Even new prices are quite low, when you compare the 80 channel sets to the £100+ that the 40 channel ones cost in late 1981 and early 1982.
CB has followed the usual product life cycle concept... it just went through the stages rather quickly. However, now and then people suddenly start going for some old craze again, like skateboards or Yoyos... so who knows.

If people get tired of throwing money at mobile 'phone companies (who are raking in millions), and see the possibilities of CB for general chatter, then things could pick up.
But the CB businesses need to start advertising beyond the few existing users, and start targeting those who do not have one, those who may not have even been born when they became legal here.

Regards,

Peter.

My observation is as substantiated as yours. You can't prove anything.
Regarding cost to play, Ham radio only costs what you want it to cost.
I have put together a station for under $100 US. Not new and certainly not the station I really wanted but it did work and I did QSO many other stations. Cost is not a factor. Free time is what you want of it. At 20 I had time if I wanted to take it and at 50 I can still find time for the important things or what is important at this time.
Regarding costs, ther lays part of the problem. In the 60's I always wanted that Drake '4' line. Couldn't afford it. Settled on a used equipment and homebrewed many accy's. Todays out of the box operator couldn't solder a connection if their life depended on it. Can't trouble shoot a broken receiver or transmitter. Can't draw a circiut for a simple crystal controlled transmitter, can't figure the length of a half wave dipole, can't scrounge parts, etc.....

Funny you should mention that, Bill. You see, I took my first driver's license exam in Jamaica, W.I. where, if you tested in a car equipped with an automatic transmission, your driving privilidges were limited to vehicles equipped likewise. It was not really about the "priviliges," but about safety and all understood this. (Though we ALL bemoaned the dreaded ramp test.) So yes, I suppose you did "guess" correctly although the analogy is not quite appropriate to the ARS.

Don't take my word for it. Ask the poor slob who got rear-ended by that person who borrowed his/her friend's car and, in a panic stop, mistook the clutch pedal for the brake pedal when the dirver ahead of him/her stopped short. Actually Bill, I was that poor slob about ten years ago...so maybe you should take my word for it. I let him slide though as the damage was minimal with no injuries. Besides, why make us all pay via increased insurance premiums. Hmm, 1500 Watts on VHF/UHF...perhaps it wasn't a bad analogy after all?

> The reality is the morse test is past its prime...and the entire body

The reality is that CW is the second most popular mode in the ARS today and is a part of the big picture. Let's also not forget that we're talking about the 5-wpm exam for upgrade within, not for entry into, the ARS.

Does it make any difference at all. The point is that there is no reason for states to test on manual gearbox autos because 95% of new vehicles are automatic. Those that want to will learn to drive a manual without any licensing intervention needed from the state.

So how many rear-enders have no-coders had while using CW?
The anology is a joke. There is ZERO element of safety involved with CW knowledge/testing. Had there been any relavent safety aspect to justify CW testing the FCC would have acknowledged it.

So how come a no-code tech isn't banned from using CW on the only two all-CW only bands. Use does not justify the requirement since there's nothing detrimental about learning on the air at even a one word per minute, look it up on a table rate.

Ooop. Sorry.. 90 watt amp is for 2-meter... No amp here for 27MHz... Regardless... 15-20 mile range HT to HT is NOT going to happen under "real world" conditions. Closest one could get is the PTT feature offered on the newer generations of cell phones. And even THEN, you're looking a difficulties regarding coverage areas, operations inside of structures with large amounts of metal, etc...

My bad! My only excuse is being road weary..I missed the "handheld" the first time around until I came to Raymond's post, and I certainly assumed he was longing for mobile use as oposed to something truly portable.

Agreed. As you astutely illustrated, I was thinking along the lines of a half-decent (?) handheld attached to a decent mobile antenna with a tiny bit of juice,,,my bad was interpreting portable as mobile,,,,not the same thing.

Why waste my money on a CB, or one of those "export rigs", when for a 40m, 30m, 20m, 17m, 15m, 12m, 10m, 6m, 2m, and 70cm. Rig has crystal filters, built in DSP, noise blanker, AM, FM (normal and narrow), USB, LSB, digital modulation ability, auto control of external antenna tuner etc. All in a box about the size of your typical CB. Oh, and the power output too, 100 watts sideband and FM up to 6m, 50 watts sideband and on 2m, and 20 watts sideband and FM on 70cm. And there is more.

I have a Maxon HCB-10C handheld radio I bought a while back at Wally World so that I could monitor very short-range CB traffic from my vehicle without hooking up the real CB I use just for long trips.

It worked fine for a while, and then I lost the sheath off the rubber duck antenna, at which point it didn't pick up any thing at ALL except maybe some hiss. Assuming a bad antenna was the culprit, I just bought the RS telescoping center-loaded antenna (cat. no. 20-006). Same deal - nothing but hiss.

Given that this little radio was pretty short-range to begin with, is it worth having repaired?

Anyone want this thing for parts for free (except shipping)?

Thanks,

The Pro-510XL's are a rugged radio, they can take quite the abuse. At least all the ones I delt with. I have tuned several. Considering there isn't a whole lot to tune. But they work well for what they are.

As for the Car radio atenna to CB converter box. Those really don't work all that hot, and range is highly limited. Not to mention depending on the cars antenna location it can be Highly directional too.

Well, the first thing would be getting back on the air after WW1. Some that in "200 Meters and Down".

But remember I said I wonder. Wasn't really claiming anything. 8^)

I am thinking of getting a Twin Trucker for my Ford Explorer...

I would mount the antennas to the roof rack and run a ground wire since the racks have a rubber gasket to prevent leaks. I also want to use springs at the base in case I get some low branches etc.

Will the springs hinder the quality of the signal? If so, is it marginal?
Is the ground wire idea ok?

Rinning a Cobra CB.

My XYL refuses to parallel park, as do a number of others. She also doesn't do three point turns. Your logic would eliminate those from the test also. A person CAN drive for years and years, and if they do things a certain way, they don't have to PP or TPT. She can drive 100 percent of the time without it. Of course the odd emergency situation may come up.

Bill, if you don't want a Morse code test, that is fine, but you shouldn't use a flawed argument to support it. 8^)

This is your analogy, Bill, not ours. I don't think the analogy fits, I think people should be required to test on standard, or at least not be allowed to drive a standard unless tested for it.

one of two answers:

1. It's a goofed up rule

2. It's a good way to get Tech's to practice Morse code.

Either is probably irrelevant because most tech's that aren't planning on upgrading probably aren't all that interested in Morse code at all,
and there are plenty of goofed up rules.

In Michigan, you will fail your driving exam if you can't parallel park and do a 3 point turn. They are mandatory test elements. You can fail one but not both.

The rack isn't the best place to mount them, the ground is marginal at best.
Can you get 9' separation, or close to it, on the explorer?
Co-Phased antennas need to be run at 1/4 wave separation, to get the front-back pattern they are designed to deliver. When you deviate from that, the pattern turns to slop.

Springs won't affect it much, just reduce the antenna length to compensate.

I know what you mean about height.. On my current rig, the front antenna is a $150 Diamond Super-gainer that tops out around 10' off the road. That one is too heavy for any single mag mount, and if you did, when it falls over, it will break the coils. It dosen't bend either.. It just rips the roof out if you hit something.

The Cobra 6000 is on a mag mount in the back center, which is working fine.
On the Explorer, I mounted it through the roof, near the back, with a large-footprint bulkhead mount to spread the stress. There is room, up under the header back there, to accomodate the connector and such.

The roof metal is better on the explorer though, than my current rig.
Here's what I had to do, to mount a ham antenna that's probably lighter than what you're considering, on the Expedition.

And I may have overstated your comment; what you said was that you >

"encouraging" people to use them. Mea culpa.

You should be able to remove the head liner and find the bolts that mount the roof mount through the roof. Run a section of braid between the bolt and the body, try to keep it as short as you can.

That isn't true Dave, Twin Truckers are fed in phase. There isn't any front to back ratio. When mounted 1/4 wave apart on a vehicle, perpendicular to the axis of the vehicle, the pattern is more oval shaped inline with the vehicle. If you decrease the spacing the pattern becomes more circular or less directional. There is nothing wrong with that, but you could obtain the same pattern with a single antenna. But it wouldn't look as nice as 2 antennas swaying back and forth.

Oh, I don't know, Billï¿½let's see. Let's ask that fellow who just passed Element 2 and just couldn't wait to get OTA. So he bought a nifty little dual-bander, a "killer" Mirage amp, and pumped a few hundred Watts or VHF or UHF RF into his nice long Yagi (You know, the one marketed as a "Boomer.") pointed toward a distant repeaterï¿½right through the second floor of his neighbor's house. Heck, he mounted it on the mast that formerly hosted a TV antennaï¿½that ought to be good enough, right?

After all, I'm sure that someone who is so bothered at the notion of having to learn and be tested on a skill he deems irrelevant to how he plans on operating, that he joins an "international" movement to remove said offensive taskï¿½would certainly be concerned and cognizant of any harmful RF his equipment might be radiating. Heck, he did pass that 35 multiple-guessï¿½er, I meant choice test that proclaimed him "ready." I am fairly certain though that his mode of choice was not CW. ;-)

> The analogy is a joke.

Actually, I am pretty much joking around with you, Bill. (Lighten up.) HOWEVER, the potential for physical harm is there and somewhere the above scenario may be playing out as you read these wordsï¿½and that's no joke.

> There is ZERO element of safety involved with CW knowledge/testing.

Agreed. It's the mindset I find kinda alarming. Folks that have no problem with putting forth the effort to advance in their endeavors are more likely to exercise that same "work ethic" wrt conscientiously ensuring the safe operation of their station. Conversely, folks that would rather complain about having to put forth some effort (Let's be honest, the effort is rather minimal re. Element 1.) to advance themselves are perceived to be "corner-cutters." (Some might even call themï¿½"slackers.")

BIG BIG DISCLAIMER: I am quite aware that this is not true for all no-code Technicians and/or NCI members, HOWEVER, all it takes is one poor soul getting a cranial soaking from some dunderhead who wants to bombard that repeater to validate the concern. Lest the repeater folks feel offended, there is a club here on LI devoted to simplex operation who support VHF/UHF operation with a tad more than the few hundred Watts mentioned above.

> Had there been any relevant safety > aspect to justify CW testing the FCC would have acknowledged it.

The spring becomes part of your wavelength, no big deal. I'm not sure that you'll gain anything with the twins, except if you're in Texas and also add some bull horns to your hood. Then the gun rack looks better. ;)

I'd put a single Wilson roof mount, right in the middle if I were
you. (not the magnet, although they work well too) ymmv

Again I may be wrong, but most of the time when I do that it is in response to a troll like the one "Do hams tip".

And then it's to show how silly the stereotypes are: "smelly" hams vs leaky trailer and rusty ole Pontiacs with twin 102" whips. I don't really mean to insult anybody.

That's what I was referring to, but I was in a rush, and wasn't clear.
The intended app is to concentrate power along the (presumably straight) road, in front, and in back of you. As you depart from 1/4 wave spacing, that deteriorates.

If you decrease the spacing the

It gets pretty spiky as well, which sucks.

Dee that is Steve Oarks from Medina OH he is trolling in ham groups now when not trolling in rec.radio.cb. Of course he complains a lot about hams but that is his hypocratic nature. You see how he barged

Hey Dee D. you see how he operates he is a troll and not only that he is an illegal freebander and HF bootlegger. Ask him about his Collins S-Line he operates without a license and why it is set up to transmit all over the spectrum he will go quiet real fast.

Apparently the state DOES see a continuing need for PP or TPT... but does NOT see any public purpose, safety issue, or licensing ommision by not testing for manual gearboxes.

> Bill, if you don't want a Morse code test, that is fine, but you

The point is that there is ZERO harm if a new ham never passes a code test and then decides to get on the air and jump into a code QSO to learn while doing.

The state apparently thinks the same is true for manual gearbox driving and many other aspects of driving which aren't tested at all. I can and do drive an extended cab PU-truck pulling a 5000 lb trailer, combined length about 40 feet.

To the best of my knowledge, no state
tests anyone for that combination of skills.
All that is needed is a regular driver's license.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

Which standard, should there be separate licenses for 3 speed column, 4 speed, 5 speed, 6 speed, which shift pattern?

Apparently there is insufficient state concern to worry about passing a license test with automatic and then getting behind the wheel of a manual gearbox vehicle. It's been that way for decades now with no ill results.

Why wouldn't it be a good way to get anone on HF to practice also if there's no code test at all? That's the point, there is no rational justification for a CW mode skill test. The FCC has addressed and dismissed every known pro-code argument...as has the ITU also since Code is gone now as a mandatory treaty requirment.

I'd throw it away, and look for a better radio. There's good deals on used mobile rigs that will work much better anyway.

What are you trying to do with it, if it -was- working?

And none of this would have happened if only he had known code? Give me a break.

Answer the question asked...The question is, for those that need clarity: IF someone became a General or Extra with NO code skills, and then decided to learn code on-the-air, what's the harm, danger, etc?

The potential for harm, physical or otherwise is NOT tied to anyone's knowledge of code. THAT is the point.

The "effort" has nothing to do with code testing. The goal of ending code testing is based solely on the lack of any continued need for code skills to be mandated for any HF access. There was, in the past, a rational reason or set of reasons for code knowledge. Those days are gone.
It is that simple.

Again, this dialog isn't about the validity or not of current writtens. My point(s) here are focused only on code testing. PERIOD!

Sorry to burst your bubble, but its the only FCC we have. Indeed, had the FCC seriously errored in their past decion(s) regarding need or non-need for code skills testing, then I'm amazed you and others haven't filed court action to stop the FCC.

If new ham goes OnTheAir to learn code, does that trouble you?
What part of amateur spectrum is considered highway vs

This will sound stupid to serious CBers, but I have a mobile rig with a magnetic mount antenna stored in a metal box behind the seat. I don't want it hooked up all the time - only on long trips. So I thought a portable would be a good alternative for daily commutes - I don't need a lot of range, but it's good to be able to hear the truckers if I run into a traffic jam. And it can sit on the seat next to me with a minimum of setup and fuss.

Oh I understand that application, they're golden on road trips.

A cheap Uniden is like $45 new, add a cigarette lighter plug and a cheap mag mount antenna, and you're good to go.

Rock on.

When u co-phase antennas you split the power between two antennas,
co-phasing will give you a 3db gain, (when done correctly) 1/4~ antennas HAVE to be placed a 1/4~ apart or else the near-fields will overlap and any gain you hoped to produce be lost.
Don't waste your time my friend, you will get better results with 1 antenna mounted in the center of the roof!
Go with a Wilson Lil Wil.
Co-phased antennas look cool but don't work and will actually decrease the performance unless set-up correctly.
a 1/4~ is approximately 9ft. or 102".

Radio shit Shack, should have it, it's only a hot and ground, two wires. Try to find one that opens up with a screw, that way you can fix it if it gets tugged. I don't like the ones with a rivet thru them, although I've drilled out the rivet a few times.

They might be at best buy, or circuit city too.

why bring david allen coe into this conversation??? leave homes out of it....by the way jerry i went and saw cold mountain.....the movie sucked and it was a waste of $8.00 but i did see where you get that southern mode of speech that you like to mimick from time to time on here......thinking i guess that somehow that is a putdown of truckers........well who cares right??? but the only thing i learned is that the way you try and be funny mimicking truck drivers talking is nothing more than sounding like you hillbillys in the carolinas
.....nothing more and nothing less.......do you think it would be appropriate to , ah i believe the term you use is:
'snicker'.......right about now????

....seems some of the restaurants felt they had to remind some patrons of that, specifically over the weekend of the Dayton Hamvention.

(I wonder why...? grin :)

I guess they wanted to avoid an argument from some 'groups' or 'seasonal itinerant patrons' who might have thought they were getting scammed on their bill or something else. :)

I also noted VERY amusingly, that the motel across the street from us had posted a 15" by 15" sign in their office window, reminding his 'patrons' for Hamvention weekend, that there was a strict maximum limit of two adults occupancy to each single and four adults to each double room. (I guess the indian owner got tired of seeing 8 or 12 stinky overweight middle-aged white men, leaving a 20 by 20 foot motel room carrying sleeping bags and leaving a mess like modern-day gypsy traders whilst only 4 were actual paying patrons...)

I'm not talking about "knowing" the code, Bill. Very few people actually "know" the code from preparing for and passing Element 1. I'm addressing the self-discipline required to accept the challenge and meet the requirements to upgrade one's privileges rather than complain about how one never plans on using it. I'm not much into the newer digital modes nor am I particularly interested in Satellite assisted communications, however, if the path to upgrading my license/privies leads through some learning and testing re. said subjectsï¿½no problem.
(Psst, it's a character issue.)

None. But I suspect you are deliberately missing my point. The code skills themselves are irrelevant. You could substitute any actual challenging aspect of upgrading one's ticket in it's place and the same folks would likely bemoan it. In this "I want it now" culture, many don't want to have to actually put forth much effort to earn their ticket. I'd be all for dropping Element 1 altogether AND doing away with the published Q&A pools. How about just a study guide? Oh yeah, let's make Element 2 50 questions while we're at it.

Sorry, Bill. That may be the point you'd like to key on, (No pun intended) but that's not the point I'm stressing. I agree 100% with the sentence above. It's the slacker-mentality (Sorry, time to shoot from the hip.) that I deplore. If we really want to get young folks involved in AR, this is not a principle I'd like to see them learn. If you complain enough, the bar will be lowered for you. As a youth, the concept of achievement (As well as a well-rounded education.) was constantly stressed and I thank God I had folks (Parents, teachers, guidance counselors, etc.) that cared enough to strongly encourage us to achieve rather complain. I feel so sorry for the kids that are recently got that curve on their Regents exam rather than enroll in a summer program to increase their knowledge to the appropriate level. Some will perform poorly in college and if enough of them complain that their college curriculum is unfairly difficult, perhaps that bar will be lowered as well. Interestingly enough, I now tend to seek out those Elmers who will push me to become a better operator. IMHO, they have my best interests at heart.

I disagree, I truly believe that it's almost all about the required effort. Again, drop those published Q&A pools and watch the squirming commence. Folks just don't want to be made to have to sit down for 20 mins., twice daily, for a month or two and memorize 43 Morse code characters.

There still is. It's the second most popular mode in use in the ARS today.

Again, my dialogue is addressing the character issue involved re.
squeaking vs. achieving. Do you really want to focus on the code test, Bill. Quite frankly, Element 1 is NOT much of a code test to focus on and very rarely leaves anybody with any level of OTA proficiency. So you see, it's not the actual code knowledge or lack thereof that makes for the dangerous scenarioï¿½it's the associated mentality of those who'd rather squeak than achieve that can possibly lead to harm.

Quite frankly, Billï¿½I'm no big fan of the FCC. You are, however, correctï¿½they're the only game in town. Do I think they make mistakes?
Sure, but I'm not sufficiently motivated to file a court action against them. A few letters to my elected representatives and some recreational debate on R.R.A.P suffices.

Trust me, my bubble is very much intact. I came into AR approx. three years ago pretty much oblivious to the code vs. no-code debate. All I knew was that I wanted to be an ARO and operate HF. Like I've said before, remove the whing and passion from both sides of the debate and the obvious remains like a purple elephant in the living room.

Not at all. I consider myself a relatively new ham and I continue to increase my code proficiency OTA. After all, the license is really just a ticket to learn.

> What part of amateur spectrum is considered highway vs
> non-highway?

Thanks for makin' it easy, Bill. How about the CW only portion of 2-meters? I think that sounds like a groovy place to practice some seriously slow code with a code-buddy. Then, if I like it, perhaps I'd pass Element 1 and hop on the Novice/Tech "+" sub-bands to increase my proficiency. Thos are some examples of "rural routes."

The highway, hmmï¿½ Would you really encourage a brand newbie to hop on 7026 kHz and mix it up w/the 35-wpm+ crowd, Bill? Think they'd feel encouraged? I've had a couple of ops QRS from 20-wpm down to 19-wpm for me and lemme tell ya, it wasn't fun. Conversely, I have had guys switch to some really nice Farnsworth style 25-wpm character speed spaced apart to about 8-wpm and an hour and a half ragchew QSO just breezed on by with very little effort or tension.

There's only one worse troll (and @$$hole): Georgie-Doug BuschAdair, of Allentoledo, Pennsyhio. He has to hide behind dozens of fake addys and nics to keep up the level of trolling he does. The only thing he can post about is his homosexuality, and he obviously hates himself.

I have a Little Will mag mount antenna already, the one I use with my mobile radio. Any recommendations for a nice handheld?

And assuming the new HH comes with a rubber duck antenna, I may experiment with the RS telescoping antenna and see if that's good enough for my purposes. If I'm going to use a mag mount antenna, I might as well hook up the big radio.

If it's a fairly mint Clear Channel Corp Ranger AR-3500 100W version should be able to get $200-$250. Owned two at one time, was a great radio. Still have one stashed away in the closet with less than 10 hours use making it practically NOS.

Translation, I did it, so should everyone else.
Using your philosophy, the FCC should never change requirements...
even when a specific requirement no longer has justification.

No problem there and I don't oppose "knowledge" questions about CW the mode. The issue is the stand alone skill test for morse which is a separate pass fail element. NO other mode is set on that pedestal.

You'd rather we continue mandating a skill test for a mode that is all but totally gone from the world of radio communications except within amateur use? Again, per my comment above,
NO other mode has its own unique test. That's the point.

My my, I guess the end of all amateur upgrading and new learning will be tied to the end of code testing. You must have really been disappointed when states stopped testing drivers on manual gearboxes.
For me it was no problem. When my kids wanted to drive they learned or they had no car to drive as all our vehicles had been standard shift. Those that want to learn will. Trying to claim some great philosophical tie of ending code testing being the start of an end to new/old hams continuing to learn is just bunk.

So let me get this straight. You wantis some undefined, unmeasurable amount of effort that the FCC should be trying to have in place for any license level?

> Again, drop those published Q&A pools and watch the squirming

It will never happen and I don't care if it did. The old ARRL and AMECO learners guides were just as easy to memorize sufficiently to pass. I did the General test in the late 50s exactly that way.

> Folks just don't want to be made to have to sit down for 20

Irrelavent. The point is NOT the effort, and the FCC has already chimed in on the. The test must exist or go based on a clear and understood need for the knowledge. EFFORT is not now and never has been recognized as a valid test requirement determinator.

Yet that failed to convince the FCC and, more recently the ITU. The point is that those bodies recognize that no one needs to know morse just to be issued a license. Those that wish to engage in morse contacts are free to learn morse and use it.
The issue is solely the test requirement and has no
link to actual morse use by anyone.

That's just the old tripe argument that has convinced no one.
The rony of your claim is that most of us that are the nucleus of NCI activity had already done the morse test at 5, 13 and/or 20 wpm. Nothing to gain now if code testing goes altogether.

The FCC removed the winning/passion when they issued the R&O for 98-143. If you haven't read that yet, I suggest you do.

Exactly. So then why the need for code skill testing...oh,
I remember, the FCC must impose a mystical quantity of effort for all ham licensing.

IF they did so, so what? They'd either make a QSO or not.
Nothing ventured, nothing gained. If they felt out of place they'd shift to calmer waters.

To each his own. What ever floats your boat. I see no problem with newbie hams doing morse at slow speeds anywhere morse is allowed as long as they do so within the rules.

I'm not sure which group you're posting from Steve, so I didn't trim the groups. Once I know, I'll trim 'em out. cb and shortwave don't need all this stuff (though shortwave listeners should be VERY concerned about BPL.

FEMA has expressed "grave concerns"

DERA has noted:

"DERA concludes that serious interference to and disruption of critical emergency communications systems in several licensed services throughout North America would almost certainly result from BPL implementation as currently proposed," DERA's comments said. Endorsing FEMA's earlier remarks, DERA said proposed BPL systems don't just pose a risk of interference, they've already been shown to "actually cause harmful interference to licensed radio services."

AMRAD has provided data that suggests that a Operating Ham within a half mile radius will likely knock out BPL. The service is simply too susceptable to interference.

from ARRL site:
AMRAD found that at a distance of just over one-half mile, data transfer ceased in the face of a 100-W signal on 3980 kHz from a mobile transmitter. Adjacent to the test property, AMRAD said data transfer ceased in all but one instance at a transmitter power of just 4 W in the BPL operating band of from 4 to 21 MHz.

back to me:

So BPL is a big source of interference to devices it isn't allowed to interfere with, and it looks like a QRP or CB rig with a good antenna can knock it out, but certainly a 100 watt rig will take BPL internet out.

As I figured, the BPL internet access concept is going down fast.

A test of BPL was run in Alabama. A engineer friend of mine told me it was not coming up to what was advertised in Birmingham. Repeaters were needed way too often, thus jacking up the expense.

Unless the FCC is totally braindead I think BPL, as proposed will die by itself. However what they want is INCREASE the power of BPL over and above what is presently allowed under part 15.

They may take that route. We shall see.

Kinda of gives a bit of argument:

Why tip for expected average service?

Tips are a reward for exceptional service, not average service.

If the waitress went out of her way to provide extra service other than carrying a plate of food or a cup of coffee (which is what she does anyway), why tip?

Tips are for service over and beyond the call of duty, such as being a bit more friendly to visitors, rather than the run of the mill service. (Take the order and deliver the food and drink). A tip isn't given to a waitress that is crabby because her boyfriend came home drunk as a skunk and still has to get the brakes on his 68 Ford pickup truck fixed.

Tips are an option for extra service, not a wage.

I'll tip if I get very nice friendly service, but will not tip if the service is average. I tip 10% (that way I don't have to do much arithmetic, but will round up to the nearest dollar.

For taxis,let's say for a $16.00 fare, I'll give the driver $20.00 and he can keep the change if he gets me to where I'm goin' safely and efficiently, the cab is well kept and clean. I've been in cabs that should have been taken off the road, and the cab driver gone through a wash, rinse and spin cycle a few times.

As for ham people being stinky and overweight, the same can be said for any other group of people. Be it tennis players, doctors, lawyers, business owners.

If an empty helmet waitress writes in that ham people are stinky, give her a tip as in a written one on a folded peice of paper that says on the front

"Thanks for the food, it was great! Here's your tip:

Folded up in a square as an envelope, but inside is this:

If you go Seattle, Ivar's Seafood Restaurant has the best seafood in Washington State. There's one on the Seattle waterfront, and if you're taking the ferry to Whidbey Island, there's an Ivar's restaurant at Mulkiteo."

As for this Linda Sue, one wonders if she has a hick boyfriend with a shaggly moustace, keg belly and an '83 Ford F-150 with a gun rack in the back , has a bit of rust on it and works at the local mechanic shop as a tool monkey. She's probably a country music lover as well, and they both live in a trailer on the southside of town.

I tip a great majority of the time. Some times I may only have enough to buy the food with as I've not planned ahead to dine out. Any tip depends on how much I buy depending on how hungry I am and what on the menu appeals to me given what I have in my pockets to carry me through the total. I dine out on a whim most of the time. IF I have the cash, I pay 20% of my total or whatever close to it I can make. IF I don't have it, I at least thank them. I do NOT tip when drinking at a bar, as they are paid and don't do much outside of opening a bottle or filling a glass and setting in front of you then collecting your $1 or so for it. I don't use cabs, so no worries there. Went to a new Barber - New Years Eve. Haircut - $10. He made sure it was to perfection. I tipped him $2 which he thanked me for at least 3 times. I do NOT empty my wallet or coins of all just to tip. I do what I can - up to the 20%. I can't speak for ALL hams, but this HAM DOES TIP WHEN POSSIBLE. Like anything else, this smells of placing all in one barrel. Just because "a" ham doesn't tip, doesn't make us all "cheap". G.W.

According to independent analysts, BPL will not cost any less and will probably cost more. While they may have low introductory rates to get their foot in the door, after the first few months it will go up. Afterall the need to install a LOT of additional hardware to do this. They can't just feed the signal in. In addition, you will need special hardware in your home computer to be able to access the signal. Finally, the signal will be easy to pick up since the lines are totally unshielded so that the problem of identity theft, among other things, will be even more serious.

rec.radio.cb.......and all the keyclowns were quick to agree with him:

The same thing happened on the UK CB group, where someone used a nicname and an Amateur started whining about using an Amateur callsign which was not their's.

What they fail to realise is that Amateur callsigns have no meaning outside of Amateur radio - their sole use of that series of letters and numbers only relates to use on Amateur radio.

Also, they are not the only use of a series of letters and numbers.
Not
all such strings are Ham callsigns - specially on a CB newsgroup.

Peter.

FYI Speaking of identity theft the person posting as WA3MOJ is not WA3MOJ but a CBer from rec.radio.cb attempting to "hassle" hams that were you I'd contact the authorities and let them deal with it.

one thing about the john lee walker band, those guys were true outlaws in the real world. one of those guys was featured in the skynyrd book "an oral history" jhis name was john haury. he was friends with ronnie and the band and they tore up a few bars together. I think he was even busted for shooting a man somewhere in Louisiana and robbing banks in the eighties.
they were all pretty hardcore dopers and needle freaks but man could they jam. anybody know what ever happened to them? I saw them once with skynyrd in west va in 76 and they were awesome but very young and inexperienced, i've always wonmdered what became of them. heroin destroiyed a damn good band!!!!

About 270 people, an all time record, came together to celebrate the 11th annual Pride Erie Picnic at Presque Isle, Beach 11 on June 14, yummy assortment of dishes. There were about 225 people at last year's

JACKSONVILLE, Florida (AP) -- A 2-year-old left alone for nearly three weeks while her mother was behind bars survived by eating mustard, ketchup, rice and raw pasta, police said.

The toddler was watching cartoons when found by her father, police said Monday. She was suffering from malnutrition and was being treated at Wolfson Children's Hospital, police said.

Dakeysha Lee, 22, was charged Monday with child abuse because she didn't let anyone know that her daughter was alone in her apartment, police said. She was jailed Sept. 10 on unrelated charges.

Hey people, found this newsgroup because I wanted to post and get some opinions.

A guy I know used to play and tour with a neo-famous southern rock and roll band in the 70s & early 80s, traveled with folks like Lynyrd Skynyrd, Charlie Daniels, Marshall Tucker, etc, and he lived on the fast lane for a few years, did it all, became a junkie, cleaned up (several times) and did the 12-step thang, all that - and when the southern rock scene fizzled in the early 80s this boy had to clean up his act and get a real job. Welcome to Corporate America.

Well, as a result of his dangerous habits, he has since developed diabetes (Type II) and was diagnosed with neuropathic damage to his sciatic nerve (neurapathy), the worst of his diabetes-related ailments - he went undiagnosed for a long time. Until recently, he hasn't smoked pot since 1986. He now finds that smoking not only eases the discomfort, but also eases the nausea he feels after glucophage and other meds hit his stomach. He used to be a heavy toker:) but now he smokes when he feels the need, which is once or twice a day. He is strongly opinionated to the fact that it does have medicinal qualities - he's proven that it lowers blood sugar and it makes him feel better. He does it only in the privacy of his own home.

Unfortunately, he now works for a major corporation that randomly drug tests, and he knows his number is going to be up one of these times. I would like to hear from anyone in a similiar situation, or anyone with any advice on how to really beat the tests, live the way you want to in Corporate America. Any and all advice would be greatly appreciated, but please spare sarcasm and flames. No time for that - thanks!

I'm also looking for a small (4") LL folder with stag handles, replacing one I lost recently. I went to a knife maker here locally in St. Petersburg FL (Roger Gamble) who made me a custom folder with very handsome stag handles, but it's a bit too big and bulky for the pocket - made to be holstered and he included a very nice leather holster with it. Although I love this knife, its not somethng I can carry to work in my pocket. Prefer liner lock, one hand open, possible with pocket clip on it. Any ideas? Thanks

The one I lost was called the Tactical Folder, but I'll be darned if I can remember the company name...bought it from a catalog called The Edge many years ago...they are no longer making the knife.

Like new Buck Phrobis III military field knife/bayonet with scabbard and pouches as it was sold by Buck. Used once on a fishing trip and been in gunsafe since then. Asking $175 - interested parties can email me directily if you want to see a pic - great knife! Only selling it and other items because I am wanting to buy new ham radio. Offering it here for a few days, if no response you will see it on ebay. You will be very pleased with this knife...

You are either a total fool, or, and this is probably the case..... unworthy of calling yourself a ham. Why you ask? because your a dumbass.

You can still find quite a bit of Coe's stuff on the p2p networks, it's really crude but funny as hell. I was never a big Dice fan.

Attention All: the person posting as WA3MOJ@aol.com
is not wa3moj. Who is doing it is most likely tim nebo aka Tim Nebout, a drug dealer and freebander from LaMarque Texas who bootlegs on the 6 mhz aircraft
comm band and also on ham bands without a license.
If it is not Tim it is Steve Parks of Medina Ohio or Mark Beck of SF California. All these people have an axe to grind against anyone who complains about illegal
radio operation and notice please that none of them have a license. They target hams and pick random call signs like wa3moj or specific people in rrap that they think might rat them out to the FCC etc or if you have a record of supporting legal operation like Leland Scott KC8LDO or even Jerry Oxendine. You may be next these cb outlaws will stop at nothing including threats and harassment.

Well, if you're going to get that many clues, make sure you leave a decent sized tip.. Don't want the clue salesmen in here whining about hams not tipping..

Nobody forges Jerry's name or callsign because he isn't a TROLL. And nobody else "may be next": Only you and DouGay Adair because you > are < TROLLs.

But it's really quite simple, simpleton: You stop and they'll stop. But that's too simple for your drunken mind to comprehend, isn't it?

That's not it at all. The fact is that Morse code IS the second most popular mode in use in the ARS today. IMHO, that in itself is sufficient justification. Remember, we're talking about the 5-wpm test, NOT 13 0r 20.

Is this really an issue at 5-wpm, Bill?

The changes I find acceptable are already in a RM proposal. I've sent multiple letters and/or e-mails to my elected representatives, the entire ARRL leadership, and the FCC. That'll suffice for now, thanks.

YEAH BABY!!! You are THE BEST, Bill...thank you, thank you, thank you! Yes, I would very much "like to continue mandating a skill test for a mode that is all but gone from the world of radio communications EXCEPT WITHIN AMATEUR USE." Thats because it's a skill test for upgrading within, not entry into, the ARS and the mode is the second most popular mode in use in the ARS today. Too easy, Bill.

We both know the manual gearshift analogy really doesn't work, so I'll skip that part. However, on the subject of you kids, weren't you the least bit concerned that some other impatient jackass might choose to jump in his college roomates car and just "wing it" down to the store for a pack of cigarettes? I've seen this at Wagner College in Staten Island. The "down" part refers to "down the hill" to Targee Ave. as cigarette machines were not allowed on campus. This is the jerk who'll say he's sorry over and over for hitting your kid's car. I guess that's why defensive driving is so important. Still...I'd sure be concerned.

No Bill, I want a very defined (Element 1) very measurable (5-wpm) effort for two (Not any.) license levels.

You mean the second most popular mode in use today doesn't rate as a valid test requirement determinator. Gee, we could have one for the first most popular, SSB, but we already know how to talk. That's way the stand-alone, Bill. It's a learned skill that's an unknown coming in. (Unlike speech.)

1. Second most populat mode in use in the ARS today.

2. Unlike speech, this is a new skill that must be acquired.

3. Because an awfully large portion of licensed ARO's want it.

It's like pairing up Tennis partners. A beginning recreational player is usually not paired up with the club pro unless it's for lessons. (Elmer) BTW, I have a confession. My very first AR CW QSO was on 7031 kHz, but it was wuth my Elmer. ;-)

Again, not true. I had mine many many years ago, you said so in previous posts, don't you remember what you post? I don't live, nor have I every lived in SF Ca., so another lie and attempt at deflecting attention from the

No, you used you're call sign, it was your mistake, not someone else's. Leland & Jerry have been on RRCB for more years than you, no one's used there call sign in vain yet that I know of. Again another way of you trying to

We don't require knowledge of second languages just because one or more languages other than English are used by vast numbers of non-USA hams.

Why does mode popularity mandate a separate skill test just because others use it? NO other mode has that special treatment...and, it appears, the FCC understands that.

Of course it is an issue. Any test requirement that can't be justified has no reason to exist...regardless of how much or how little effort may be required.

Yes,

Too bad your argument doesn't hold sway with the FCC. Additionally, a dozen or so other countries have already abandoned morse testing completely. The dominos are falling...it is just a matter of time. The USA fully endorsed the end of mandatory code testing in the treaty.

Do you expect a reversal of mindset on the internal (USA only) position by the FCC?

Other than a rather funny tale of an auto thief wo didn't drive a manual but hijacked a car that was and the bozo lurched the car a couple of times and then stalled it...I have never heard of anyone being a threat to me or my kids because they didn't know how to drive a manual gearbox.
Frankly, if you are worried about that happening, you must lead a very paranoid life. Far greater danger exists from the general driving public who can't handle their vehicles in anything that resembles non-perfect driving conditions.

And when the FCC ends that requirement, what is your Sorry, not everyone talks as you well know. Based on your claim, everyone should at least be able to have a "voice" QSO, because voice

IS the most popular mode...yet there is NO requiremnt that anyone be conversant or have voice skills at all. Yes a significant portion of hams have natural speaking ability, BUT that is NOT true of 100% of hams...yet there is NO requirement at all for speaking ability.

Gross oversimplification and very uninformed viewpoint.
The FCC's goal is to have rules and regulations that make sense. If FCC work were the ONLY driving force, they'd probably end amateur radio completely.

What or how would ending morse result in less work for me and/or other NCI folks that previosuly passed any code test?
We gain nothing.

If you can't find a copy, let me know. I'm pretty sure its on the FCC web pages. It may also be on or have a link to it from the

Failed to convince the FCC...see R&O for 98-143

> 2. Unlike speech, this is a new skill that must be acquired.

Also Failed to convince the FCC...see R&O for 98-143
PLUS, there is no known harm, danger or threat if a ham does NOT know te code and/or if a ham decided to learn and practice on the air even though s/he never took a code test.

> 3. Because an awfully large portion of licensed ARO's want it.

Totally failed to convince the FCC...see R&O for 98-143
The rules and regs of amaeur radio are NOT decided by popular vote of already licensed hams. Even as to a position of actually what percent of already licensed hams might want code testing retained, there is no good data that provides an accurate picture. The last "survey" of any type was done by the ARRL almost 10 years ago. NCI did an analysis of comments filed pro/con when 98-143 was open for comment and which showed the continued drift from support of code testing. That too is now over 5 years ago.

The bottom line, (you can agree or not) is that ever since the concept of no code testing began, the amateur community has not been universally opposed to ending code testing.
From my perspective, the percent of hams that absolutly want code testing to stay is an ever decreasing percentage. Exactly what that percentage isn't known...but, if a survey was held again, I'm sure it is less today than it was a 5 years ago and will be even less again a year from now since newcomers are 'generally' not proponents of code testing and as older hams which constitute the bulk of code testing support die off. That may seem crass, but that's the truth as I see it.

In the end, again, the FCC isn't going to make any determination to keep code testing because X perecnt of hams want to keep a code test. That is, again, very clear in the 98-143 R&O.

Life's a bitch and then we die. Those that are uncomfortable as new drivers at highway speeds stay off the highway. Most highways have minimum speeds to maintain that mindset. If segments of amateur spectrum became known as high speed
CW segments, then what;s the problem?

I repeat, if a new ham ventures into a band segment that is known or expected to have high speed CW as the norm...and that ham doesn't get anyone to respond at his/her slow code speed, that's just the way it goes. That's part of learning for any new ham.

HOT OFF THE WIRES !!!!

At New York's Kennedy airport today, an individual later discovered to be a public school teacher was arrested trying to board a flight while in possession of a ruler, a protractor, a set-square, a slide rule, and a calculator.

At a morning press conference, Attorney general John Ashcroft said he believes the man is a member of the notorious al-gebra movement.
He is being charged by the FBI with carrying weapons of math instruction.

"Al-gebra is a fearsome cult,", Ashcroft said. "They desire average solutions by means and extremes, and sometimes go off on tangents in a search of absolute value. They use secret code names like "x" and "y" and refer to themselves as "unknowns", but we have determined they belong to a common denominator of the axis of medieval with coordinates in every country. "As the Greek philanderer Isosceles used to say, 'There are 3 sides to every triangle'," Ashcroft declared.

When asked to comment on the arrest, President Bush said, "If God had wanted us to have better weapons of math instruction, He would have given us more fingers and toes. "I am gratified that our government has given us a sine that it is intent on protracting us from these math-dogs who are willing to disintegrate us with calculus disregard. Murky statisticians love to inflict plane on every sphere of influence," the President said, adding: "Under the circumferences, we must differentiate their root, make our point, and draw the line." President Bush warned, "These weapons of math instruction have the potential to decimal everything in their math on a scale never before seen unless we become exponents of a Higher Power and begin to factor-in random facts of vertex."

Attorney General Ashcroft said, "As our Great Leader would say, read m ellipse. Here is one principle he is uncertainty of:
though they continue to multiply, their days are numbered as the hypotenuse tightens around their necks."

Now see here is a perfect example of the threats from these guys. For those who do not know moparholic
he is Steve Parks of Medina Ohio and unlicensed

I gotta tell ya, Bill. You're your own worst adversary wrt to this debate.
Did you bother to tell the NCI newbies about the benefit of using Q signals and prosigns on CW? Remember this post, Bill?

Nah, how about just the second most popular language on the air...prosigns and Q signals. They allow us to effectively communicate with the third most popular language...and fourth, and fifth, and so on...

That's right, Bill. Try getting your message across via phone to that JA station who doesn't speak a lick of English, WITHOUT speaking Japanese. I can...and you know why. Too bad your NCI followers don't know why. Didn't you tell them, Bill? Oh, you left that part out. No prob, your secret's safe with me.

P.S. Here's a useful phrase for the <English only speaking> NCTA's next SSB encounter with a JA station, "Ei-go ga dekimasu ka?" (Do you speak English?)

Obviously you are unaware of how the vanity call system came about. One ham, who had his RM proposal denied by the FCC, wrote a letter to his congressman. Turned out this particular congressman had some influence on the FCC's budget. Bill Clinton signed the bill that had our vanity system attached to it...no RM proposal needed. One ham CAN make a difference.
Sounds kinda cliche, eh? "One ham, one letter, one vote!" <ggg>

None, while I support Element 1's retention, it really doesn't affect me personally. Don't count your chickens before they're hatched, Bill. They may just eliminate it for Novice/Tech "+" privies. (Cool by me.)

I don't really believe the FCC has the ARS' best interests in mind, so that kinda rings hollow from my perspective. Just think BPL.

Fair enough.

I care a tad more about my fellow newbies than the "life's a bitch and then we die" mindset. Thank goodness my Elmer taught me how to avoid OTA death

So lets see here. If the new jet airliners will fly and land themselves, the persons that occupy the cockpit don't really need to learn to fly. Makes perfect sense. They don't need to learn to fly because the computer does it for them.

But George, you said on the previous post I lived in SF Ca., now I live in Fremont ca.? which is it?
You have also posted that I live in Modesto Ca., Stockton Ca., Waterford Ca, among other places.
You have claimed that I have these ISP's Netcom, WebTv, Mindspring, Earthlink, AOL, PacBell, SBC
again, among numerous others.

> he had a ham license
> but let it drop because he could not follow the rules

Again, on the previous post you claimed I didn't have a license, now I lost it for not following the rules? LMAO!!!! I let it expire because of trolls like you on the local ham bands, not because of
"following" rules.

Now George, you know I have nothing against Leland or Jerry as with most other people I have nothing against them either. George Busch wa3moj who trolls RRCB has a problem about trolling, that's why he create these posts, then cross post them to cause a flame fest.

Look queersack how many times do I have to tell you you have no proof that WA3MOJ even posts

in here just because you saw those letters and numbers at the bottom of someones post means nothing. Dont take my word for it take Brainbusters he said callsigns are meaningless in a CB newsgroup and they are just random letters and numbers could mean anything like kp82 tim nebo or scott unit 69 or what ever. There may be some trolls who want you to think I am wa3moj but they are laughing at you because you are so fucking stupid how could any one be so stupid.....Now go take a transexual up your ass.

Oh Agent Smith aren't you the hilarious one. Your so-called research leaves a lot to be desired, as I'm sure the many innocent bystanders in Terrys bullshit campaign that you've listed will attest to. I guess the homosexual reference post was designed to get to me? Fat chance. Maybe the guy who posted it. I would apologize to the other radiobuffs and tailgators out there if I were you, but somehow I bet that won't happen. So, I will apologize on your little behalf. It's not a crime to change ISPs and nicknames or emails on the internet. Anybody can post anything here - you take it as the gospel truth? - including disgruntled roomates and relatives. The bank robbery and shooting/heroin post? Made as a joke by a roomate that wasn't funny then and isn't funny now. You think I'd actually post that about myself? Yeah right. Didn't happen. Now I'm a gay racist trucker and dangerous huh? You have quite the imagination. Gawd, that's pathetic. Yeah right. My wife is really laughing at that one. If you knew her you'd know why that racist accusation is so funny. Next you'll be linking me to Al Queda and post that I'm hiding Bin Laden in my closet. You're a funny guy. Hey there genuis researcher, why are there no public arrest records for me for shootings and bank robberies or heroin arrests? Don't you think there would be? Why not? Because it was a flame post by someone else and it didn't happen. Other people happen to use my computer when I am out on the job, including a disgruntled relative that is longer there. Funny you didn't find his other posts about me, but I guess I should be thankful for that! You'd have so much fun with those.Your bullshit campaign is humorous to some, so, run with it there, 'Agent Smith'. You obviously have nothing better to do. Makes for juicy reading here, though, doesn't it? :) Gotta admit, you have us laughing here.

And, if you paid attention to your research, which you obviously don't, you will not find ONE post or thread in the past where I have ripped anyone off...not ONE, except for the fabricated posts in this thread. Why is that? Any complaints about me? Hmm. Nope. Wonder why? These three or four alter egos of Terrys that suddenly surfaced on this thread claiming I ripped them off for various radios - gee, why haven't they posted before about dealings with me? Hmmm. Don't you think that at least ONE of them would have posted and flamed me before? Hmm They 'all' obviously lurk the newsgroups, why wait to post about me NOW? Hmm Why are alot of the posts from the same IPs? hmmm. And why haven't they contacted the postal authorities with proof of payment and correspondence from me? Hmmm. Your research should tell you why. Because it didn't happen and 'they' aren't real. Period. Now get a life and find something else to post about, this is getting old and I'm sure the readers are tired of the thread. I'm just glad none of my friends or family or co-workers actually frequent these newsgroups and read this crap. Your accusations and lies are in the wind and of no consequence to me whatsoever.

Going to California? Wow! You are a genuis AND you've got ESPN! Be there real soon. Would you like the rest of my itinerary? Too funny.

Amber alert?!? You are absolutely hysterical. I won't reply to this Terry/Mike/Frank/Randy character anymore, and I won't reply to you anymore, either. You're just as much of a troll as he is. Maybe you are him. Who the hell knows. This 'Terry' could be anybody, after all it IS the internet. That one poster was right - you are 'obsessive, fuckwitted and neurotic'. Most people see your little smear campaign for what it really is.

I've had absolutely enough of this horseshit. What a waste of time and energy. Unsubscribing and taking a break - who needs this nonsense...I've got better things to read and write about.

Have fun with me, folks:)

over and out

278. OT - Blonde shopping for curtains

The blond enters a store that sell curtains.
She tells the salesman, "I would like to buy a pair of pink curtains.
The salesman assured her that they had a large selection of pink curtains.
He showed her several patterns, but the blond seemed to be having a hard time choosing.
Finally she selects a lovely pink floral print.
The salesman asked what size curtains she needed.
The blond replies "fifteen inches"
"Fifteen inches???" asked the salesman. "That sounds very small, what room are they for?"
The blond tells him that they aren't for a room, they are for her computer monitor.
The surprised salesman replies, "but, Miss, computers do not have curtains!"
The blond says, "Hellllooooooooo........I've got Windows!"

I'm glad you and your wife are laughing. She is Karen the Olde English teacher riight? My so-called research took an hour. You have a motor mouth so there were over a thousand posts to sift through. I didn't even scratch the surface of your life JD Havry. I just pulled out some posts that were blatantly flying in the face of the goody two shoes portait you paint of yourself. Every one of those posts is verifiable as coming from you. You weaved a tangled web with all of the aliases that you use but there is a common thread that ties them all together.
You are now saying disgruntled people use your computer and post as you. You don't want to take responsibilty for your actions. Do you know how childish that sounds? You better get youself back to that 12 step THANG and start blaming yourself and not everyone else. Stop smoking pot and maybe you'll straighten yourself out. It's never too late and it will probably save your Radio Shack job. .

I have made no accusations about you JD Havry. I have simply found posts made by you that portray you in a different light then you portray yourself.
When presented with the truth of these posts you place the blame on disgruntled relatives and roomates using your computer. I randomly picked less than 10 posts out of the thousands I found. Isn't it funny that the few I picked were posted by some disgruntled people using your computer and not you? And according to you the people you have dealt with who are now saying they are disgruntled aren't real and none of it happened.. I think the evidence speaks for itself JD Havry.

Get back in the program JD. Straighten yourself out and fly right. It's not too late! Give those people back their money. You'll feel better about yourself. It's the low self esteem that probably made you start smoking pot right? Take that first step JD.

Come to think about it, in a sort of perverted way he's correct: Georgie-girl Busch doesn't dare post in this newsgroup > under his real name <. But he hasn't stopped TROLLing or flaming under dozens of phoney nics and fake email addys in the three years I've been reading and posting here.

Either way, he is "really 1 clueless TROLL" and thinks he's sooooo clever! LOL!

But why did he snip my post? Because I pointed out that he had forged posts as N8WWM? Intelligent people want the truth, Georgie, and not just the truth as you want them to know it.

For your information.

Illegal CBers are targeting random ham callsigns
such as WA3MOJ and forging them on Usenet newsgroups. WA3MOJ is not now or has not ever posted on Usenet but the forgers have an axe to grind against anyone who complains about illegal
radio operation so they post callsigns of people who they think are against them.

You may be next these cb outlaws will stop at nothing including threats and harassment.

Attention All: the person posting as WA3MOJ@aol.com
is not wa3moj. Who is doing it is most likely tim nebo
aka Tim Nebout, a drug dealer and freebander from LaMarque Texas who bootlegs on the 6 mhz aircraft
comm band and also on ham bands without a license.
If it is not Tim it is Steve Parks of Medina Ohio or Mark
Beck of Fremont California. Also a person known only as "GW" aka Randall of Texas is doing the forging. And there leader Twistedhed aka Dave McCampbell of Clearmwater Florida encourages them and gives them instructions on harassment of hams including using their call signs on "freeband".

RESTRUCTURING: EXCLUSIVE SPECTRUM DOWN UNDER

Hams in Australia start 2004 with an unexpected gift. Some exclusive spectrum in the 75 meter band. From Brisbane here's Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, with the rest of the story:

--

As of January 1st amateur radio operators in Australia have gained exclusive access to 24 kHz of HF spectrum at 3776-3800 kHz for high frequency amateur radio communications between continents.

The new Australian spectrum allocation for the amateur service is made under footnote AUS8 of the Australian Radiofrequency Spectrum Plan 2002 published by the ACA. It aligns well with international arrangements, which means intercontinental communications for Australian amateur radio operators will be improved at these frequencies.

This domestic change has affected other spectrum users. More than 40 government bodies, community groups and commercial organizations were previously licensed for HF communications within this 24 kHz of spectrum, with amateur operators having lower priority access to 6 kHz.

For Q-News Australia, I'm Graham Kemp, VK4BB, for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

--

A very nice way to start the year 2004. (Q-News)

RESTRUCTURING: P29Z CALLS GIVEN HF GIFT

Australia is not the only nation in the Southern hemisphere to have some ham radio rules changes with the new year. A report out of Papua New Guinea says that the tiny nations has welcomed 2004 by going no-code.

According to Rick Warnett, P29KFS, in Port Morsby, the nations telecommunications regulator PANGTEL has issued an opinion confirming that P-N-G hams holding a Limited Amateur Operator's Certificate of Proficiency now have access to all High Frequency bands granted by PANGTEL. As a result, from 0000 P-N-G time on December 31st hams assigned P29Z series calls have full High Frequency access in the ham bands from 165 KHz thru 28MHz in addition to their 430 MHz to the multi Ghz allocation. RESCUE RADIO: IRELAND PREPARES FOR POWER OUTAGES

Meantime on the other side of the world, what amounts to a mini Field Day exercise took place in Ireland December 6th and 7th. This when that nations ham radio rescue service known as AREN took part in a twenty-four hour simulated test to help prepare members for a possible power failure such as those experienced recently in the US and in the United Kingdom.

The test had several goals. Among them was to establish that AREN members could operate without mains power and to have members ready for activation during a sustained standby period. Also important was maintaining discipline by politely and firmly holding control of a working frequency for the duration of the exercise.

According to assessment reports, the AREN members demonstrated a keen and effective will to efficiently operate such a service. They also held the primary exercise frequency of 3.660 MHz without incident for the duration of the watch period. (IRTS)

RADIO LAW: S.C. INDICTMENT IN BPL RELATED SCHEME

Back here at home, it looks as if the first scam associated with Broadband over Powerline technology has surfaced. Amateur Radio Newsline's Jim Davis, W2JKD, tells us the who, the what, the why and the where:

News reports say that two Texas businessmen have been indicted on wire fraud and money laundering charges. This in a scheme that defrauded a South Carolina electric utility out of $1 million.

Prosecutors in Columbia, South Carolina say that the two convinced the utility to invest the money in research they said would allow voice, video and data to be sent to homes and businesses through power lines. According to the documents filed on Thursday, December 18th, the could not deliver on the promises they had made.

Jim Davis, W2JKD, reporting.

No trial date has been announced in this case. (Published news reports)

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD: Joe Knight, W5PDY, - S.K.

Some truly sad news to report. One of the nicest people ever to hold a ham radio license, Joe Knight, W5PDY, the recently retired New Mexico ARRL Section Manager, died on December 28th. Knight was in declining health when he passed away in Albuquerque at age 76.

For those not aware, Joe Knight held the honor of the longest tenure of any Section Manager in history. He was elected to the post in the mid 1970's and only stepped down last July after his health began to fail. In all he served as New Mexico Section Manager close to 27 years. A record never before matched.

Knight was the subject and chief narrator of an article, "The Luckiest Man Alive," which appeared in the January 2003 issue of QST Magazine. In it, Knight said that Amateur Radio will exist as long as there are people who love the art and science of communicating by radio. The article also outlined the vast emergency communication resources that Knight and hundreds of other dedicated volunteers built up over the years in New Mexico.

John Stuart, AC5ZO, the president of the Albuquerque DX Association, visited Knight on December 22nd. At that time Stuart presented Knight with an honorary membership certificate in that group.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, KC5CXO, who often accompanied Knight on his hamfest and convention visits and was a tireless recruiter for new ARRL members. (ARRL, W7AS, N7US, others)

CHANGING OF THE GUARD: Emmanuel G. Papandreas, W4SS, - S.K.

And former ARRL Southern Florida Section Emergency Coordinator, Emmanuel G. Papandreas, W4SS, of Lake Worth, passed away, Friday, December 26th at age 80. Manny as he was better was Southern Florida was SEC for 20 years. A record longer than any of his predecessors. And during his tenure, Papandreas oversaw the amateur emergency communications effort following Hurricane Andrew in 1992 including the staging area at the South Florida Fairgrounds in Palm Beach County.

W4SS was a life member of the West Palm Beach Amateur Radio Club and served numerous terms as President. He also taught amateur radio classes and was an ARRL Volunteer Examiner in Palm Beach county. And, over the years, W4SS was the recipient of many awards and honors from the South Florida agencies served by Amateur Radio. (WA4AW)

RADIO RULES: FCC OPENS SMART RADIO PROCEEDING

Turning to the regulatory scene, the FCC has adopted a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Order that sets out proposals and seeks comments on the uses and applications for "smart" radio systems. This, In light of the ever increasing demand for wireless transmitters.

Smart radios have the ability to adapt their use of spectrum to their environments. For example, a smart radio system could use geolocation and table lookups to determine whether certain frequencies are candidates for use in a particular area. Then, those frequencies could be scanned, idle spectrum identified, and the best frequencies and power levels selected for a particular link.

ENFORCEMENT: YOU CAN FLY BUT YOU CAN'T USE THAT RADIO

Hang gliding zealots who fail to heed the FCC warning could face some pretty severe penalties. (FCC, RAIN)

ENFORCEMENT: COMPANY FINED $8,000 FOR FAILING TO PAINT TOWER CABLES

The FCC has issued an $8,000 fine against Tower Properties of Florida, Inc. for having unpainted cables attached to their tower structure. Cables that the regulatory agency says precluded good visibility of the orange and white aviation-painted structure.

Section 17.50 of the FCC's Rules provides that antenna structures such as this one that require painting will be cleaned or repainted as often as necessary to maintain good visibility. Further, as incorporated by reference, alternate bands of aviation orange and white are normally displayed on coaxial cable, conduits, and other cables attached to the face of a tower. (CGC, FCC)

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: JUDGE RULES ISP'S DO NOT HAVE TO PROVIDE INFO TO MUSIC INDUSTRY

Meantime, back here in the United States, a major setback for the music industry's anti-piracy campaign. This, a federal appeals rejects efforts by the music producers to compel the nation's Internet providers to identify subscribers accused of illegally distributing music on-line. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, has more:

It happened on Friday December 19th and it's being called a substantial setback for the entertainment industry. This, as a three-judge panel from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia overturned a ruling by the trial judge to enforce a copyright subpoena.

Earlier a trial judge had authorized the use of the subpoenas forcing Verizon Communications Inc. to turn over names and addresses for at least four Internet subscribers. Verizon complied but instructed its lawyers to challenges the ruling.

In its decision, the appeals court not only sided with Verizon. It went a step further. This, by declaring one of the crucial arguments used by the Recording Industry Association of America to obtain the original order as -- quote -- bordering upon the silly. The judges words-- not ours.

What does this mean to those artists and companies wanting to protect their intellectual copyright? It won't stop the entertainment industry from suing those who continue to swap music and video files peer to peer, but it will make them a lot harder for the industry lawyers to locate.

From the entertainment capitol of the world, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline

Its not known if the recording industry plans to appeal this latest decision against it to the U-S Supreme court. (Published news reports)

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: ARISS UPDATE

According to ARISS International Chairman Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, the crew on board the International Space Station does not have time to read messages from the ham public and he advises against sending any. We have more in this report:

In letters posted to the SAREX remailer, Frank Bauer, KA3HDO, indicates that ham radio is lucky that the crew has been able to fire up the new Kenwood packet radio system that was recently delivered to the space outpost. He also says that its not a good idea for hams to send personal e-mails to the astro-hams indicating that they are really to busy to read and answer them.

As to the new radio itself, Bauer says that the unit is a Kenwood D700 that has been modified to support up to 25 watts maximum output. Normally, if the crew has the system configured with the default settings. This means about 10 watts out which is medium power on the 700.

Regarding the packet frequencies and why split channels rather than simplex is used, Bauer says this. 145.80 MHz is designated a human spaceflight downlink frequency. Right now it shares use on voice and packet for general operations and school group contacts. In the future it will be used at times for voice, packet, repeater capabilities, school group contacts and S-S-T-V. Because of this, the ARISS team would like to keep the downlink frequency clear for all to hear and receive. Therefore, packet simplex is use not a good idea on this frequency.

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: RADIO BRINGS FASTER FAST FOOD

On the emerging technology front, fast food has gotten even faster in southern California thanks to the magic of radio. This as five McDonald's restaurants sign a deal with a communications company to allow motorists to zip through the drive-through line without having to stop and pay cash for their food.

The trick is utilizing the same technology that permits motorists to skip stops on toll roads. A transponder will emit a signal to a receiver at the food giant that will automatically calculate the food the fee. The motorist is then billed. The process is said to cut 15 seconds off the normal 131 second-wait for delivery at the payment window. (Technology Corner)

INTERNATIONAL-ARGENTINA: ANDES MOUNTAIN LAND CROSSING

From the international page, Carlos Beviglia, LU1BCE, says that between January 4 and 15th, the Radio Club Argentino will participate in the 6th Andes Mountains Land Crossing. LU1BCE is the Secretary of the Radio Club Argentino. He tells the Ohio Penn D-X newsletter that this trek is made every year to honor General San Martin and his army's crossing to Chile. This, during the American Independence War in 1817.

The Radio Club Argentino will provide the communication for the event. The club will set up two High Frequency stations at every camp point throughout the journey. Operation will be mainly on SSB and C-W using the special event call LS4M. QSL via LU4AA, either direct or via the bureau. (OPDX)

INTRUDER WATCH: THOSE INDONESIANS AGAIN

On the Intruder Watch scene, we have some bad news and some good news. First the bad. VK6XW reports hearing 53 non ham stations on the 14 MHz band operating SSB. He says that most appear to be from Indonesia.

The good news? Word that another group of Indonesians who had been using 14.335 MHz have vanished and have not been found again. The same is true for the bunch on 14.252 which have also disappeared from the Amateur spectrum leaving only the 14.144 gang which have gone LSB and moved up to 14.145 Mhz. (Q-News)

THAT FINAL ITEM: HAM RADIO HISTORY -- THE FIRST BIG REPEATER MEETING - PART I

And finally this week, many hams are not aware that back in the early 1970's repeater growth and continued experimentation in ham radio relay communication came to a screeching halt. This, as the result of overly restrictive regulations on the part of the FCC.

As most radio amateurs of that era knew, this was not a good time to be the owner of a repeater unless you also held an Electronics Engineering degree. Things had to change if F-M and repeaters were to grow again. In the end, one man risked it all to make it happen.

On January 24, 1974 then 73 Magazine publisher Wayne Green, W2NSD, brought a group of prominent "repeater people" before the FCC. He had arranged the meeting in an attempt to convince the Commissioners to roll back the restrictions put in place as a result of Docket 18803. Here's a sample of what that meeting sounded like:

Meeting audio sample
--

Want to hear more? Well, over the next several months you can take a trip back in time to join Wayne Green, W2NSD, former Colorado's Marshal Quiat, AG0X, New York's Howard Lester W2ODC and Dick McKay, K6VGP, from California. This, as they and others go to Washington D-C -- to -- quite literaly -- set repeaters free.

Part 1 of the audio of that meeting is on our website as a Newsline Extra. In it you will meet the hams who traveled to Washington to speak on behalf of the nations FM and repeater community. You will also hear some of the presentations made by them. Its on line now at our f-t-p site at www.arnewsline.org slash quincy.

This is literally a page out of ham radio's history. Its here -- right now for you -- exclusively -- on the Amateur Radio Newsline. (ARNewesline(tm))

LMAO!!! Now you forgot to cross post this to the correct groups George Busch wa3moj@aol.com
You see this is what has been trolling RRCB for over three years now. It's not that he is a ham, no that isn't the problem,
but a troll with a ham license extra class.

Um George, you forgot to cross post this so that your

I'm still waiting for a refund for the R71A. I thought you would send it so I saw no reason to complain. After reading all of this it looks like you really are a scammer and I will never see that refund. If as you say your relatives and roomates are using your computer and don't like you then maybe one of them sold me this piece of crap posing as you. Or maybe your roomates and relatives don't like you becuase you scammed them too. In any case I'd appreciate that refund you promised me.

He's George, why else does he answer and try to defend that it's NOT him. If it wasn't him, not true why would he even bother to answer.

Last summer I tested seven radios -- two xtal, five PLL -- for a frequency accuracy of plus or minus 30 Hz, then put them on a shelf to test when cold. The current temp is twenty below zero. Of those seven radios, five of them still test within plus or minus 30 Hz. The other two are inoperable because the knobs are froze up.

So much for the 'I need to open my clarifier because the frequency drifts when it gets cold' argument.

The DX contest on the freeband this past weekend went very well. Propagation was not as expected, but nevertheless, the results were somewhat satisfying. Looking at the website, some rare contacts came in the wee hours on Saturday night. Keep up the great work. Bolo!

What ever came of the claim that a major truck stop chain was about to fall for selling 10 meter radio equipment? Oh, and ask Hollingsworth why they (FCC) just implemented an unofficial policy of ignoring ALL anonymous individual complaints for cb and hammie radio? You won't like the answer.

here you go shark.....here is a internet joke that perhaps you will appreciate.....

Big gay Dave goes into the doctors office and has some tests run.
The doctor comes back and says, "Dave, I'm not going to beat around the bush. You have AIDS."
Dave is devastated. "Doc, what can I do."
"Eat 1 sausage, 1 head of cabbage, 20 unpeeled carrots drenched in hot sauce, 10 Jalapeno peppers, 40 walnuts, and 1/2 box of all bran cereal, and top it off with a gallon of prune juice."
Dave asks, "Will that cure me, Doc?"
Doc says, "No, but it should leave you with a better understanding of what your ass is for."

breaka, breaka.......

Thats true you don't sit by and let us trash him, because you always defend him, or yourself George. You said in one of your posts that you were WA3MOJ, now you say that you know which groups he posts to.
You jump on every post that has George or WA3MOJ in it.

If not, then you are jumping to conclusions which do not fit - this is a CB group.

Sure, their reaction is rather strange... and it fails to give a reason why someone should assume that anything used by a CBer on a CB newsgroup must be a "Ham" callsign

What was the intent of the WA3MOJ at the end of his post?
He signed it with WA3MOJ, then he crys and crys and says he's not WA3MOJ. I never said it proved he was WA3MOJ, I said he started all this WA3MOJ stuff, which he did with that post.
If something happens to WA3MOJ, if its him or not, its just like he drove the get away car. Which is not good.
You guys made your bed, now lie in it.

Frank;
I didn't read all post about clarifiers, but was that the reason, that they drifted, or that some of the radios just were never on frequency. Of the radios you tested, did you compare them to see if the TX frequencies were on?

Could you be so kind as to provide a quote where I've ever made that statement?

For the record, I have never said that all CBers are criminals, only the illegal ones.

One of the excuses posted here for opening up a clarifier ("slide") was that the center frequency had too much variation from radio to radio. This was proven wrong by actually measuring the frequency of several different radios. The argument was then amended, with total ignorance of basic design techniques for oscillator temperature compensation, to say that opening up a clarifier was needed because of frequency drift due to temperature variations. So an experiment was proposed that these same radios be refrigerated and tested again.

It was the TX freqs that I tested (it was too damn cold out there in the garage to spend time testing for anything else!). I might add that the Harley Ed. in the truck had no problems, either -- all of the received signals were right on freq, both when it was cold -and- after it warmed up. So if the TC argument was correct, and the temperature actually does have an effect on frequency, then all the radios I heard and worked this morning, both mobile and base, were at a temperature that caused an equal amount of drift in Hz for each radio (and my freq counter), and then all those radios drifted back on-freq as my own radio warmed up. I think that is a pretty unlikely scenario.

If all radios were exactly on frequency there would be no need of one for xmit or recv. All radios aren't on freqency, or you would never hear a heterodyne on the AM channels.

What if one of the cold radios were attempting to talk to a base station that was warm and didn't drift at all?
I could see a need to have your xmit track with your recv if there were more than 2 stations trying to talk to each. If you had decent radios and someone using them that knew how to tune a SSB signal, they could all stay on frequency. I have never found a need to use my clarifier, not even sure if it works.

True, but for the purposes of communication, the accuracy is usually close enough to work with a fixed LO, and -without- the need to 'slide' 5kHz one way or the other.

Which is exactly the point: There isn't enough drift with temperature to make a difference.

>I could see a need to have your xmit track with your recv if there >were more than 2 stations trying to talk to each.

I don't, at least not with a fixed-channel radio. If all the radios are within specs, the only problem with fixed TX will be due to the audio perceptions of the listener -- some like beef while others prefer duck. And it is because of those perceptions that locking the RX to the TX doesn't work any better than if they were unlocked. So, in effect, 'slide' justifies itself by it's pitfalls, with the added disadvantage that it requires careful tuning in order to be compatible with the assigned (fixed) channels.

One of the purposes of CB is to make tuning no more difficult than changing the channel.

OK its time to put up or shut up...here for the first time anywhere I am offering any keyclown the chance to find out who is george or if george is real or who the hell is the true identity of the person who is the object of all this controversy and strife. All you need do is send me a $1000 Paypal payment and as soon as I receive it I will email you a jpeg of my driver license. Quick and easy there is no fuss no muss just the real truth, but the catch is, the truth is not free.
Keyclowns will be shocked and awed by the proven fact that I am not WA3MOJ and you can be the one to clear this up yes it can be your chance to know the real deal. Just $1000 does it, lets hear it for any takers.

Meaningless letters? Its his call sign, and if you want to keep pointing to brainbusters post, George posted his call sign long before brainbuster made his post. Nice try dimwit, you struck out again.

Because you claim it has to be, Georgie-girl? Why else would you complain to ISPs about the use of callsigns here?

And don't snip or ignore the logic for a change. Answer the questions

You forgot DouGay Adair N8WWM. And Frankie claims he doesn't have a ham license. He's only a "legal CBer", whatever that is (a mudduck?)
and a commercial broadcast engineer. LOL!

BTW, there's no such thing as an "illegal CBer". They're either CBers or they're not. If they're outside the "legal 40", they're not CBers, are they? According to the dog pound (akc).

That was certainly the logic he used when I said I wasn't Steve Rogovich and the akc smeared Steve all over this newsgroup! Guess logic doesn't apply to him? ROTFLMAO!

William Wallace is definitely Georgie-girl Busch. They both post from Comcast/AoL by way of a French reposter. Because they're cowards, of course.

Find yourself a radio butcher at the truck stop. He'll squeeze every last ounce of harmonic energy out of the radio and it will swing real good on his special Dozy Test Set.

I have a 25 on my shelf collecting dust. Looks like half an inch and growing...

I prefer the longevity of a stock radio driving a two device amp on low.

Oh, it isn't over yet. Like the answer? Depends. I got that direct from RH himself. You, OTH, are relying on urban/internet legend regarding what Hollingsworth "said"
..kind of like that thing that says that Target is against veterans. The answer is: FCC has NOT issued a policy of "ignoring" anything.
I can put ANYTHING on the net--just look at all the crap that appears on this board everyday. If you think FCC is going to go away or ignore anything, you are wrong! There are too many complaints, both foreign and domestic, for the problem to be ignored.
I don't have the answer.

the pot used on a 350hdv is a 250ohm 2 watt I don't have a 667 schematic.
but knowing how they build their linears they design there equipment to utilize the same switches and so forth for convenience and cost considerations. The pot on a 667 is used to control the driver pill, so it goes to stand that it most probably is the same size. The following links have the 350 schematic

Very true. You have hit the nail on the head this time. Everything that was good about amateur radio was morse code and the trained pool of not only morsemen as you like to put it but also technically trained people too. Amateur Radio as a service is gone. It is only self serving now. Not a service but a high priced hobby. After all, it is called the Amateur Radio Service. We do not have a right to our allocated frequencies. We only use them by the grace of the FCC. So LHA, your tounge in cheek comments ring very true indeed.

Nah, just stupid. He started out making posts, like ones that criticized Frank on antenna theories and accusing Doug of forging and trolling. He then started trolling using his aol account & @home account,

don't know why, but it doesn't matter now.
He also made a post in March of 2001
for a radar detector for auction on Ebay, the contact info back then for ebay was an aol account, imagine that :)
Yeah, a month before even Dick McCollum
said he was wa3moj@aol.com, George himself posted that. A week or 2 later he posted from his aol account, nine months earlier he was using ebay with an aol account, now he's back peddling as fast as possible.
Notice how there were some 170+ posts
yesterday, more than a third of them were George alone, sick.

What ever came of the claim that a major truck stop chain was about to fall for selling 10 meter radio equipment? Oh, and ask Hollingsworth why they (FCC) just implemented an unofficial policy of ignoring ALL anonymous individual complaints for cb and hammie radio? You won't like the answer.

>Oh, it isn't over yet.

Again, I ask what "happened" to your claim at the beginning of last year where you said a major chain was going down "soon". It didn't happen.

>Like the answer?

If you consider that an answer..allow me,,,it's pure sophistry.

> Depends. I got that direct from RH himself.

>You, OTH, are relying on urban/internet

>legend regarding what Hollingsworth "said"

You're on a severe backslide, Jerry. In the first manner, I attributed nothing to RH in my above statement. You somehow feel the need to falsely claim I attributed my information from RH. On the contrary, my info was from an internal memo in the enforcement division concerning amateur radio and cb complaints. Again, since you are so quick to dismiss what apparently pains you, I implore you once again to ask your contact "why" an "unofficial" policy was enacted regarding the ignoring of anonymous complaints. You are free to speculate and wish as hard as you may, it won' change the fact you are dead wrong.

>..kind of like that thing that says that Target is

>against veterans.

(shug) and Kmart supports sweat shop labor...nothing of relative concern to amateur or cb radio.

>The answer is: FCC has NOT issued a policy

>of "ignoring" anything.

I said "unofficial". Again, you are wrong. Wrong. Ask Riley what the enforcement division now does anonymous complaints regarding cb or amateur radio... Report back.

> I can put ANYTHING on the net--

And you usually do,,such as your claim early last year that a chain of truck stops was about to fall "soon" and that you had it on great information.

>just look at all the crap that appears on this

>board everyday.

I skip much of it these days and try to limit myslef to pointing out those that lie and have an angry agenda of some type and an ax to grind.

> If you think FCC is going to go away or ignore >anything, you are wrong!

Go away? Again, you are reaching way too far to misattribute words to myself...a concept quite familiar and repeatedly enacted by the losers on this group. To my knowledge, you have never deliberately misattributed words to another until now. Not good, Jerry, no matter what your agenda may be. There is no reason for you to reduce yourself to the behaviors of the lids and trolls, but perhaps you jsut can't help yourself these days, Jerry.

>There are too many complaints, both foreign

>and domestic, for the problem to be ignored.

The problem is hyper-inflated and compounded by those that make anonymous complaints. Add to that the incorrect but nevertheless frivolous claims concerning busts and inside information that never happen, and a direct corelation is apparent among these type.

> I don't have the answer.

>Jerry

That is all I asked of you, Jerry. You didn't have to reduce yourself to deliberately misattributing claims to myself that were never made. That is some serious frustration, Jerry.

LOL...Frank Gilliland N7VCF and George Busch WA3MOJ, two of the worst examples of what hammie radio has to offer, really made their bed this time.....they reap what they sew.

>hey twist did you hear about that driveby over >at frank's house when you were gone??? he >blamed it on texas......

I saw him jumping up and down accusing me of something before I spread the Christmas cheer, but I had no clue what took place until I came back and saw him jumping up and down hallucinating about agents and gangsters and little green men and twistedisms in his dreams, embedded in his fragile, wrecked psyche and low self-esteem.

>imagine that.........hell if he can't fade the heat

>he needs to get out of the kitchen.......

Frank is mildy retarded and has communication deficits. He is incapable of seeing things as the rest of society. According to the warblings to be found among the lies of N3CVJ, he suffers from a social disorder most likely stemming from a childhood incident that was traumatic and probably abusive in multiple ways, leaving him emotionally scarred for life.

    Yeah, a month before even Dick McCollum
said he was wa3moj@aol.com, George himself posted that. A week or 2 later he posted from his aol account, nine months earlier he was using ebay with an aol account, now he's back peddling as fast as possible.

Thanks for your help. I noticed the 350v and the 500v uses 250 ohm 1 watt, the 667 100 ohm 1 watt, Seems like it would use the same as the 350 & 500 but i'm not a tech. Regards, Reggie

What ever came of the claim that a major truck stop chain was about to fall for selling 10 meter radio equipment? Oh, and ask Hollingsworth why they (FCC) just implemented an unofficial policy of ignoring ALL anonymous individual complaints for cb and hammie radio? You won't like the answer.

>Oh, it isn't over yet.

Again, I ask what "happened" to your claim at the beginning of last year where you said a major chain was going down "soon". It didn't happen.

It was told directly to me by RH in phone conversation.

>Like the answer?

If you consider that an answer..allow me,,,it's pure sophistry.

Fine, whatever--what will be will be.

> Depends. I got that direct from RH himself.

>You, OTH, are relying on urban/internet

>legend regarding what Hollingsworth "said"

You're on a severe backslide, Jerry. In the first manner, I attributed nothing to RH in my above statement. You somehow feel the need to falsely claim I attributed my information from RH. On the contrary, my info was from an internal memo in the enforcement division concerning amateur radio and cb complaints. Again, since you are so quick to dismiss what apparently pains you, I implore you once again to ask your contact "why" an "unofficial" policy was enacted regarding the ignoring of anonymous complaints. You are free to speculate and wish as hard as you may, it won' change the fact you are dead wrong.

Wrong about what? There are two sides to any story. You have a vested interest in keeping the status quo, I have a vested interest in keeping unlicensed people off the ham bands. If I am wrong, I am wrong. If you are right, then YOU are right and I have, just like your fave ball team loses a game, lost.

>..kind of like that thing that says that Target is

>against veterans.

(shug) and Kmart supports sweat shop labor...nothing of relative concern to amateur or cb radio.

It refers to any urban legend like Microsoft paying money for a "beta" test, or the thing that goes around from to time that Target will not support veterans' causes. Both are urban legends. Your "unoffficial" policy statement is just that--an urban legend; one that people WANT to believe. One that has the "ring" of truth only because one's fervent desire to be supported in a thought, belief, or act.

Mr Hollingsworth, indeed, has MUCH to do with enforcement of AMATEUR rules.
Thus, much of the info comes from him via the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau. He is most concerned simply because of the effect the illegal sales of "export" radios--namely the incursions onto 10 and 12 Meters. Your "unofficial" policy is still urban legend. The fact is, that it completely countermands the Enforcement Division's real policy.

>The answer is: FCC has NOT issued a policy

>of "ignoring" anything.

I said "unofficial". Again, you are wrong. Wrong. Ask Riley what the enforcement division now does anonymous complaints regarding cb or amateur radio... Report back.

OH? How do you think those truckers get caught operating on 10 Meters? How do you think Pacetronics got cited? Because someone complained.

> I can put ANYTHING on the net--

And you usually do,,such as your claim early last year that a chain of truck stops was about to fall "soon" and that you had it on great information.

>just look at all the crap that appears on this

>board everyday.

I skip much of it these days and try to limit myslef to pointing out

Go away? Again, you are reaching way too far to misattribute words to myself...a concept quite familiar and repeatedly enacted by the losers on this group. To my knowledge, you have never deliberately misattributed words to another until now. Not good, Jerry, no matter what your agenda may be. There is no reason for you to reduce yourself to the behaviors of the lids and trolls, but perhaps you jsut can't help yourself these days, Jerry.

>There are too many complaints, both foreign

>and domestic, for the problem to be ignored.

The problem is hyper-inflated and compounded by those that make anonymous complaints. Add to that the incorrect but nevertheless frivolous claims concerning busts and inside information that never happen, and a direct corelation is apparent among these type.

> I don't have the answer.

>Jerry

That is all I asked of you, Jerry. You didn't have to reduce yourself to deliberately misattributing claims to myself that were never made. That is some serious frustration, Jerry.

Tell ya what. For legal reasons, I can't say anything right now. But there are some cases coming up that may be of interest. If they happen, it will prove that I was accurate with my info. If they don't happen, then I'll hush. OK?

Service means just that. Broadcasters have to do public service to keep broadcastings. Why do you think they do PSA's. No money involved, they do it free. Amateur operators operate uder the same subset of rules. If they don't provide a public service when called they have no reason for being. You also would have to prove that 75% of the amareurs provide a public service. Lets see, chasing DX, rag chewing with Barny down the road and checking the weather outside. Yep, thats sure public service-----NOT!

Geez, Georgie-girl. Did you waste that much money on booze over the holidays?

For less than $100 we can get a professional report that details everything about your sorry self. If we care enough to spend the money.

And we don't.

You must think we're crazy: A thousand bucks for a phoney jpeg image?

Good point, Richard. I can get almost anything about him for $100.

I'm not interested enough to part with it. Besides, everyone else already knows it's George. Why should we pay to prove it to him?

..maybe he could buy more meds with the cash tho.(?)

460. How Much Will Landshark Pay?

How much will Mark Beck be willing to pay for information about "george"? A lot I think.
and how do we know Mark is the one person who would pay money to find out details etc?
Just look at his obsession. Did you see where he made a list of nics and cross referenced
the number of posts to a total # in the NG?
That is called obsession my friends. I bet
he has a big board on the wall with pushpins
and a map of the world with "george" locations marked on it and a list of possible aliases taped on his fridge. He probably thinks about
"george" all day and night when he's not dreaming of boys dressed as girls and bear type transexuals assaulting his rectum.
So for you Mark Beck I make a special price $129 and you get a driver license pic of whoever is originating these posts and who knows it might be "george" how can you not take a small risk to find out such a big secret ROTFLMAO

And if he's not asking for amps or gay sex, then it is WA3MOJ?

Like the post where he posted his call sign at the end of the post?

He'll have to go next door, I cemented the floor in the barn and got rid of the horses. I can hook him up with a baaaad sheep, goat or a big ass bull over there. They'd never get rid of him, after he names them all Nancy.

I bet he puts little bows in their hair. Cut all the stumps close to the ground, he won't be able to stump break them.

I guess when he says he going out for a piece of tail, he really means it?

Believe it or not--I don't care. Do a little digging and find out where HE is from! He is just as "hillbilly" as I am.
His hometown is ROCK HILL, SC--'bout 40 miles from here. But WAIT! YOU can call him, too! It's 717-338-2502. Go ahead, DO it!!! Ask HIM if FCC will ignore the sales of unapproved radios. "Axe" him, not me.
That is, unless you're "skeered" of him. "Axe" him if it is OK for you to operate on the ham bands unlicensed.
Go direct to the source. Have at it. Oh, the email is rholling@fcc.gov . Allow some time for an answer as he is often out of the office.

It was there by accident, it was part of a copy and paste I did and somehow it wound up on my post, after that you figure it out.
Fucking liar, "go wash off".
Liar? LOL, yeah coming from a assclown like you that means... nothing...
So you still won't admit I am not george huh, I know you will look like a complete jackass when you do.
You were and accident alright, there's no way your folks made a shit pile like you on purpose, George.
Good God Mopar, he must have some real mental issues. He post, then answers his own post like you made it, how sick is George?
Landshark
Calling him a fuckwit is an insult to fuckwits worldwide.
Nah, just stupid. He started out making
posts, like ones that criticized Frank on antenna theories and accusing Doug of forging and trolling. He then started trolling using his aol account & @home account, don't know why, but it doesn't matter now. He also made a post in March of 2001 for a radar detector for auction on Ebay, the contact info back then for ebay was an aol account, imagine that :)
Yeah, a month before even Dick McCollum
said he was wa3moj@aol.com, George himself posted that. A week or 2 later he posted from his aol account, nine months earlier he was using ebay with an aol account, now he's back peddling as fast as possible.

Notice how there were some 170+ posts
yesterday, more than a third of them were George alone, sick.
Landshark

>What is really sick is you counting names,

It is no different than you citing posting percentages and statistics.
You began the sickness.

Actually no Twist, it's a lot different. I just went to a couple clicks on google, one link, cut & paste, but if he really wants the link:

http://www.google.com/groups?q=+%22Crab+trap++++++++++++++++++++++++12%22+group:rec.radio.cb&hl=en&lr=&ie=UTF-8&oe=UTF-8&scoring=d&selm=mJ5p7.3143%24me2.167565347%40newssvr14.news.prodigy.com&rnum=7&filter=0

He's the one that post dozens of times a day, from aol &
Comcast, with no other purpose than to troll.................

What does that matter to you George, you've promoted illegal cb for years. Now talk about a hypocrite.

Landshark

A quote from George:

"David, I can only assume you are talking about THE BASE VERSION, it RUNS 21
VOLTS TO THE PILLS WHEN IT IS IDLE, WHEN YOU KEY UP THE VOLTAGE WILL DROP PROBABLY TO 16 VOLTS OR SO, the pills aren't seeing 21 volts. That IS CALLED AN UNREGULATED POWER SUPPLY Now I don't agree with the builder of X Force regarding regulating, but because he is not a technician by any stretch of the means I know he doesn't understand the correct operation of the amps he is building. he is just a parts assembler. But It is cheaper to build an amp with a UN regulated power supply"

sure, go right ahead...

Personally, if you want to come by and be a gentleman about it, I can do that. but... if you want to be an asshole, I can deal with you that way as well. Your choice.

However, if you want to dig up all the old shit and get the pot stirring, then I am not the one you want to play games with. Why don't you go and have a chat with some of the east side crowd (I believe Kingston still lives over there).

btw, if this is who I think it is, don't you think you've paid out enough money to the feds for your "radio games"?

Kind of like this one:

http://www.google.com/groups?q=author:hansv%40home.com&hl=en&lr=&ie=UTF-8&oe=UTF-8&scoring
=d&selm=YIdo6.3741%24H5.261071%40news1.rdc2.pa.home.com&rnum=5&filter=0

Or this one:

http://www.google.com/groups?q=author:hansv%40home.com&hl=en&lr=&ie=UTF-8&oe=UTF-8&scoring
=d&selm=o9fo6.142159%24B6.33318514%40news1.rdc1.md.home.com&rnum=2&filter=0

Not to much trouble at all really.

I can answer that for you Lancer. He's going to say, "I don't start anything, people attack me for no reason. I'm only attacking other people when they have attacked me. Besides, Landshark, Mopar, Twist you and all the other do it all the time, why can't I?"
Of course Landshark had used maybe 5 or 6 different screen nics for over ten years, but mainly Landshark. Mopar has used 3 different screen nics for over 5 years, but you guys whine when I change mine 5 times in a day! That's not fair.
Of course he's admitted numerous times
that he is here to troll only anyway.

On another subject, got the radio set up

The Final is short for the Final amplifier output transistor, and the C1969 is the Transistor part number. But to totally correct it's a 2SC1969 Transistor.

I see that went over your head. I challenge you to call the man (you won't because you're chicken-get it?--) And "hillbilly" or not, he is a long-term career attorney with FCC in Gettysburg, PA. Get one of these NAL

letters from him, ignore it, then sit back and see what happens. HAHAHA!
You'll see how much "policy" he can ram up---well, you know.

If you want to call him, I gave you the phone #. Wanna email him? I gave you that. Get the real scoop from the man in charge of Amateur Enforcement. What else can we do? I also know you won't contact him, and if you do and come back with some off-the-wall crap about illegal radios being legal, etc, etc. then I can just call him back and get the REAL story. But then IF you are one of the ones doing or promoting the illegal stuff, you wouldn't want to talk to someone who might tear up your playhouse, now would you? YOU have as much access to the "man" as I do, so GO for it!!

(Hmm, is that a rooster crowing I hear?)

CHICKEEEEEEEEEEEENNNNNNNNNN!

Assclowns read this....

check the archives whenever anyone says anything against illegal CB the first thing
the keyclowns do is try and get a home address on the guy. This is what happened with Prozac etc. they fucked up and landed on the wa3moj callsign and started using the name "george" all over the newsgroup then the AKC got in the act and because they answered posts that were trolling posts to "george" the myth started that there really was a george. Its a CB myth just like coax length and making ones own conditions.

BTW I will take a lie detector test and prove to anyone that I am not "george".

Why do you bother answering him? It will take him 10 minutes to look

I would agree if not for one thing -- there are no posts by anyone in any newsgroup posted prior to the one in question that contains WA3MOJ. Remember that all of this WA3MOJ stuff is based on two assumptions: that the callsign was a signature, and that it was put there accidentally. If it was a signature, and it was accidently copied and pasted from another newsgroup post, where's that post? If not from a newsgroup post, then from what document was it copied? And in the originating document, was the callsign written in the first, second or third person (from him, to him, or about him)? It may not have been a signature at all. In fact.....

Nobody has stopped to think of any other possibility. For example, if I didn't like someone in my neighborhood, it would have been real easy for me to suggest I was that person, knowing that he, not me, would be the target of harassment. And the more "george" denies he is WA3MOJ, the more everyone is convinced that he is lying, which may be exactly what he intends. So it may be very possible that he is laughing it up while playing all of you like puppets.

Just something to think about.

What ever came of the claim that a major truck stop chain was about to fall for selling 10 meter radio equipment? Oh, and ask Hollingsworth why they (FCC) just implemented an unofficial policy of ignoring ALL anonymous individual complaints for cb and hammie radio? You won't like the answer.

JerryOxendine@bellsouth.net wrote:
>Oh, it isn't over yet.

Again, I ask what "happened" to your claim at the beginning of last year where you said a major chain was going down "soon". It didn't happen.

>It was told directly to me by RH in phone >conversation.

If that is true, which I assume it is, it illustrates how it is biz as usual at the FCC,,,,,s-l-o-w as Moses. Makes you wonder why the enforcement divisions department heads are any less integritized than the Holly-man himself.

>Like the answer?

If you consider that an answer..allow me,,,it's pure sophistry.

>Fine, whatever--what will be will be.

>Depends. I got that direct from RH himself.

>You, OTH, are relying on urban/internet

>legend regarding what Hollingsworth "said"

You're on a severe backslide, Jerry. In the first manner, I attributed nothing to RH in my above statement. You somehow feel the need to falsely claim I attributed my information from RH. On the contrary, my info was from an internal memo in the enforcement division concerning amateur radio and cb complaints. Again, since you are so quick to dismiss what apparently pains you, I implore you once again to ask your contact "why" an "unofficial" policy was enacted regarding the ignoring of anonymous complaints. You are free to speculate and wish as hard as you may, it won' change the fact you are dead wrong.

>Wrong about what?

You were wrong about the major chain getting popped "soon". IF it happens at all, years after the claim was made,,,it means nothing in the original context. One can always make the claim "someday, when I paint my masterpiece".

"Someday..when my ship comes in.."...."Someday" the crime will be rid. "Someday" the grass will be greener and the wine will be sweeter and the air will be cleaner. Knowwhatahmean? No one denied wheels don't turn. It just goes to show that you can't trust the feds when they tell ya' something "off the record",..eh?

>There are two sides to any story.

And I'm still waiting to hear yours, which is why I asked about it.

>You have a vested interest in keeping the >status quo,

How in the world you figure that? Because I don't cower and shrivel in the face of impotent threats over my freebanding activity? Because I am not ashamed of my DX activity? Perhaps it is because I answer all inquiries concerning my activities with no fear of retribution from those that tell me I face the wrath of the law for mere DX on cb? Maybe it's my long-standing internet addy that has you misreading so much. I am nobody's mother and have no "interest" except to enjoy myself responsibly. What you and I each may consider responsible, we may disagree, but in no manner have you ever seen me campaigning for one cause or the other unless directed my way or posed to myself by another. In no thread will you see me advocating another to break the law..,except, of course, we must realize that the answering questions on this forum concerning amps, mods, and freebanding where cb is concerned, is misinterpreted by yourself as illegal and condoning illicit behavior. Nothing can be further from the truth. I have stated many, many times that folks need to learn the rules and the laws and decide for themself whether they decide to operate within the law or not. Thousands of operators, hammies and cbers alike have found plenty of enjoyment with no threat whatsoever for selectively disregarding certain rules and regulations and STILL maintaining an operating standard light years ahead of several angry hammies (read: The Voob Team) that try to rain on our wonderful little world of DX and HF on CB. Ain't gonna happen, not yesterday, not today, not tomorrow, not in the distant future.

> I have a vested interest in keeping >unlicensed people off the

>ham bands.

Oh, but you are full of deliberate disinformation. How, pray tell, does this alleged status quo you accuse me of attempting to maintain, compare or tie in any way whatsoever with intruders on the hammie bands, Jerry?

>If I am wrong, I am wrong.

You ARE wrong concerning your comparison above to my activities. Deliberately wrong, it sometime appears.

>If you are right,

>then YOU are right and I have, just like your >fave ball team loses a game, lost.

My favorite ball team is anyone that beats any team from Philthadelphia, no matter the sport. Never saw a more despicable crowd at an American sports facility than the Philthy trash.

>..kind of like that thing that says that Target is

>against veterans.

(shug) and Kmart supports sweat shop labor...nothing of relative concern to amateur or cb radio.

>It refers to any urban legend like Microsoft >paying money for a "beta" test, or the thing >not support veterans' causes. Both >are urban legends.

Oh, yea,,,,from the page I turned Keith on to several years ago,,the hoax buster and legend page. Great stuff, there. Debunking myths posted here really rattles some cages of the angry animals hanging around,,,,

>Your "unoffficial" policy statement is just

>that--an urban legend;

Umm..no,,it was an internal memo to the enforcement division regarding hammie and cb activity and other non-commercial endeavors and I may even be able to still get you the memo number and name of authorization.....,,but it would be much easier for you to just ask your contact outright. Too much public information (as you very well know and have alluded to several times) may damage the informational pipeline and some of us will no longer have our own personal G. Gordon Liddy to rely upon.

> one that people WANT >to be- lieve. One that has the "ring" of truth

>only because one's fervent desire to be >supported in a thought, belief, or act.

Which is why I cried "sophistry" with your claim of the chain. You want it so bad you take to posting in the truckers forums. Nevertheless, I see you didn't inquire.....yet, but you will. I'm not concerned about convincing you or anyone else about anything at all,,,,just know this,,,I'm certain of my bastions of integrity.

Dial him up and ask him, and quote me: "What becomes of present anonymous complaints concerning cb and amateur radio?"

>The fact >is, that it completely countermands the >Enforcement Division's real policy.

>Government is in the business of >counter-effectiveness.

Yea,,that's government as usual for you.
They contradict themselves all over the place on a regular basis in a myriad of areas. Nothing in this administration is based on facts or what is best for the populace..but you already know this.

>The answer is: FCC has NOT issued a policy

>of "ignoring" anything.

So reword it so there is no semantic debate: "Anonymous complaints by individuals are no longer logged or followed." Besides,,I said "unofficial". Again, you are wrong. Wrong. Ask Riley what the enforcement division now does with anonymous complaints regarding cb or amateur radio... Report back.

>OH? How do you think those truckers get >caught operating on 10 Meters?

(sigh) I know exactly how they were caught. They were taped much in the same manner N8 was taped. I know of one that was even photographed,,the license place, company name, the entire enchilada, only I am not speaking of tangible alleged proof, I am speaking of anonymous complaints to the FCC regarding an individual.

>How do you think Pacetronics >got cited?

>Because someone complained.

No,,that isn't what happened with Pace. Didn't the feds witness several violations with Pace?
Didn't the feds actually make a purchase from Pace? I believe they did. Anonymous complaints to the FCC do not get individuals cited and never have,,,,,,,and as of January 1st of this year, they (anonymous complaints to the FCC) carry as much weight as our wannabe internet cops do. They get treated with as much respect as the complainer has for himself by hiding his ID. What does that tell you when an individual makes an anonymous complaint, Jerry? I'll tell you what it says to me, Jerry...it says that the person doesn't even trust the government with their personal information, but are attempting to get said government to harass another. The familiar path appears again.

>I can put ANYTHING on the net--

And you usually do,,such as your claim early last year that a chain of truck stops was about to fall "soon" and that you had it on great information.

>just look at all the crap that appears on this

>board everyday.

I skip much of it these days and try to limit myslef to pointing out those that lie and have an angry agenda of some type and an ax to grind.

> If you think FCC is going to go away or >ignore anything, you are wrong!

Go away? Again, you are reaching way too far to misattribute words to myself...a concept quite familiar and repeatedly enacted by the losers on this group. To my knowledge, you have never deliberately misattributed words to another until now. Not good, Jerry, no matter what your agenda may be. There is no reason for you to reduce yourself to the behaviors of the lids and trolls, but perhaps you jsut can't help yourself these days, Jerry.

>There are too many complaints, both foreign

>and domestic, for the problem to be ignored.

The problem is hyper-inflated and compounded by those that make anonymous complaints. Add to that the incorrect but nevertheless frivolous claims concerning busts and inside information that never happen, and a direct corelation is apparent among these type.

>I don't have the answer.

>Jerry

That is all I asked of you, Jerry. You didn't have to reduce yourself to deliberately misattributing claims to myself that were never made. That is some serious frustration, Jerry.

>Tell ya what. For legal reasons, I can't say >anything right now.

See,,you know exactly what I mean concerning the info pipeline,,,,,

>But there are some cases

>coming up that may be of >interest.

Too vague, Jer. There are ALWAYS cases coming up, and any one of them MAY be of interest, for any reason whatsoever. But I'm giving you the benefit of doubt as I do everyone. I believe RH told you what you brought here,,,,but then again, I believe he is attempting damage control with lipservice to those that scream the loudest...biz as usual..

>If they happen, it will prove that I was accurate >with my info.

If you are speaking of the truckstops,,I'll concur.
>If they don't happen, then I'll hush. OK?

>J

I don't want you to hush, I just want to know what happened. Ask him what held up the enforcement last year...$$$? Other more important priorities? His hands are actually tied? You know how many field agents they have now? You have any clue what their case load is? That trucker bleeding the piss out of your soccer or rugby game is not even on the FCC's radar. CB interference is moot these days with the FCC. It's why the feds are abdicating their responsibility concerning such. In essence, they have said, "You think it's a problem,,,,then let YOUR town deal with it, 'cause we're all on a mission thanks to the miserable failure,,,,terrorist huntin' ya' know!"
Besides, with the skip waning, I've been playing around with pirate radio again,,,,,listen way down low on your commercial FM dial,,can you DX the LPFM stations from Tampa Bay? Several regs on this forum receive one of our commercial stations on a regular basis down in the 26 MHZ area...you know the one. Do yourself a favor,,party with a pirate!!!
Ahoy, mate!

Welcome.
and my side kick Sheriff Bob Often imitated, never duplicated. I can such concur.
will be along shortly to clean this board up like we cleaned up 27.555,look out we are taking over !!!!
Triple 5 is owned by those of us with directionals.,,..Bob actually did some of us a favor by virtue,,we either improved our stations or got lost like some of those in the church of Twisted...ah, you get the picture....especially since you were never heard and nobody knows your handle or call. Get your own coat-tails..LOL! You can't morph into a somebody from a nobody by mere posting alone,,,you need to key in order to attain the attention you crave, and it's apparent you are unable.

>YOU must never be on 27.555usb then or you >would know who triple 6 is and Howie,

>alpha lima,etc.

Yer out of yer tree! Get a directional, then an education. The only time
I need point my ears to anywhere in the country is when I'm talkin' local side, which I don't do on triple 5. Sorry to break yer bubble and damage yer overinflated self-esteem, but there are only a few who can get in my ears via the back door and you damn sure ain't one of 'em.

So the length of time on radio means something to you? Well then, by your standards, you are green, and a newbie. Some of us got our feet wet on triple 5, knocking out 100-plus countries...several times in several years,,,,,utilizing several cycles,,,not the current one that graced us with your presence.

>Listen and learn,if and when you actually get

Yea,,yer so loud you need give no numbers...hehe..dream on. I don't hear nuthin' on 5 that I don't want to hear..I make my contact and scram,,,,depsite your self-auditory hallucinations.

How long do you want to play this game? If the newsgroup is -that- important to you then maybe you should think about another hobby.

I've heard that type of long haul traffic as well. mostly, I just hear them whine and cry, period. they complain about everything (and I do mean everything). you got kingston razzing his neighbor across the street (when I can hear him which isn't all that often anymore), and you got some other joker over at bell and cavecreek (can't remember his name, but I know him for what he is) and then there are a host of others who are just pimples on the ass of life.

right now though, all I have is the ability to listen (via a yeasu frg-7 SWrcvr). its a rather good thing I can't get on there and talk. Ah well, we all can't have what we want.

Still, if the whiners would just shut up, I might be able to hear some good DX for a change.

The obvious that may have been forgotten,is that Dick, N0BK, God rest his soul, was one of the first to equate George to WA3MOJ. That's when georgie's troubles of being exposed/identified/accused, began.

You know randy one would think that you had an axe to grind against "george" the way you are contributing to the strife in this situation but how about this post where Dick equated wa3moj to george where he wasnt referring to a post made by a keyclown that accused george of being wa3moj or someone of being george.

Count Of Monte Crisco <geobsession@wiaum.net> posted more circular

You admit to being Georgie. You answer whenever Georgie-girl's name is mentioned.

If anyone says anything about you, you label them a hypocrite.

They don't, really.

Because everyone knows. Except you.

You mean, You forged yourself while posting as Nebo.

Saying it doesn't make it so. "known drug lord"? How do you "know" this?

From what I saw, Frankie posted false information about Twisted's identity. Maybe HE shouldn't jump to confusions?

Georgie-girl Busch and DouGay Adair are the trolls and forgers. Georgie-girl forged DouGay's callsign, and vice versa. I've never forged anyone. Prove otherwise.

> 4b. IcecoldNYC aka Brian Vanderpool has

You're really reaching there, Georgie-girl. You haven't ever established that IceCold is Brian to begin with, and now you're making up more lies to cover your own problem.

You have been proven to be stupid. You prove it yourself every time you get into this circular reasoning to cover your blunders.

Nope; it's Georgie-girl.

Sorry, Georgie-girl. It'll cost you $1000 for that test; $1750 if you want the results posted here. LOL!

You answer posts made to Georgie, for the record. If you're not Georgie-girl, why do you answer? Why does it bother you? That's your own logic.

You've lied and TROLLed here too much for anyone to believe anything you say now, so just keep on squirming.

There is a George. Look him up in QRZ. You know the address; you live

FYI there is not one shred of evidence that george or wa3moj ever posted in this newsgroup.

Look at whats going on here after 3 days of this shit:

twistiefag: whining

steveo: trolling

randy: trolling in drag

ladfag mark beck: crying like a sissy

dickless cranium: trolling and lieing

Oh and by the way check out this post from the archives, in with the trolls I named above there could be Jim Hampton is posting in drag
that would not be so unusual given he sides with the keyclowns in many posts.

George, buttpumper, or whomever you are, why not cut to the chase? Who the fuck are you? If you insist you are not who you are accused of being, then tell us who you are. Real simple, yes? Even you, with your horrendous spelling and grammar, should be able to understand such a simple concept. Can you not?

Sorry my boy.
It sold for $154.00
Inflated prices are for new or current items of any kind.
example: if you went to circuit city to buy a 50 inch TV, their price was $500 dollars. Now you went to the wiz and saw the same exact TV for $700 dollars. Now that would be the inflated price. Now who would you buy it from?
Old classic stuff of any type might go for much more than the original new price. In this case the radio sold for $180 dollars (1967 dollars).
Old classic stuff is only worth something to someone who really wants
it.
Or somebody who wanted the item it their youth and could not afford it.
Or somebody who wants something that nobody else has or nobody else can buy.
Anyway, enough time wasted on you.
I won't reply to your crude and nasty reply.
Be a good boy.

You must remember Randy, it was a whole 23 plus weeks after George himself posted with his call sign as a sig that Dick said that George was harassing him on the amateur groups.

Agreed, I don't see Frank making a fuss

his supposed name was mentioned.

Don't worry about it Randy, it's George. He's to scared to admit it. Again, why would he always answer if it's not him? He screwed up with his wa3moj call sign before anyone even knew that he was the troll.
He used ebay and was using his aol account that said
wa3moj@aol.com, it's George.

You nitwit, you didn't know that Sir Francis Drake was a homosexual?

On second thought, maybe you did, is that why you picked that name?

Notice how the "To:" name is mis-spelled about half the time. That's Georgie-girl typing faster than he can think. As usual.

Is it "RobertTheJuice" or "RoberTheJuice", Georgie-girl? You certainly are a piss-poor forger! LOL!

> 7. Eat shit and die Steve

Which proves nothing since it's a forge. Take your own advice, Georgie-girl. Robert the Juice. Count of Monte Crisco.

How many nics in the last couple of days, Georgie-girl? Why would an honest man have to change accounts so often? Or post via a remailer in France?

For the 1000th time flapass I am not George.
You made this up you and you alone are responsible for spreading this lie this CB myth all over the net. Like I said you keyclowns are so anxious to get a home address on someone you jump at the first thing that turns up and in this case it was wrong but that didnt stop you. Now you cannot admit\ to being wrong so the charade of trying to prove that "george" posts here is carried on that is the real reason why you fuckfaces are posting some 200+ messages a day and turining the NG into a george obsession board. Now please go lick the shit off a

That freakin' Golden Corral near the mideastern-owned grocery store one-steak-fits-all from a buffet line? Can't even ORDER a steak at a steakhouse? I tell ya, Jer,,,,I'm finding me a new town for my layovers,,,Perhaps Orangeburg has a real steakhouse,,,don't get me started on Charlotte, as I've never seen the traffic so bad in,,,,,ever!

EW, let me tell you about Charlotte!!! Traffic is so bad because it was (used to be/wannabe) just another small town like mine. Then they wanted to be on the "map" like Atlanta, or Washington DC. Never saw such an inferiority complex. They didn't think about what traffic would be 20 years into the future (1969) and when they realized.......hey we better DO something, it was too late.
The population rose so fast, the county/city gov'ts recruited companies so fast, they couldn't handle it. They hemmed and hawed around for those 20 years deciding where/how/when a beltline would go (I-485), and it is only 1/2 complete. If you have been thru Clt lately you will see the latest segment going in on the west side towards Belmont. I have watched in awe and dismay as this pretty town is now becoming just like Philly, Boston, or New York. They have a long way to get there yet, but believe me it's on its way. They wanted SOOO bad to be a big city. That section of I-485 once was a beautiful golf course with rolling hills and immaculate greens. (now it is a sea of mud). Traffic will soon roll unknowingly over

what was once the 18th hole. Ah, progress. (sigh)
You once could walk up and down Trade and Tryon streets without fear (the square). No more. Crimes such as murder have risen dramatically. The Charlotte landscape/roadscape has changed so much that someone who left Charlotte 15 years would not recognize Independence Blvd--heck it doesn't even take the same route exactly; it ends abruptly near Kings Dr. and takes up somewhere else. The Wachovia Tower (bank) and other downtown skyscrapers make Trade street dusky dark and the "designers" work desperately to turn the town into permanent twilight. I hate to go down there.
A friendly, medium-sized city has now become an intimi-dating place. So what price, this progress, eh?

I just filed a request for payment for $2000 on that address. So far the 2 grand has not hit my account and I doubt it ever will. Maybe because Lancer@lancer.web does not even have a Paypal account you buffon.

Hey pencildick put your ear up to the hose sticking out of landsharks ass and listen closer: you dont call the shots here

expect. You dont negotiate it down you dont ask for agreements you dont ask for terms you pay or you dont thats all.

You are right! I recently signed onto this group to gain information about CB. Instead, all I found was a bunch of people complaining about everything under the sun. This has to be the worst newsgroup I have ever seen for flaming.

Of course, I expect to get a lot of harrasement about this post.
Since this is the first time I have ever posted to this group any comments can't possible be based on who or what I am because no one knows. So come on guys and say something foul about me -- you are good at that so give it your best shot.

Maybe the group should be named rec.radio.bitch

Hey stupid, I still have the e-mail that paypal sent me when I signed

I have a valid paypal account under that e-mail.
Now put up or shut the fuck up..

I'm still waiting for the paypal info.

BTW, didn't you say earlier that you had already sent that info?

I'm not the one squealing "Alpha Lima" for days at a time. That's your mentally deficient "sidekick", the so-called Sheriff Bob doing the squealing.

Well now that George has seem to go over the deep end, back to his usual 20 to 50 posts a day, enough is enough.
The truth is out on George Busch and all his trolling ways.
I am asking him very nicely, please do not keep changing you screen names to by pass my kill file and stop harassing me with foul language,
stalking me onto other newsgroups.
Per Comcast's TOS, you are not supposed to do this. I am saving everyone of you posts that harrass me, accuse me, use foul language and that you change your screen nic. I suggest that other due too, as they have written back to me that one person complains, nothing will happen, but if enough people complain
they will take action.

Now again, please cease & desist this constant changing of screen name to by pass kill file filters

Well sorry to say it's not that bad except a couple of certain individuals that post all that stuff. They started trolling a few years back doing occasionally, but seem to have made it a full time practice of trolling.

I agree landshark is a crybaby fag that can dish it but cant take it after years of harassing and making fun of "george" he wants to call time out because he cant take it anymore well look here Mark Beck you forging fag and I know it was you who forged wa3moj there will not be one moments peace for you on this NG there will be posts from here and far from ISPs the world over and your killfile will never stop them
you will read about your gayness and the transexual nature of your past from now until the end of time Mark Beck and all who support him will just have to walk it off and act like men instead of pink tutu wearing sissies but that wont happen so its business as usual. Now go make a sperm cocktail and swallow it.

OK, gw.....................

It is predicted and expected that you would argue about what I may know or whom I may know. No problem.

With all the "urban legend" circulating about FCC not responding to or acting upon complaints, I just thought I'd offer this. Remember that I inferred that something would be going down soon? All I will say, is it applies to some recent events and people who "thought" they would be able to continue selling their wares (10 Meter radios and amps) as usual. I also implied that I had a bit of inside info which was ridiculed (secret agent, etc, etc). And that is fine. So if you read about something soon, then you will know you heard it here first. The email came today,
and I will share it at the appropriate time. Today's date is 1-08-04, so use that as a benchmark. If nothing happens, then laugh all you like. It's all good.......... We will see if FCC "ignores" anything. Or not.

WADR, the FCC "ignores" the Citizen's Band, which is the origin of the vast majority of the 10m "incursions". Riley & Co. refuse to go after the problem at it's source; which, btw, has the very same problem but is not complained about by hams. Hams don't have any more rights than CBers, yet the FCC chooses to enforce the ham bands and not the CB. To the FCC, CBers are second-class citizens. Ask Riley to prove any different.

No, but he is accused of "forging" posts as WA3MOJ... but you are allowed to use that name at the end of your posts.

If he is "forging", but you are not, then you must be WA3MOJ.

Either that, or a lying, forging, hypocrite troll.

What a bunch of dumb muvverfekkers.

They come on a CB group, posting gay crud, calling people gay, faggot, assmunch, gayqueen, keyqueens, keyclown... to name just a few.

Then they have the stupidity to call themselves "innocent people".
Why don't they go wave a gun about in front of police officers... see if they can complain about being innocent when the police open fire.

Yes, that is a real Amateur callsign.

He reminds me of a person adicted to gambling.
He has always lost, and he will keep losing... but he still keeps returning in the hope that he will get back just a little of what he has lost.
He just doesn't know when to quit and accept his losses, he is up to his neck in sh*t, but that still isn't deep enough for him.

Maybe the deck is stacked, maybe all the other players are ganging up on him... nah, he's just a born loser.

That depends on who you are referring to... the last person I heard getting popped by the FCC here in phoenix was Tim Hoffman (multiple years of bootlegging on HF and finally harrassing others on vhf, interference with emergency calls via autopatch, placing false 911 calls via autopatch and various other mischeif). Last I heard on him was that he was paying on the fine imposed in 1996. He still lives in the phoenix area (at last report which was 3 years ago).

Other than that, I am not sure who else got popped (unless you are referring also to truman ellard who lives (lived) across the street from Mr. Kingston.). still, that was a lot longer back (around 1992 or so).

well, given past history, I think not. too much water under the bridge. besides, I go back down there and I'll never hear the end of it from some of the lids on 2 meters!

There are killer contacts being made all the time. C'mon down, pick a number, and chat awhile...everyone's doing it. I'm not even going to acknowledge the hammie status thing, as you well know, no one cares if a call is held or not on the band,,,,,that's the beauty of it,,,,anyone can do it,,,,plug and play,,,it's like any other area of entertainment,,,there are bad apples to be found everywhere,,they aren't confined to any genre. I hear less hate and discontent there than one can hear on 75 phone. Yea, I know,,,that's why I said I know you can't come back and post anything that might even convey such a torrid thought to some of the animals amongst us. Nevertheless, no law against listening,,,,I'll still wave a hand to "Eric" the next time Phoenix is rolling really loud in the 'pile.....that one liner, uttered alone, beamed directly into Phoenix, ought to be good for an entire night's worth of local banter in your hometown....remember port-a-potty 101 Charlie? We had him go to triple 5 once from 38 low and when the gang from Phoenix learned that Charlie was stepping on their necks, they put on a show that has been unequaled since. "Bleed-over" can be caused by two things. The first is by 'dirty' transmitters that splatter their signal onto other channels, and there is nothing you can do to avoid it. The second by radios with poor selectivity, or 'adjacent channel rejection', which also has two causes: poor design and poor alignment. Most AM radios have more than adequate selectivity when properly aligned, but the cheaper radios usually perform poorly. SSB has excellent adjacent channel rejection by design.

Hope that helps.

No. they have merely changed the way such is reported.
Instead of reporting the full name of the accused, they only give the name of the location, callsign, and the infraction. Otherwise, they still respond to complaints.

Indeed. Nevertheless, when asked for a call sign, WA3MOJ responded with

The conversations sometimes interchange as illustrated in that converasation. Take that, and the fact and your IP number matches posts that yourself has crossposted to several groups, coupled with your own quip that "I may be lying", and there is no need to question your integrity. You've been made to squirm by a couple of lowly cbers and it's got you frustrated to no end.

No contradiction at all, except in your communication-challenged mind. By snipping a mere line from one post and presenting it in another context, it is bound to change the original meaning, and you can 't even manage that right. I always claimed the individual needs to learn for himself the laws and penalties prior to making a decision. Eric, by virtue of his licensure status, is quite educated on such laws, therefore, any comment made by myself to him is petty conversation, except in the ravaged half-minds of those who suffer great communciation deficits not unlike yourself, who see a conspiracy of cbers and freebanders slowly taking over..more and more,,,,bit by bit.

Burger King (drive-thru) customers told: 'You are Too Fat to have a Whopper'

Police believe teenage pranksters are hacking into the wireless frequency of a US Burger King drive-through speaker to tell potential customers they are too fat for fast food.

Policeman Gerry Scherlink said the pranksters told one customer who had just placed an order: "You don't need a couple of Whoppers. You are too fat. Pull ahead."

The offenders are reportedly tapping into the wireless frequency at the restaurant in Troy, Michigan. Police believe the culprits are watching and broadcasting from close range.
Officer Scherlinck said the men are telling customers who order a Coca-Cola that, "We don't have Coke." And when the customer asks what they do have, the hacker would say: "We don't have anything. Pull ahead."

But what has managers concerned is the profanity the hackers are using, according to police.

A drive-through customer has told police if he had children with him in the car and someone used profanity, he would have been upset.
Burger King franchise owner Tony Versace issued the following statement in response to the incidents: "We apologise to our customers who've been insulted by the use of this drive-through speaker."

Management at the fast-food restaurant are reportedly trying to change the radio frequency used for the (drive thru) speakers.

Actually, they're probably speaking the truth! There are a lot of overweight people in the area. I know, I'm one of them. In addition to that, it's fact that Burger King food is very fatning. Maybe they feel they're providing a public service! People need to lighten up, and regain their sense of humor. The whole world is too uptight!

Come-on, capitalism 101.

What I have are 2 Wilson antenna's, 1 - is Lil Wil, the other is Wilson 500, lookin to have a nice mobile 2000 4dr. Honda Civic DX.

What I have is a Cobra 25LTD (may be fried) Classic manufactured 10/90 in the Philippines by the Dynascan Corp. of Chicago.

What I have is a Uniden PRO538W, I want better noise reduction. Although the Cobra is ok if I can get it to stop blowing fuses!

Never saw any evidence of that. But YOUR posts encourage CBers to stay

LOL, I have it plugged into the 12v socket 120 watts or less 10 amps hole.
Problem with the Uniden PRO538W is way too much engine noise! Nice when engine is turned off.

Actually, they're probably speaking the truth! There are a lot of overweight people in the area. I know, I'm one of them. In addition to that, it's fact that Burger King food is very fatning. Maybe they feel they're providing a public service! People need to lighten up, and regain their sense of humor. The whole world is too uptight!

Bill Crocker

Bottom line, really, is that the hackers don't have to be in sight of the persons giving the order at the drive up. The low pwr rigs of these fast food places can be heard for several blocks if one has a good mobile rig and some can be heard as far away as a half mile on a base station antenna. It is a simple task to hear what the customers are ordering. Besides, if the customers are sitting in their cars, how is the prankster to know what they look like?
If I were a betting type, I'd bet that a Ham with a modified two meter rig was behind it since many of these places operate on low power VHF frequencies. An enterprising Ham could experiment for a few minutes and easily find the PL tone the food places use.
Trouble is that this is not a local law enforcement problem. They have no jurisdiction. Call the FCC...and you know how long it takes THEM to act! It seems like it took forever for Riley to get David Tolassi tossed off 20M.

divisions I think are sections of the globe that outbanders and freeloaders and other illegal pirates use that imitate the ITU callsign zones that real ham radio operators go by. Since the freebanders are outlaws they cannot really confirm anything since they are breaking the law so any confirmation is a joke you never know who you are talking to because it is all illegal communications.

I can hook you up with some gear if it ends up being a 727 tranny and an 8 3/4 rear end. My buddy builds them, but their almost bulletproof anyway.

The 440 needs heads, intake, carb and a good bottom end. If you can find a B body that's fairly clean, let me know.

That is just awesome! What great fun! I want to hang out with those guys. I bet you will see this turn up in a movie since they can't seem to think up their own stuff. Its just some low scale electronic warfare and really pretty harmless except for some hurt feelings. You go for it fella's. Oh yeah, Detroit was voted the fattest city in a

Look for many fast food places to use itinerant freqs. such as 154.570 and 154.600. Wal-Mart is known to use 154.570 but their PL tones vary from store to store. 151.565 is another well used freq. but of late the fast food places shy away from that one due to over use by others, including truckers.
Now that the MURS freqs. have been opened up for general use it is not unusual for places such as Wal-Mart to move from VHF to the UHF freqs.
If you live near an industrial park, listen to these freqs. since many of them use small, one watt handheld rigs for in-house comms. Listen to 454.500 and 454.550. These are commonly used as well.

Similar situation in the GMRS band. It used to be used by small business, and security firms. Now it's being infiltrated, legally, by individuals, for personal use. Lots of channel wars going on these days!

Not a bad CB, but when size and power are considered, it's one of the better choices.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is advising hikers, hunters, fishermen, and golfers to take extra precautions and be on the alert for bears in National parks and areas where development is encroaching upon wildlife habitat.

They advise people to wear noise-producing devices, such as little bells on their clothing to alert but not startle the bears, and to carry pepper spray in case of an encounter with a bear.

It is also a good idea to watch for signs of bear activity, such as droppings. People should be able to recognize the difference between black bear and grizzly bear droppings:

Black bear droppings are smaller and contain berries and possibly squirrel fur; Grizzly bear droppings have bells in them and smell like pepper spray.

Good heads up, Radioman. Even a black bear will get real snoopy if it's hungry. If you encounter a Grizzly, you better be good at bear speak. Although most people who don't freak-out and run survive an agressive Grizzly bear meeting..it would be hard to resist the urge to run tho.

I'd beware of any bear if there's food involved.
(unless I was hunting them)

Actually, my sobriety has surpassed 9 years, and punk-boy from up north should not be entrusted to enter anything near a rational thought.

That radio is indeed illegal for CB. That being said, it will cause you much less strife than a modified CB or 10 meter radio, when properly used and the PA section is driven at reasonable levels.

Please ignore the moron from Comcast. If he keeps up his drunken bashing, his days will be numbered...and I suspect he will.

You forgot two more names:

Georgie-girl Busch WA3MOJ, in Allentown, PA: Known liar and TROLL.
Posts here only to stir flames and discourage real communications among CBers. Alleged Extra-class ham who hangs in a CB newsgroup simply to make trouble. Crisco fanatic. Obvious homosexual. Hates himself and wants everyone else to hate him, too. When cornered he whines and crys and acts like a victim. Prolific poster, often using several nics a day. Complete moron.

DouGay Adair N8WWM, in Toledo, OH: Known liar and TROLL. Posts here only to cause trouble. Is a coat-tailer and follows Georgie-girl around to help fan the flames.

Hey Georgie-girl: Why are you posting via a French remailer? What are you afraid of?

Apparently Georgie's not the only one not paying attention.

Leave him alone Steve, he's not worth it, he's shown that he's a troll, now we must try to stop feeding him.

news:2v0000dgble3r4nrua94jov5kuunnsqcrt@4ax.com:

The other day I received a "careless driving" citation from an officer that I pass every morning at around 5:10 AM. As I exited a place where I stop to get coffee, I used a left turn only lane to accelerate prior to entering the driving lane. I was cited for "driving in a center turning lane", which came shortly after the left turn only lane.

I always carry my Yaesu VX-5R and listen to the Pittsburgh Police as I head to work. (It wasn't the Pittsburgh Police that pulled me over). Anyway, had I not shut the radio off prior to the officer coming to my window, I'd probably be in jail now as a terrorist. I don't believe that Pennsylvania or local ordinances forbid me to carry a scanner, and I am a licensed HAM, so I am authorized to carry the Transceiver. Supposedly the FCC permits Amateurs to carry radio transceivers that "are incidentally capable of receiving" public service broadcasts.

Try to explain that to the police.

It's odd how often the borough officers find it necessary to "pull their guns", especially contrasted to the Pittsburgh Police, where I believe that they are much more reluctant to use their weapons. (I believe that it's called discipline). The officer in my case didn't have his gun drawn, but I did witness another borough incident where 2 cops had a car pulled over. The car had 5 geriatric women in it. One officer positioned himself at the rear of the car, with his hand on his gun. I guess traffic stops of old ladies going to bingo are much more dangerous than I believed.

Imagine what they would do to what they believed was an unauthorized monitor of police communications.

By definition, nothing is 'evidence' unless it is 'evident'; i.e, easy to understand or perceive. Since your level of understanding is on par with that of a limp potato chip and your perceptions show a severe lack of objectiveness, it's quite clear that the only evidence which can satisfy you must come from a bottle labelled "hand lotion".

Remember the "Jerky Boys" in the mid 90s? They got a movie of them making prank phone calls to everybody from little old ladies to (then) President Clinton. A whole movie of nothing but prank phone calls!

Is there such a thing as a "professional troll"? If so, Georgie-girl Busch certainly makes lots of money doing it. He obviously can't hold a paying job of any other kind.

Squirm, squirm, squirm!

So prove that Twist is Dave. While you're at it, prove that Pat Murphy and/or Steve Rogovich are me. If you can't, you've established exactly nothing, which is exactly what you've managed to do. Nothing.

So it's OK for you to smear people without providing any proof, but not anyone else? What a crock you are!

Amateur Radio Newsline™ Report 1378 – January 9, 2004

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1378 with a release date of Friday, January 9, 2004 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T. V-K hams celebrate a new ham radio, some new Amateur Radio problems in Nepal, and Canadian hams learn that they may loose 220 to 22 MHz. All this and the latest in the war against B-P-L on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1378 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

RESTRUCTURING: NO-CODE COMES TO VK-LAND

Major changes to ham radio in Australia were celebrated on the air on New Years Day. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, listened in and tells us what he heard:

When 1 January 2004 arrived, so to did a new era for Amateur Radio operators around Australia. At one minute past midnight, amidst the fireworks across Australia, Amateur Radio short wave frequencies lit up, too, as they celebrated the removal of a requirement for Morse Code qualification by getting on air in unprecedented numbers.

A quick scan through the 80 meter band during the first hour of the QSO party showed that there was standing room only with stations of all license levels participating eagerly in the party with some limited and novice limited stations handling high amounts of static and nearby station noise with considerable skill .

All states and territories activated special radio stations for the event. There were plenty of Wireless Institute of Australia stations on the air to help with the bonus contacts with VK5WI, VK6WIA, VK2WI, VK4WIG, VK4WIA and VK4WIT heard during the quick scan around 80 meters.

In the act, the Wireless Institute of Australia's club station VK1WI was activated from the home of their President, Alan Hawes. Way up north long time WIA supporter John Stevens took to the airwaves from the Townsville region.

As the morning wore on the stations operating were fewer but still at a level that veteran operators say rival the heydays of HF operating when Novice licensees were first able to access the HF bands.

From Q-News Australia, I’m Graham Kemp, VK4BB, reporting for the Amateur Radio Newsline.

Still more changes to ham radio down-under is expected in the coming months. (Q-News)

RESTRUCTURING: NEW BANDS AND NO-CODE TO CROATIA

Croatia has become the first country in Region 1 to benefit from the expansion of the 40 metre band agreed at the World Radio Conference in Switzerland last summer. 9A amateurs have also been given privileges at 70 and 3,400 Mhz.

New amateur radio regulations came into effect in Croatia on the 26th of December. Since then, amateurs there may operate between 7,100 and 7,200 kHz on a Secondary basis, with a maximum power of 1,000 watts PEP, in addition to the normal Region 1 allocation of 7,000 to 7,100 kHz. On 4 metres, Croatian amateurs now have 70.000 to 70.450 MHz, with a power limit of 10 watts. They also gain a new band between 3,400 and 3,410 MHz, with a maximum permitted power of 150 watts.

The Morse code requirement for an HF bands licence was also dropped with the new regulations and there are now only two licence classes there: the full licence and a beginners' licence.

I’m Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, in Nottingham England. (GB2RS)

RADIO POLITICS: HAM RADIO IN NEPAL

Some bad news about ham radio in Nepal. Charles Harpole, K4VUD, says that his efforts, along with those of 9N1AA, to expand ham radio in that nation and to establish a memorial club station for the late Father Marshall Moran, 9N1MM, are on an indefinite hold. This, due to the disturbed social and political conditions there.

Harpole says that all radios and other gear that was donated some years ago have been distributed to the currently licensed native 9 N hams. Harpole says that the gear will come back to a club station someday. Harpole asks that everyone bear with this situation and extend understanding. (OPDX)

SPECTRUM REALLOCATION: 220 - 222MHZ ON THE BLOCK IN CANADA

Canadian Amateurs may lose part of the 220 to 222 MHz in the 1 point 3 meter band. band. Thats the recommendation being made by the Radio Advisory Board of Canada to Industry Canada following an 18 month survey. Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, is in Antioch, Illinois, with more:

--
In a move reminiscent of the situation in the United Sates back in 1991, the 220 to 222 MHz band would be transferred away from Canada’s Amateur Radio operators and given to that nations Mobile Radio service. That’s the bad part. Here’s the good news. The Radio Advisory Board of Canada has recommended that Amateur repeaters in this portion of the band be grandfathered to continue operation for a number of years. That time period would be decided by Industry Canada which is Canada’s radio and telecommunications regulator.

The Radio Advisory Board also recommended allocating 219 to 220 MHz to amateurs in Canada on a secondary, non-interfering basis. This says the R-A-B-C would put the band in agreement with a similar allocation now available to radio amateurs in the United States.

But here is where the Radio Advisory Board of Canada begins to think outside the proverbial box. While most administrations seems to frown on the idea of hams and non-hams sharing spectrum and talking with one another in a common allocation, Canada has other ideas.

The Radio Advisory Board wants a 150 kHz wide parcel in the reallocated band be designated as “Public Service Spectrum.” A small band to be shared by Canadian Amateur Radio operators and Canadian Mobile Services for special public safety and disaster communications applications. In other words, Canadian hams could talk with their non ham counterparts -- and vice versa -- in a disaster scenario.

Radio Amateurs of Canada, as a member of the Radio Advisory Board of Canada, has opposed any changes to the 220 to 222 MHz spectrum. Unfortunately, so far with very little success.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Rick Johnson, KA9VZD, reporting.

Industry Canada must now take this advice and decide what it will do with 220 to 222 Mhz, and how soon. The full story is on the web at http://www.rac.ca/news/canada.htm (RAC)

THE BPL FIGHT: BPL INTERFERENCE PROVEN TWO-WAY

Two organizations have filed comments with the FCC that augment previously expressed worries about potential interference from and to Broadband over Power Line systems. One of them shows that service providers could loose a lot of income if anyone operates even a low power radio near a B-P-L transmission line. Amateur Radio Newsline's Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, reports:

Picking up on the what it terms as grave concerns expressed by the Federal Emergency Management Agency over implementation of B-P-L on December 4, the nonprofit Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Response Association has called on the FCC to require impartial B-P-L field testing as well as additional public comment and full and open public hearings.

The ARRL Letter says that in comments to the FCC the Disaster Preparedness organization concluded that serious interference to and disruption of critical emergency communications systems in several licensed services throughout North America would almost certainly result from BPL implementation as currently proposed.

Endorsing earlier FEMA remarks, the group said that proposed B-P-L systems don't just pose a risk of interference. Rather, they have already been shown to actually cause harmful interference to licensed radio services.

Meanwhile, the Amateur Radio Research and Development Corporation has filed additional test data with the FCC. This, to support preliminary findings suggesting that BPL systems are susceptible to interference from even modest Amateur Radio HF signals. AMRAD said its newest data demonstrated that amateur operation in the test neighborhood would cause many homes to lose their Internet connectivity.

For its RF susceptibility experiment, AMRAD used the Potomac Electric Power Company system test site. It features a mid-1960s vintage home with unshielded interior electrical wiring and overhead power lines.

AMRAD's tests found that at a distance of just over one-half mile, data transfer ceased in the face of a signal from a mobile 100 watt transmitter on 3 point 980 MHz. When sited adjacent to the test property, AMRAD said data transfer went away in all but one instance at a transmitter power of just 4 watts operating in the proposed Broadband Over Powerline spectrum.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I'm Bruce Tennant, K6PZW, in Los Angeles.

What AMRAD has now done is to prove that interference with B-P-L will be a two way problem. More so for data providers who won't see much profit if something as simple as a 5 watt C-B radio can shut down a neighborhoods B-P-L operations. (ARRL)

THE BPL FIGHT: TAMPA TRIBUNE PRESENTS BOTH SIDES

An excellent article that details both sides of the B-P-L controversy appeared in the January 5th edition of the Tampa Tribune. In it, reporter Will Rodgers provides not only the industry side of the issue, but the ham radio side as well. The article can be read on-line at the cyberspace address in this weeks printed Amateur Radio Newsline report. WITH THE FCC: CHAIRMAN POWELL PROMOTES A FREE MARKET TELECOM REVOLUTION

The chairman of the FCC is sending out a message that the migration to digital telecommunications will not falter. Michael Powell says that entrenched service providers such as telephone companies and cable television providers can either join the party or suffer the consequences.

In a December 29th interview with reporters and editors from the San Jose Mercury News, Michael Powell shared a number of personal views. At one point he stated the current migration to digital is really a simple thesis. One that says for the past 100 years we've had one kind of communications system. That being a system that's both analog and narrow band. And while it's the greatest machine ever built by mankind, it's also extremely mature, and it's really, in Powell's view, at the end of its innovation life.

Perhaps Powell's most controversial statement came in regard to companies that are not eager to invest in the digital revolution. He said -- quote: "I have no problem if a big and venerable company no longer exists tomorrow, as long as that value is transferred somewhere else in the economy."

You can read more of what FCC Chairman Powell had to say at www.siliconvalley.com/mld/siliconvalley/7591252.htm (CGC)

RADIO LAW: FCC STILL NOT "NAMING NAMES" IN ENFORCEMENT ISSUES

The FCC's decision to no longer identify those hams allegedly violating the Part 97 Amateur Rules continues into the new year. The agency's Daryl Duckworth, N-N-Zero-W, has the latest word:

Duckworth: "The FCC, at least temporarilly, has revised the format in which it is supplying information on Amateur Radio enforcement actions. The new format provides only the state and city with a synopsys of the action taken, without naming any indiciduals.

Pursuant to privacy concerns, the FCC currently is reviewing its proceedures in its radio services regasrding the release of information about individuals. Following this review, the FCC will determine its privacy policy for the future. "

As we go to air there is still no word as to when the revirew of privacy proceedures at the FCC will be completed. Its been about two months since the ban on relesing names was put in place. (FCC)

COMMUNICATIONS LAW: NORWEGIAN COURT SAYS COPYING DVD'S NOT PIRACY

An appeals court in Oslo Norway has dealt a major blow to those trying to protect the intellectual copyright of material that they own from unauthorized duplication. This, after it upholds the acquittal of a 20-year-old Norwegian man who posted a program on the Internet for cracking DVD security codes.

Prosecutors had appealed a lower court decision after Jon Lech Johansen was acquitted last January of violating Norway's data break-in laws with his DeCSS program for DVDs. The prosecution had sought a 90-day suspended jail sentence, confiscation of computer equipment and a $2,940 fine. But the judge ruled that Johansen could freely copy DVDs he bought, adding he didn't violate the Nordic country's laws protecting intellectual property.

The case was widely seen as a test of Norway's computer protection laws. Prosecutors said they were considering appealing to the country's supreme court. In the meantime, the decision is being viewed as a major setback for anti-piracy proponents in the entertainment industry, worldwide. (Published news reports)

HAM RADIO HONORS: SELECTING THE TOP 5 QSL MANAGER SURVEY

John Shelton, K1XN, Editor of the Go List says that it’s time again for his newsletters’ annual “Top 5 QSL Manager” survey. This is is a process by which DX’ers get to choose those that they consider to be the best QSL Managers with whom they have had dealings with in the past 12 months. Its also a way to provide at least a small “thank-you” to the work performed by these and other QSL Managers around the world.

The results of this survey will be given to Carl Smith, N4AA, for inclusion in the QRZ-DX bulletin and also announced on the GO LIST Reflector by mid February. To vote, send your list of those who you are the five best 5 of 2003 by e-mail to golist@golist.net before February 1st. Again, that address is golist@golist.net. (OPDX)

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: SIREN SENSOR TEST IN L.A.

On the technology front, the Los Angeles Fire Department has been asked to study the possibility of equipping engines with a device to turn traffic lights green. This, so vehicles responding to emergencies don't have to stop at intersections. Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, is in our Los Angeles studio with more:

--

Los Angeles City Councilman Tom LaBonge has asked the Fire Department to work with the City's Department of Transportation to start a pilot program using technology such as SirenSensor. This is an acoustically activated device that can differentiate emergency sirens from ambient noise and then warn the civilian driver of the approach of an emergency vehicle. It does this by shutting of a near-by car's audio system or radio and activating both audible and visual signals. The councilman believes that this technology can help police and firefighters respond to emergencies with greater speed.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, in the City of Angels.

No word when the tests of this remote control system might begin. More about SirenSensor is on the web at http://www.findarticles.com/cf_dls/m4PRN/1998_Nov_13/53213508/p1/article.jhtml (LA News)

NEW PRODUCTS: NEW QUICK-CHARGE NiMH BATTERIES

Turning to the latest in electronic products of interest to hams, we have this from battery maker Rayovac. That company has announced a new charger that it says is capable of fully restoring a specially designed Nickel Metal Hydride cell in only 15 minutes. Dubbed the I-C3, the new rechargeable cells and charging system uses Rayovac's In-Cell Charge Control technology that puts the control of recharging into the battery instead of the charger. The company says that doing this offers significant performance and convenience advantages over existing rechargeable and disposable battery systems. NEW PRODUCTS: INTEL IN YOUR TV

And the world's largest microchip maker will soon unveil plans to make integrated circuits for use in digital television receivers. Santa Clara, California based Intel is exploring a technology called liquid crystal on silicon which is a hybrid between the more expensive silicon microchips and liquid crystal displays. This could significantly lower the cost of flat panel high definition displays. Industry analysts say that if this technology is successful it would pose a serious threat to established consumer electronics chip makers in Europe and Japan, such as Philips and Sony Corp., as well as emerging players like Texas Instruments. THAT FINAL ITEM: THAT FINAL ITEM: ARDF

Lastly, some hams have learned the secret of enjoying the hobby while staying physically fit. They're the fans of on-foot transmitter hunting, also called radio-orienteering and ARDF. Reporter Joe Moell, K0OV, has the story of a California ham who is rapidly becoming one of the best.

I've told you about the many direction-finding medals that have been won by Jay Thompson W6JAY, Newsline's Young Ham of the Year. But you don't have to be Jay's age to be a big winner at international on-foot transmitter hunts. 61-year-old Bob Cooley KF6VSE of Pleasanton, California has just brought home a couple of gold medals from the IARU Region 3 Championships in Australia.

The competitions began November 28 near Ballarat, a historic gold mining town in northwestern Victoria province. They were hosted by the Wireless Institute of Australia and organized by the Victorian ARDF Group.

Cooley competed in M60, the Superveteran Category for men age 60 and above. On the 4.7-kilometer two-meter course, he found his required three fox transmitters in 1:30:25, seven minutes ahead of the second-place finisher. Then on the 5.6-kilometer 80-meter course, he did even better, finding all three foxes and getting to the finish line in 1:15:22.

All three IARU Regions hold championships in odd-numbered years. These events for Region 3, encompassing Asia and Oceania, drew 50 male and 9 female competitors from Australia, China, Japan, Korea, and New Zealand. KF6VSE was the only guest from North America.

A long-time competitor at non-radio type orienteering events, Bob has improved greatly since he discovered ARDF in 1999. He finished among the top ten in his age and gender category at the 2000 ARDF World Championships near Nanjing, China. This past summer, he won gold medals on both bands at the 2003 USA ARDF Championships near Cincinnati.

You can get a link to the complete results from Australia and learn more about world-class transmitter hunting on the Web at www.homingin.com. There you will also find the details on the upcoming USA ARDF Championships, which will take place in California next June. That's homingin -- one word -- homingin.com

From southern California, where we do transmitter hunting every month of the year, this is Joe Moell K-zero-Oscar-Victor, reporting for Newsline.

You wouldn't squirm so much if you used the hand lotion.

I did.

Actually, I don't care who you are because you don't say anything that peaks my interest. Your tag-team partner TwistyDave is a little different because he's actually a wee bit intelligent. But even if I had proof of who you are it really doesn't matter because, just like TwistyDave does all the time, you would just don another clown suit. It must be hard for you to mingle with real people, having to keep all your vile attitudes hidden behind a persona created specifically to protect them. Kinda like trying to find just the right bottle to hide your bitterness -- a bottle with kind of a generic label and no reputation, that thankfully doesn't inspire anyone to pull the cork and pour themself a glass of your mud. But at the same time it must be a bottle that people think just might hold something with enough value that they don't take it out in the field and use it for target practice. We all have something like that sitting on our shelves. For me it's that bottle of Hi-Karate aftershave that someone gave me for Christmas probably 30 years ago but never used. Just sitting there collecting dust, getting older, mostly ignored......

Well that was fun, but it's time to close that cabinet for a while longer.

You aren't completely aware of the real history here dude.
unless you are very conversant with it, I would suggest that:
1. a little research is in order and
2. please don't comment on something you have almost no knowledge of.

I request this of you as a gentleman: please don't get involved.
as for what was, or was not done, this is a prelude. most stalking incidents start out like this. they seem like innocent pranks until someone gets hurt.

now, having been a victim of s stalker at one time, I can tell you with ABSOLUTE certainty, that this type of behavior will not be tolerated, even in here. I have rights and I intend to exercise them.

thank you.

Still causing trouble on the newsgroups, Eric?

Still threatening people with frivolous legal actions?

One would think you would have learned from your mistakes after nearly 10 years and moved on.

Guess not.

Well Eric, I can't possible know what's happening in your local area, so if this person is "stalking" you locally,
I would suspect you might be right.
But if you are going with just what was said here, then I should check Pa.
laws to see if I can have George Busch wa3moj prosecuted on charges, right?
He's posted my name, where I work
and live, made false accusations, harassed me, sent me virus's, threatened me, wouldn't that be construed as stalking?

Yet Comcast won't do anything
unless I have a lawyer contact them, to me that would be a terrible waste of money.
If they are local to you, Yes, you should do what you say. If this is just something that was said in this group,
Good Luck!

The FCC likely can't do anything anyway. Burger King's drive through frequency just happens to correspond to channel four of the license free CB VHF band known as MURS. MURS is covered under Part 95 the same as 11m CB and FRS. Channel four is 154.570MHz. Besides Burger King I've heard Toco Bell and the local Laser Quest game joint on the same frequency in my area. Radio Shack was selling 2w 2 channel MURS legal radios as a discontinued item for about $30 about 6 months or more ago. They sold out real quick to those who wanted one to play around with on MURS. I would guess its just some kids with one of those radios. So long as they are not jamming any body technically they're are not violating any rules either. The only thing Burger King can do is what was stated, change their frequency to one of the remaining licensed color-dot frequencies.

Sorry, Frankie, but I'm not "bitter". You must be projecting again.
Same as Georgie-girl Busch and DouGay Adair do all the time. You take your problem(s) and see them in everyone else.

So where's the proof that Twisty is someone called "Dave"? It's all right to admit that you don't have any, of course. And multiple ASSumptions don't make proof.

That certainly is what you're doing, Georgie-girl and DouGay. You

"dickless"? You must be hungry.

I did look it up, DouGay. Now he's forging a licensed amateur in California. Guess you reported him to his ISP so he can't forge you anymore?

And why are you answering for Georgie-girl? Nobody was talking to you, DouGay Adairierre.

But your subect line was correct: You don't make sense. Either one of you.

The only ones posting "gay stuff" here are Georgie-girl Busch and DouGay Adair. The rest of us don't know anything about that stuff, but you two have the experience. It shows!

I agree that the FCC won't do anything, but I think it's because they want to avoid that pesky interstate/intrastate issue. The BK could probably bring harassment and/or nuisance charges under local laws provided they can identify the culprit. Since it's a local signal, the TwistyBuster RDF should be able to pin down the troublemaker in no time at all.

Opps I looked closer at the pics and see the medicine bottles next to the easy chair and some of the poor condition of the homes and I must say I think Riley would puke, so I unsent that url but I did send him the main page where radios are for sale the RCI 10/12 meter radio in with the CBs.

the kind of stalking I am talking about is a bit more involved (like telephone calls in the middle of the night, various other activities, etc.

I've seen the type of crap that goes on in here. it pales before things in person. there is a differnewce between internet stalking and stalking IRL.
I've known both. I don't intend to let it go that far.

oh well, others like southdakotaradio (aka toomanyradios, useay100, et al) aren't going to like me very much. I speak my mind and I don't back down from my opinions. They are going to like me even less because I am no longer willing to play their games their way. oh well. too friggin bad. if they can't handle it, well then, they should have left things alone. Never mess with someone who has basq in their background. its like lighting a fuse on a nuclear detonator. you can't shut off the fuse and you can't get away.

Meanwhile, on to other things.

I'm rather surprised the shitball czar hasn't made any more comments yet about me or where I was today. oh well. no doubt I'll probably hear about it in 1 way or another.

Meanwhile, I have work to do.

I probably am and yes, he is local (given a recent post).

That depends though. was he following you around in various public places, etc? did he start with phone calls and all that? just some questions to ask.

well, posting your name and address is one thing, the others require a little more analysis. can you conform some of your findings (evidence is always a neccessity). as for posting info about me, mosty of my publically available info can be found on qrz.com. However, that still doesn't give someone the right to disseminate it where it shouldn't be.

> Yet Comcast won't do anything

send them a certified letter along with printed copies of what was done.
also cc a letter to the Va. state attorney general (thats where comcast is headquartered) and ask them to enforce the state laws with regards to computer crimes. file a BBB complaint as well. the more paper trail you get, the better your chances of getting this problem resolved.

> If they are local to you, Yes, you > should do what you say. If this is just something that was said in this > group, Good Luck!
well, problem is, it never is "just here". I suspect there is some note comparing going on among several folks on the phones about me (and what they want to do next). I did not endear myself to a few of the nutcases here in phoenix back a decade ago, and frankly, I don't give a shit what they think of me now. However, I won't play games with them either. they want to start the shit going again with me, its going to be an entirely different game, and this time, I'm the only one with the rulebook.

otherwise, I'd rather not get too involved with some of the other legal entanglements out here. its not worth my time (unless I go back to school and become a lawyer).

Not likely to help as many of the MURS users are actively looking how to open "the other channels". The 150 MHz band is only a bit "safer" than 27 MHz due to the lack of much skip. Also, vendors are marketing UHF devices that are part FRS/part GMRS. Of course, it operates at much higher power off of the FRS channels, so guess which channels get used? I can see a future in marketing spred spectrum devices :)

Great idea! The RCI 10/12 is a great radio. I like the DX99V better because the AM swing is more than the RCI models. I do admit the RCI has better ears, though.

I guess the important thing is for Riley to get the model he likes best.
Which ever one Riley decides to go with he'll probably be able to get it peaked and clipped without an extra charge.
Cheers......

the nature of the problem is a bit more complex than just speaking out against illegal operators. stalkers are usually obsessed personalities that seek control over another. I can't say I understand the personality behind such folks, but I do understand some of the means used.

that it's George Busch wa3moj and have proved it again, but I never posted his tax records or for that fact any sort of

At the moment, the antenna is down but, if the weather is fine, I will see about getting it up again soon. It can get quite windy up here in the winter.
I am always busy at weekends, with the children being about.

So, your intention seems to be to clear this CB group of all CB enthusiasts. I suppose you would still allow the "gay" posts... after all, you write them.
Anyway, if we all went, you would have nobody to cry to. Your mommy wont give you the time of day, and no real woman would want you - never mind listen to your gay talk all day.

If you don't like CBers, get off the CB newsgroup. But you wont do that, you love us too much. Sad, but true... we ARE your life, you need us, we own your sorry hide.

Another name for the bin... only a troll needs to keep changing their name to bypass filters. Us genuine users have no need to do it. You need us so much, you will soon change your header to get noticed... you poor, sad bar steward.

Don't expect them to post facts. As they say, they do not need to be honest, just as we dont have to believe self confessed liars.

Killfile her again, watch the troll squirm and name-change. They wouldn't really want you to go, or they would just kill-file you and be done with it.
No, they need all the CBers on the group. Without us, they have no life.

They have a sad existance, we really should pity them... but that doesn't mean we have to listen to their crying.

Wrong.
I DX, I vote... and both are legal here.

As DXing is anything above the usual distance, and it seems that many of you cannot get much further than your noses (with all the city buildings)... DX can be legal in America - as long as it is not over the maximum allowed distance.

I can't believe this message board is still 'haunted' by the same few bad apples after so much time has gone by.....

I just read the last 10 or 15 days of postings, and this news group is as bad or worse than when I left it.

Well, for the old timers out there; an update:

I retired from Lucent after 37 years (to avoid being laid off and to 'lock-in' my retirement medical benefits before they reduced the retiree health plan options again).

I finally had time to do some travelling and went to Sturgis for the first time this year. Aside from Stugis, I have been spending most of my time fishing and just riding my motorcycles; neither of which I can do in this COLD weather which is why I decided to check in on the old newsgroup again.

To supplement my income I have been doing contract engineering for a medical electronics place. Since I get paid by the finished job, I can come and go as I please with no set schedule, and I really like that.

Hope you all had a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Healthy New Year!

Ain't it great? And a lot of states don't consider individual subcontracting to be a taxable business unless you declare it as such.

Hey Georgie-girl; you're still forgetting the top 3 TROLLs:

#1. Georgie-girl Busch WA3MOJ, Allentown, PA; has to change nics as often as most people change underwear. Latest handles are Count of Monte Crisco and Robert the Juice. Hides behind a French remailer because he's a coward. Spews homosexual crap because he's obviously an expert on the topic. Forges callsigns of other hams, including N8WWM.
Known liar.

#2. DouGay Adair N8WWM, Toledo, Ohio: Can't post anything relevant but isn't smart enough to shut up. Gay lot lizard. Forges WA3MOJ regularly. Known liar.

#3. Frankie-boy Gilliland, Spokane, Washington: Can't post anything worthwhile, only flames and insults. Creates arguments, then won't answer questions because, after all, he's always right. Claims Twisty is someone named "Dave" but won't post any proof. Claims to be a broadcast engineer but can't get an amateur license. Known liar.

Try to be a bit honest once in a while, will ya Georgie? It'll throw people off. You're far too consistent to get away with lies anymore.

No, I read what was there, which included your email address. Maybe >

Geez, Georgie-girl, you don't suppose you bring it on yourself by TROLLing 24/7? You are the one who has "f..ked up this newsgroup" for years now. You and your faggy friend DouGay.

Want it to end? Stop TROLLing. It'll end immediately.

Dennis,

I don't know if you would remember me, but I just wanted to say welcome to retirement! It's FUN, ain't it!!
Like you, I kinda got forced out in 2000, and looked upon the future with dread. I worked all my life from the age of 15 and couldn't envision not having a job to go to or a "clock" to punch. I discovered a couple of things:

1) I am more busy than EVER, and (2 it is nice to get up in the morning and have to option of doing or not doing. I can get up in the AM, make a pot of coffee, and go downstairs and tinker in my radio shack/shop, if the weather is bad (snow, ice, rain), I don't have to go out in it. No traffic to fight, no wear and tear on my car commuting.

The downside is that everyone now says, "OH! You can do this little "favor" for me." or "How 'bout doing..... you're retired and have nothing to do". Boy, ain't that a joke! There's ALWAYS something to do.

But right now, I think I'll run up to a friend's shop and go to lunch!

I can't believe they may be prosecuted if they're caught. They are preventing people from becoming more obese and getting heart attacks, high cholesterol, high blood pressure and mad cow disease. They are true heroes, not criminals.

Hey, now that you have more time with your retirement.....can we continue our discussion on Peak power?..... You hinted that this newsgroup has become worse than it used to be, so I figured a good old "on topic" discussion/argument would do this group some good. Are you game?

Congrats on making it to retirement

there also called jj.

Why should I feel any heat, you indicated that someone called JJ was hiding from people they had burned. I suppose you meant by that that this person had sold equipment that was either misrepresented or took the money be never delivered the goods. Well, dickiebird, I have never sold any thing on rec.radio.swap or any other newsgroup. I did respond to a posting on rec.radio.amateur.equip to some who had be defrauded, which was crossposted to rec.radio.swap. If you had brains enough to use GOOGLE to search newsgroups, you would see that is the only posting I ever made on the subject to rec.radio.swap. So like I said, why don't you make sure you know which JJ you are talking about? Now if you can find something in that or any newsgroup where I burned someone on a transaction, knock yourself out.

Yes, I did! I didn't want to, but it worked out that way. I got "downsized" and squeezed out by a huge corporation.
But, I am still fortunate. How many people can make xx number of dollars while working, then go home and make as much or more? Plus no commute.
How's that go on the McDonalds commercial? I'm LOVIN' it!!!!!

That about says it. I used to hate it when the management would go out to play golf for the afternoon.
Or go out to lunch and stay gone 2-3 hours. We got 1/2 hour. If YOU were 1 minute late, you got scolded; bosses came and went as they pleased. Now I can do it TOO! LOL! (Tomorrow is a day to help put up a Jo Gunn antenna)

Encryption is a great thing, the military lives by it.

change subject

Have you tried to add the sig kill command at the bottom of your post? I doubt the crooks at newsfeet would let you drop that loud-ass sig file, tho. I do the Newsreader.com sig file voluntarily when I got the notion, but I moved it to my organization slot now. It's not required tho.

Curt is cool, I hope his expansion pays off.

What's a 'sig kill' command?

Remember this guys....
These headsets are NO LICENSE part 15 devices. Read the laws on part 15. It says that the end user MUST ACCEPT any and all interferance to the part 15 device PERIOD. They have no guard band, no protection (no frequency co-ordination) against other users on 154.57 and 154.600. What Booger-King sees as malious, might be acceptable on MURS 4 and 5.
a few facts......
The local Police DO NOT have jurisdiction over ANY use of radio, this is a federal area.
The FCC has better things to do than hunt down Part 15 crap and the people involved.
A lot of the places that use the 457/467Mhz headsets ARE NOT LICENSED! (just as bad as the pranksters)
Spend a few bucks more and get them on 902-928MHZ or higher or spread spectrum if they are so concerned about interferance.
Go back to a hardwired system.
Meanwhile, lines like.....Please shut that piece of crap your driving off so I can hear you, CONGRADULATIONS!! your our 10,000 customer and your lunch today is ON THE HOUSE, and "I'm sorry...were closed by the health board for vermin infestation. We SHOULD be open tomorrow if we can catch all the little bastards tonight"..are all time winners. Be creative, have fun and let them play into it. Remember the staff at these places would LOVE to be able to say what your saying and laughing their asses off while your doing your thing. After your done wish them good night and thank them for the good time :) you will find a lot of the customers WILL play along with it..if given the chance. The ones that get uptight....FUCK THEM!.....life is WAY too short to get upset about a talking box.

I think it's space -- space. (It's in my posts) that tells most newreader clients to snip anything below it. I kinda doubt it will work for you, but it's worth a try.

Nah, we'll just head down to Mexico,
watch the Baja 1000, then head down to Cabo for a few days fishing & golfing.

The all band vertical finally bought the farm after 12 years. Think I am just going to put up a simple dipole whenever I get time from all the other stuff to do. Gotta wait for warmer weather.

Do we know for sure which frequency was being used?

Most Burger Kings do not use 154.570/154.600. The ones I have monitored use a customer input frequency of 154.540. This is a licensed business band frequency, NOT a no-license MURS frequency.

Other common fast food inputs are 154.515 and 151.895. These are also licensed business band frequencies.

And if you could comprehend, you'd see that your email addy was in the list. Maybe there are others posting as "JJ", but only you use
"radiobuff" or "radiobuff0" at mailcity.com.

Obviously you still haven't read the posts in rec.radio.swap or you'd know exactly what I meant. (PS: maybe you should type slower. "took the money be never delivered the goods"?)

Well, dickiebird, I have never

And denial is not a river in Egypt, either. BFD.

So like I said, why don't

No need. I don't really care "which" JJ they're talking about; your addy was in the list posted. Period.

You're already hot under the collar for some unknown reason. If it's not you they're talking about, why are you so uptight? (Georgie-girl and Frankie's logic, BTW.)

plonk excl.,vt. [Usenet: possibly influenced by British slang `plonk' for cheap booze, or `plonker' for someone behaving stupidly (latter is lit. equivalent to Yiddish `schmuck')] While it originated in the newsgroup talk.bizarre, this term (usually written "plonk") is now widespread on Usenet as a form of public ridicule.

And if you could comprehend you would see that my addy was there because I was responding to the posting of the person being ripped off.

Good grief dickiebird, as long as you have been on newsgroups I would think by now you could follow a thread, but obviously not. There is no post in rec.radio.swap with the phrase "took the money be never delivered the goods". Maybe you meant, "took the money but never delivered the goods." There isn't a post in that group with that phrase either. Here is the only post in rec.radio.swap talking about ripping someone off that I replied to. Read it carefully, or get some 6 year old to read it and explaine it to you.

here is my reply
If you sent payment via U.S. mail, time to get your local postmaster involved to investigate mail fraud.

Now if you will carefully notice the person belcher is refering to is mnaynes4@qwest.net. Not hardly my email address is it. See anywhere in that post where JJ is referred to as the person doing the ripping off? Notice I was also offering advice to belcher to get the local postmaster involved in the fraud. Hardly something I would do if I were the person doing the fraudlent act. If you will do a search on all the postings I have made to rec.radio.swap, you will see this is the only thread I posted to having to do with cheating someone.

So were others addresses who posted to the thread. Were they also part of the fraud?

Not hot under the coller about anything. If you think it was me they were talking about then post the thread that proves it.

You're both wrong. While I agree there are those who respond to such complaints, no city in the US has what you called a "Radio Inspector Division." You will not find a single city that created a position or has a position that exists solely for such cb or hammie radio activity and related complaints.
Freddy, even the hammie organizations are in agreement that the feds abdicated their responsiblity in regards to cb radio. Hell, many think they abdicated their responsiblility to hammie radio also, judging by the manner in which they are so eager to auction off my,,er,,yours,,,umm, OUR frequencies. It's not about "roblems" Freddy, and it never was. It's about cold hard ca$h!

Right. After all, YOUR family isn't active and drawing lines in the sand for the egotistical louse and his failures. One thing so many of you flag waving nuts want to forget in a hurry, is the fact that all the veteran groups (read: Those who served) are against the manufactured Iraqi war...and so are most of the public. Now we find the shells that you Bush lickers had claimed were his "WMDS"? A few dozen carbs of blister agents? HAHAHAHAHA! They were so old their half-life expired. Not really virii, but due to user ineptness, Norton considers it as such. Simply going to the taskbar and closing the window does all that's needed. And yes, I clicked it just to check and see what Norton did. As expected, it screamed at me. BFD. Lots of folks don't know how to shut down running tasks in XP with the ole "three finger salute". To those, it's probably an issue. And, to punk-boy's ISP, it most certainly is an issue. That's the only good thing he's done in a while. At any rate, it's no reason to panic.

For those that care, there's a couple of neat little programs that you can search for on Google. One is called "cwshredder" and the other is called "hijackthis". Both are good for getting rid of programs that run in the background and hijack your browser. Here's the link:

http://www.merijn.org/index.html

Do some reading and do yourself a favor. It'll save you some needless concern.

Twist is right Forest. Because of the constant flaming here, most would rather send you an email than have the BS that's posted by a couple of malcontents directed at them.

Yes Forest here he is again this little fairy we call Gayshark and he is as much if not more to blame than anyone he accuses because he cant keep his whining to himself he takes any opportunity to stir up trouble. Like your post had nothing to do with him but here
he is like a assbag limp wrist fag boy crying

you will see flames with his name on them
yes he flamed and trolled and forged people and then like a hypocrite he complains

Hypocrite Landshark but I just call him an assclown.

So, on loading it automatically bookmarks the site - whether you want it to or not. It also opens up about 7 extra browser windows.

That sucks, but...

>

Does not point to a site, it points to a file in the same folder as the page being loaded.
As the file is clearly an executable file, it could well be a virus. As it is being hidden behind an image tag, and your browser is being told to download it without you requesting it... it most likely is something nasty.

Only a virus or trojan would be hidden and downloaded by stealth methods such as that.
Considering that all your posts seem to be either gay crud or links to a virus, you appear to be nothing more than a troll - killfile fodder.

Goodbye.

There are quite a few known viruses that are thought of as "jokes" by the author - but nobody else sees the humour in it.
Guess that seems to point at who may have put it there.

Other than that link, which sets of A-V software, he only seems to post gay crud.
Time for him to meet some killfiles.

I don't know all the pertinent details of this issue. But it's also possible that the "drive thru" system which was "hacked" (I hate using computer terms to describe radio actions) was on the older 154 Mhz frequency band. One of those drive thru frequencies, in common use in my area, is now part of the MURS allocation. Since MURS radios are legal to be used, the only possible infraction that the FCC could bring in this case, would be deliberate interference. And THAT depends on the licensing status of the fast food place. If they are not licensed, they get no protection from other users.

No really, you would think since we are so close to the coast that seafood would be cheap here. The only thing that is cheap is catfish, or tilapia (grass carp). I prefer crappies or sunfish, or even bass if its done right.

I know someone that lives on a river and grows that stuff....sells it only on the weekends and one Monday a month at flea markets. Guess he makes great cash at it,,,those lots begin at 100G with no home on it,,add the house and you're looking at 150 and up, easily.

The Uniden Radios are FMH350D, used I have 5 of them I think.
All work, one needs the internal speaker fixed. I was asking $50 a piece.

The Texas Star 667, is the older bigger Turbo Boost Model, has the bigger coils inside, slightly larger and a bit beefier than the newer models. $ 350

Mod V is older as well, some wear and tear but still works fine, $ 80

I have several cobra radios
Cobra 29 LTD Classic: p&t, talkback, man it's a loud one, real nice sounding radio, used a bit but still in excellent shape. $ 70

Cobra 25 LTD Classic: p&t, talkback, roger beep (popeye whistle), good to very good shape, also an excellent talker. $ 55

Cobra 148: fair condition kind of rough, took on trade needs some work, key is on all the time, needs to be gone over thoroughly, I know nothing else about this radio. It powers up. $ 20

Uniden Grant XL: Fair to good condition, p&t, works well, sounds good but different than the cobras. Upper and Lower side bands, Clarifier, SWR. $ 65

Galaxy DX44: Very good condition, p&t, switchable talkback, variable echo, 320 channels, plus a 10k switch, FM, very nice unit. $

All radios come with a stock mic unless otherwise specified, have some extra used mics laying around as well, cobra power mics, astatics, D104, etc.
From $10 on up.

Let me know.......

These are not random interference which would require the business to tolerate them, they are intentional attacks upon the customers of the business intended to do harm! Local Law enforcement can charge them with "Malicious mischief" or other related infractions due to the intervention of these transmissions with the operation of someone else's business. OR a court issued restraining order prohibiting them from operating a radio within range of any commercial operation for the purpose of disrupting the normal operation of that business. It is done all the time with Loiters and other disruptive acts!

Be aware of the above named.
For they "willfully destroy the interests of others"!

They's deadly as "Daisy Cutters" when talking about radios. They don't wants anyone to operate/touch their radios. They are in the Civil Air Patrol in Virginia.

They's very snooty when someone talks about radios and how to sets them up and operates and tunes them.

They be unaware of "COMMON SENSE" to shut the hell up and play with they own radios!

The scary part is that it looks like a factory job -- the black lettering for the buttons is printed over the pattern!

I have one of those headliner shelves that you take down your sun-visors and mount the compartment into the visor mounts, then you re-mount the visors to the bottom of the compartment.

The radio fits in there just right, with cooling room around
it. I found it through American Van, where I buy different accessories for my work trucks. It's pretty slick, there's sure not much room for -stuff- in those pick-up truck cabs.

It's feeding a Wilson 1000.

ps. just got the snow call, we roll at 11:00pm. You might be getting this same blast soon, calling for up to six inches.

That isn't nearly as "sick" as that which I listened to yesterday on 26.915 AM! I never have heard on any radio such vile, filthy language on ANY radio! Most of it was some jerk repeating himself over and over and over "S....Me, ...me,
....me, F...me, ...me, ...me, I know you right, I know you right, I know you right,
countryboy, countryboy, country boy" on and on and on and on. I dialed up Riley and let him hear it so he could get Columbia, MD to DF it.

Plonk is a variation of "plunk", which refers to the sound made as something lands heavily. There was a game made called "Ker-Plunk", where the marbles drop down the tube.
Plonk can refer to either the sound made, or the act of putting something down heavily or dropping it.

Just as you can "plonk" something in the garbage can, so it will make a "plonk" sound as it goes in.
I believe that newsgroup use probably refers to that sound, as a suspected troll is dropped in the garbage can.

Not sure of the origin of "Plonker", maybe it was the classic TV program, "Only Fools And Horses".

Regards.

Peter.

If I was standing on the street, and you walked up to me, are you not permitted to make whatever comment you see fit? If you told me face to face that you thought that I was too fat to eat a whopper, would that be illegal? There is this thing called the 1st amendment..... So why should it be any different through a radio?

> Local Law enforcement can charge them with
>"Malicious mischief" or other related infractions due to the intervention of

That depends. If the business was employing FCC part 15 radio gear, then they can expect no protection from interference. People tried running businesses on CB radio years ago, and those same people had to deal with the traffic from other users, much of which could be considered "disruptive"

> OR a
>court issued restraining order prohibiting them from operating a radio

Maybe. I guess it all depends on the level of malice and the effect that the disruptions had. From what I've heard, the interference consisted mostly of random insulting comments, and not necessarily jamming of the system in a way that would prevent it from working.

Mr. Oyen,

If you are receving public assistance, it most certainly is our business since we are the ones who are paying your bills via our tax dollars.

Your frequent contributions to this forum also beg the question "WHY are you receiving public assistance?", if this is indeed the case.

Nope! This is all the more reason not to. I get on

I need a schematic for a Panasonic RJ3600 40 ch. base. I checked the Sams Photofact database and they do not have a Sams issue for that model. Does anyone have an owners manual/schematic for the Panasonic RJ3600 they would be willing to scan and email me?

"Them" boys happens to be someone I know. And when a "certain" dealer gets reported in the next couple weeks.
Give ya a hint: company was already cited last summer and was sold. I guess they thought it would preclude any hits against their "export and leenyar" business. NOT!!
They's a few few more cases pending in the Dallas Field Office in addition.

Incidentally, I held the phone up to the speaker where Riley could hear it.
I don't think he was pleased. I got news fer yer: If they WANT to get a fix on it, Columbia, MD most certainly CAN--inside or outside the USA. If it is within the US territories, they can find a location. They have "ears" all over the country in the form of discrete 'antennas' that can take asimuths.

Keep on laughing--I am!!!! It's all fun!

Radio, shortwave.. related topics, not too far OT. Not much different than discussing AM pirate stations.
The only newsgroup that's got funnier participants than rec.collecting.coins is this one. The conspiracy afficianados and their antagonists are hilarious, way better than the current crop of TV shows.

I doubt the customers were any more disturbed than they are when,
back at work, they find they received the wrong order at the drive-through, or when they have to wait 15 minutes during lunch hour because the clerk at the window is arguing with the car in front about how many Whoppers were supposed to have no pickles.
The business damaged? No, not damaged. Annoyed? Irritated? Sure, but not damaged. The week after this happened, it'll all be forgotten, except for the poor schmoe back at corporate hq who has to figure out which frequencies are hack proof, and then prove it to the CEO.

> Do you defend such anti social acts?

Discussing it and defending it are too different approaches. I'd be hacked if it happened to me, but to be honest, I'd just fix the problem (change comm system, pretty easy and inexpensive to do) and then forget the whole thing. It's a very small, temporary fly in a very big jar of ointment.

Good for you. I'm 6'2", 195#, barely your junior, and recently received deputy black belt. Old and dead are two different things, right?
(In a tight spot, I'm unlikely to have a sword handy, but I've almost

Right on. Chances are he's an angry hammie,,I base this on the sheer number of hammies getting popped on a regular basis for messing up the spectrum as opposed to the incredibly low number of cbers getting popped for the same thing. Now you have hammies freaking out crying about their "rights" when they get busted,,,,the FCC temporarily changed the release of information about these bad apples that are jamming radio and disregarding the law in any and all manner they see fit but do not fret, as Unca Twist promises the return of the release of hammie information busted by the FCC...the FCC has already consulted their legal team and have been told they are more than likely in violation of the freedom of information act, among others. Here's a late Christmas present.....file your request with the FCC (notarized and sent return receipt) and in your request, state you are seeking all the actions taken against hammie operators in the past 90 days, and cite the statute under which you seek the information. Here is the FCC's out: They do not have to release certain information, such as "N8WWM was found to be in violation of FCC law by jamming the Toledo Amateur Association's repeater and was taped doing so on several occasions by numerous club members." Now, even though we knew he was guilty, and even though the FCC knew he was guilty, a mere letter, or first time warning notice of a violation is not considered "enforcement action taken" such as an arrest, charges, fines, etc., all of which are considered an action taken, and therefore falls under the freedom of information act.

Haha! You uptight-type ah hammies sure have violence in your blood. There are rules and regulations that exist for all, not a scant few. Violence in retaliation for speech you can not handle? Gee, what a familiar theme in this newsgroup, so far you ample company in haring that mindset with some angry hammies here jer, and I got to tell ya'',,they ain't liked to well here or in the hammie community,,,but then again, I'm preaching to the choir, aren't I Jer,,,you sure can tell by all those fraudulent email addys...hehhe! No doubt. The grouper are being caught daily, and plenty of them,,,inshore and out, but the damn restaurants are raping the tourists, now that the season is in full swing. Plenty of charters selling out and new blood taking their place....oldtimers are going out once a day instead of twice and making more than they ever did, by.......selling to the restaurants. Even the restaurants with their own boats can't keep up with the demand right now.

The minimal enforcement effort in the past few years doesn't seem to have made any impact: There are just as many illegal rigs bought, sold and used; and there are just as many (if not, more) pirates between 25 and 30 MHz.

DF stations measure 'vectors', not 'azimuths'. And those stations have better things to do than DF some potty-mouthed ham.

I'm laughing. Really, I am.

Right on. Chances are he's an angry hammie,,I base this on the sheer number of hammies getting popped on a regular basis for messing up the spectrum as opposed to the incredibly low number of cbers getting popped for the same thing. Now you have hammies freaking out crying about their "rights" when they get busted,,,,the FCC temporarily changed the release of information about these bad apples that are jamming radio and disregarding the law in any and all manner they see fit but do not fret, as Unca Twist promises the return of the release of hammie information busted by the FCC...the FCC has already consulted their legal team and have been told they are more than likely in violation of the freedom of information act, among others. Here's a late Christmas present.....file your request with the FCC (notarized and sent return receipt) and in your request, state you are seeking all the actions taken against hammie operators in the past 90 days, and cite the statute under which you seek the information. Here is the FCC's out: They do not have to release certain information, such as "N8WWM was found to be in violation of FCC law by jamming the Toledo Amateur Association's repeater and was taped doing so on several occasions by numerous club members." Now, even though we knew he was guilty, and even though the FCC knew he was guilty, a mere letter, or first time warning notice of a violation is not considered "enforcement action taken" such as an arrest, charges, fines, etc., all of which are considered an action taken, and therefore falls under the freedom of information act.

Haha! You uptight-type ah hammies sure have violence in your blood. There are rules and regulations that exist for all, not a scant few. Violence in retaliation for speech you can not handle? Gee, what a familiar theme in this newsgroup, so far you ample company in haring that mindset with some angry hammies here jer, and I got to tell ya'',,they ain't liked to well here or in the hammie community,,,but then again, I'm preaching to the choir, aren't I Jer,,,you sure can tell by all those fraudulent email addys...hehhe! You can't have it one way and then another when it bodes your agenda, Jer. Just pointing out that you never spoke of violence against another hammie,,,only cbers and truckers.

ANYBODY that talks such filth needs his  kicked! There is no need for it, no sense in it and.....I dont CARE if it is a "hammie" or not; he's just as guilty or just as bad as anyone else. I don't cull 'em. CBer doing wrong, BUST him. Ham doing wrong, BUST him! It's all the same.

well i am not surprised....after over twenty years in cb radio it has been my unfortunate luck to meet many like this.......they talk on a radio all day instead of getting a damn job......somehow somewhere it became a good idea to let someone else work all day while you sit at home.......makes no sense to me.......but yes it is prevelant in radio these days..........this type of activity.......when i first got on radio back long ago, all the people on there were mostly scumbags and rednecks, but you know, i will say one thing, most of them worked for a living...but nowadays......it seems to be fashionable to be uncle sam's hind tit sucker.......well this too shall pass, when the sow runs dry.........no doubt about it........

well it is nobody's business eric where you get your money from, but if it is from the government , then that situation falls under the opm rule....and that is other people's money......if you do this, do you feel bad about taking this little bone from your government daddy??? well if you do, it should make you feel bad......can we only digress for a minute to a time a hundred years ago for instance......can you see those people of that age, doing such a thing??? hardly........so why now??? so why you????

Spoken like a true FCC watchdog. Maybe you don't watch TV much either, but the FCC is responsible for the current state of programming..... i.e, during family hour you can watch any number of channels where people get killed, maimed, sliced, diced, autopsied, buried and brought back from the grave. But say just one dirty word or show a little nip and the FCC is right there holding your broadcast license over the candle with one hand and picking your pocket with the other. The FCC's hypocrisy is so bad that we have shows like "Diagnosis Murder" and "Murder, She Wrote", which portray the circumstances surrounding homicide as a light-hearted, almost comedic hour of entertainment for the 'whole family'. Hey Jerry, do you think that you could take the subject so lightly if it is one of your family that is the victim of violent crime? I doubt it.

Of course, maybe the FCC is just reflecting the values of people like yourself, people who think that the cure for profanity is violence. If that's the case, maybe you should experience a little violence for yourself.

No it isn't. There has been a token effort by the FCC to crack down on people operating illegally on the ham bands, done mostly to keep the hammies quiet. But there has been NO EFFORT AT ALL to do the same on the Citizen's Band. You are wrong, Jerry. And so is the FCC.

Yes, you have been regurgitating my words for years, and I'm happy to help improve your second-language writing skills. But for some reason my words always come back from you in a different order than they were written. It probably has something to do with your practice of distorting people's statements to fit your warped sense of reality..... which is why I didn't, and still don't, recognize any of my thoughts and concepts in any of your verbal spillage. So you can keep mining me for jewels, but no matter how many times you cut, lap and polish the pieces, they will never equal the value of the stone from which they were cut.

well i don't give a crap about bush but people like you will feel real funny about that iraq thing if they ever find wmd's since you waste loads of time butressing your case if you want to call it that on such a mundane and silly ideas.....but they will find wmd's because he had them and he hid them.....i don't think we should be there because it is a waste of time , lives and money....those people as do many in this world do not understand our system of freedoms nor do i think they ever will.....they are too busy with what they consider to be important....it is another in a long list of misunderestimations and misunderstandings in which we think that just because we can do it others can too...unfortunately this is not so...we should be here on the border keeping the wetbacks out instead bush thinks that it is ok for this to become mexico north...i do not.....and if you think moveon.org is a cool place then you sir are a idiot too and have been smoking a little bit too much of that home grown weed....so before you start getting political on me, be sure you have your facts in order because i am in no mood for fools....it is bad enough i have to wetnurse the liberal democrats...i damn sure don't need a freekin lecture about a damn thing from some guy who thinks anyone should be able to do anything they want, which to me sounds like situational ethics and that just doesn't fly with me....you would be much better off continuing your arguments with georgre and talking skip on whatever channel you wish than arguing with me about such things......mr gw bekwith is back quiet and readin da mail.....

Yes, mostly. But now that we're getting close to replacing those stockpiles of munitions that we fired in Iraq, those Dept of Defense vendors that Bush is friends with must have something to sell, right?

Yeah, same thing going on in the stores around here. Demand for fresh seafood is high around this area, so the stores pretty much charge what they want. The only real good deals you get are if you meet the shrimp boats when they come in and buy right off the boat.

Well you wouldn't want to buy fresh Walleye here then. It goes for about $10/pound, here on the south shore of Erie.

Commercial fishing for Walleye is illegal in the USA. The fish you might find at the market come out of Canada. Those assholes rape the lake with friggin 4 inch gill nets. If you take a boat ride from the south side of the lake to the north (Ohio to Canada), it's
-real- easy to tell when you've arrived in Canadian waters.

Nets are everywhere between thaw and ice up. That and the Zebra Mussel have made more than a few charter captains go out of business in the last 5 or so years.

$10.00 for any decent fish is pretty much the norm here. They want to import all their fish from New Zealand and Australia rather than sell gulf fish. You can't find amber jack, snapper, but all kinds of imported white roughy.

I didn't think that the U.S. allowed game fish to be imported. I thought the Walleye and others that were sold were farm raised?

All done for now, I,ve had about six hours of sleep since I posted that, had a tranny cooler pop on one truck, an alternator shit the bed on another truck, and of course mine had a wire come loose inside the plastic sleeve at about 2 this morning. But we kept them all running!!

I'm kinda giddy right now..bedtime as soon as I unwind.

That's catfish, retail Lake Erie Walleye come from Canada. It's even illegal to sell Walleye that you catch on a line in the US.

I hope it stays that way too!

On the news this morning they showed a reporter cracking an egg and it freezing on the sidewalk, now that's cold.

what is happening here on earth........big brother getting bigger, big brother getting more intrusive, freedom fleeting.....we let the iraqis have as many ak-47s as they want and we can't have one, we let the iraqis have a 15 percent flat tax and we can't have one.........why is that??? who is kidding who??? we can't have the things we are giving

GW honed in with:

>like you will feel real funny about that iraq

>thing if they ever find wmd's since you waste >to call it that on such a mundane and silly

How so? The mere fact that Bush claimed a connection to the 911 attacks and failed to make such a connection is more than enough.

>.....but they will find wmd's because he had

>them and he hid them........

No freakin' way. In the first manner, such a claim indicates that you think our own miliary is incapable and incompetent of realizing such a massive endeavor. One doesn't simply place WMDs in the trunk of a car and move about. No, the miltary experts and anyone who bothers tt follow the story correctly already knows such a massive undertaken would include nothing less than a massive facility or facilities grouped together that would equate the size of several football fields. A convoy set up to move such supplies would stretch for miles and take days to move in such terrain. Now, let us suppose for one second that your leader can convince the naive that the big bad man in the sand broke it down into several smaller convoys. This is where your lack of faith in the American military comes into play, as it has already been addressed by the Pentagon that such simultaneous activity could not have gone unnoticed from satellites and monitoring systems.

>i don't think we should be there because it is a

And THAT,,,,is the gist of it all.

>.those people as do many in this world do not

Never happen. Jeb is married to an immigrant and the elder Bush even referred to his grandchidren at one time as "the little brown ones."

>i do not.........and if you think moveon.org is a >cool place then you sir are a idiot too and >have been smoking a little bit too much of that

That stuff is for those that haven't figured out how to alter their own reality. Think of it as a gateway, or a door. Once the door is open, one no longer needs to close it just to reopen it again.

>....so before you start getting political on me,

>be sure you have your facts in order because i >am in no mood for fools

Well, in all certainty, where the lying Bush is concerned, I am certain my facts are in order. Remember that little old debate I schooled Dave Hall on concerning freee college in Fla for all students? Word came on the idiot box last night that ol Jeb wants to tap it,,er,, CUT it and gut it and use it for something else. Guess what? Ol Walkin' Lawton made sure if we voted the lottery in, the money would go or ALL education. Now we have the lowlives like the Bush clan making others rich by breaking the balls of the lower and middle class students who excel at their schooling by breaking their necks.

>....it is bad enough i have to wetnurse the

LOL..it ain;t the libs that screwed up this country and are having our boys killed daily and spending all this cash,,,it's the thieving repubs in office.

Nope,,merely live and let live, and do no harm to no living creature.

Not me thanks. I did send in my registration to

That should fun again.

My buddy puts on a turtle fry. Those hard shelled bastards have 5 different tasting meats in them. His wife cooks most of it like city chicken.

I don't like the 'cleansing' process. He puts them in a rubber garbage can for a week with no water or food, claims it 'cleans them out from the earthy taste.

I told him thats friggin cruel. I still eat it tho.

Right on. Chances are he's an angry hammie,

>Not likely. I've heard plenty of junk, but

This is where we can disagree to disagree, as I profoundly disagree with you. I do not believe one in radio as long as you have not been privy to the errs on 75 phone and other two meter antics. In fact, I know it not to be true, as several of the disgruntled hammie's antics have been aired right here by illustrating their FCC enforcement actions. Choosing to deny they exist is childish.

I base this on the sheer number of hammies getting popped on a regular basis for messing up the spectrum as opposed to the incredibly low number of cbers getting popped for the same thing.

>The "number" of 'hammies' being popped, as >you put it has drasically reduced--so much so

The number of hammies being popped has been drastically reduced? In contrast to what? Cbers?

>If the numbers of CBers were being hit in

>Hams, and well they should, are held to a

As they very well should be held to a higher code of conduct.

Now you have hammies freaking out crying
about their "rights" when they get busted,,,,the FCC temporarily .

>That's what! NO ONE can explain or justify to Many feel the same way about TV,,,,,or shock jocks such as Stern. You are owed no explanation for another's behavior. That you feel you are somehow entitled to such is laughable. You're a Brit, Jerry,,did you move here because our broadcasting is censored to the hilt compared to GB and all of Europe?

>No wonder the rest of world regards us as low >class, sex-crazed loonies.

Well, of course. We have the president's brother (Neil) who testified at the end of 2003 in his divorce proceedings, concerning his infidelity in Asia:
Mrs. Bush' lawyer:
Mr. Bush, you contend that you had sex in various hotels with several women, but that you did not solicit these women?
Neil Bush: That is correct.
Lawyer: You expect the court to believe these women just appeared at your hotel room door?
Neil Bush: I know, amazing, isn't it?
So, blame our image where it belongs,,not on some obscure mode of communication that is used only by enthusiasts today.

>I.m no prude,

Sure you are, Jerry. Good thing you never served in the military. They woulda burned off both your little ears.

> but I was certainly offended by it

You should have changed the channel and quit listening.

>Somebody like that should not only be found,

>but snatched out of his house and have >his  kicked until his nose bleeds!

>Jerry

Haha! You uptight-type ah hammies sure have violence in your blood.
There are rules and regulations that exist for all, not a scant few.

>OH, just for those "hammies", right?

So far, it has been "hammies" that have expressed a penchant toward violence for nothing more than cbers and their on-air behavior. Lelnad, Frank, Dogie, and now yourself. That's not great company.

>But if a "freebander" spews filth, it is OK?

There you go again. We are speaking of your proneness to violence, not a freebander's mere speech (cause) which illustrate your tendencies toward violence (effect). You are not the final word on what is permitted or not, and what constitutes "filth." You also are not a radio enforcer.

_
Violence in retaliation for speech you can not handle? Gee, what a familiar theme in this newsgroup, so far you ample company in haring that mindset with some angry hammies here jer, and I got to tell ya'',,they ain't liked to well here or in the hammie community,,,but then again, I'm preaching to the choir, aren't I Jer,,,you sure can tell by all those fraudulent email addys...hehhe!

>I only have ONE addy!

At the very least, you dispaly one, and I have commended you on such in the past. It most definitely lends you credibility in several hammie circles.
_

  You can't have it one way and then another when it bodes your agenda, Jer. Just pointing out that you never spoke of violence against another hammie,,,only cbers and truckers.

>My attitude is the same for both: follow the >rules and you get nothing but respect.

But these "rules" are in your mind. You have somehow equated the repetetive cursing as being worse than the mere talking on an unauthorized frequency. To others, the opposite may hold true. The variances and degrees of offenses is not up to you to decide and thank God, neither is the enforcement.
_
>I am to "respect" some lowball repeating Sk
>me, Sk me, s* me, s*, Fk me, Fk >me, fk me, on and on and on and on? I don't >THINK so!

You pulled "respect" out of left field. If you're looking for people to respect in your life, cb and hammie radio isn't the most conducive.

> Again, there is no justification for this kind of >talk on any band.

>Jerry

Then you should no longer continue to look for it and demand it of those who break the law. Hey Jer, shit happens in life, that's the just the way things are. Seeking a reason why, or "justification" of human behavior for everything that irks or rubs you the wrong way provides some insight as to why you really don't enjoy radio.

/ / ..then call

blindly dropping bombs from the sky on everyone.
Heroes? More like typical american nazi cowards, willing to murder their own families as themselves, than bravely put their lives on the line standing to protect Justice as freedom for everyone, as to what true bravery, and heroism has always been. While the world watched CNN broadcasting, American nazi teen soldiers celebrating joyously in contempt for God while singing, right after the unreported dropping of thousands of pounds of bombs on everyone in Afghanistan, body parts everywhere, while knowing directly as individuals, every single, there was no evidence offered that anyone there was responsible for any crimes whatsoever, including the Afghanistan women who worked for the newspaper, but for
to be victims of fanatic nazi american barbarity, disguised as human, like bush almost gets away with as pure evil deceived, now completely impossible to believe. Oh, by the way, I am now taking new memberships for al-Qaida.

As I say, there isn't a real man in the American Marines, or the Army willing to protect America with their lives, for if there were, rumsfeld and bush would be rightly dead for the murders continuing against those they know as innocent. As even with their continuing threats against more innocent people as American lives they brag to throw away as just soldiers, as all these other nations they try to make ready to sacrifice millions for, while propagandizing that our Justice we need not believe in to grant us freedom from oppression, nor evidence no longer a requirement to convince us who is evil, and who is not lying. Nobody deserves to be murdered, but a murderer escaping to recommit. \ \

I hate bush with everything I am, or ever will be as Human.

Who will care for your life in corporate america, where, with a silence of contempt through censorship, rob themselves as ungodly and criminal degenerates under the bushite doctrine of enslavement of their species? Know, that it is NO SECRET, Eason Jordan of CNN knows, (as too, Robert Habinovitch of CBC does too), about General Ahmad, and demon bush's 9/11 strategy existing in 'top secret' Presidential directives, written two days prior to the event of murdering thousands of Americans, a plan to blame Laden on as innocent of to secure invasion of Afghanistan for Enron. (Laden would plead innocent naturally, the Taliban would vote against persecuting the innocent until proven otherwise as Clinton learned, while demon bush and cheney would privately plead to have our Police work halted, to attempt their getaway.) Both, Jordan and Habinovitich have refused OUR staff since the event of reporting the facts for our judgements, and side instead with not reported reasons like those given by irrational and dumb evil Walter Issacson, that CNN is forbidden to PUBLICLY report on the murder of innocent children by traitor tommy franks, because, you should remember how many people died in New York City. (Why not just murder more New Yorkers, they're closer?) Sure, it's stupid, dumb, and as evil as it comes, but Walter dictated policy, you as a CNN staff member had to comply with, or face the consequences of termination. These bushite censors of our top priority news interest stories are our enemies as traitors to the Human cause. Jordan, nor Habinovitch will give no reasons for publicly denying our police agencies protection, (PHONE THEM UP AND ASK THEM SOLDIER) hoping we can't see them not doing our jobs to protect Your freedom, while leaving the outstanding investigation officers left in the bind, on hopes bush'll disappear them, like they no doubt have plans to get those loose ends who directly know of their treason against God's America, and all that is Honorable and Just in our World.

Kill the demon antiChrist, Your Mr. bush Jr. American Patriot Soldier, and be loved by all as Saviour.

Where's the NRA on whoring as bush bitches?

American soldier, Your one true loyalty should be to America, not traitor bush to rob ourselves from. Remember: bush, he ain't got no public concern worth mentioning, when it comes to the whereabouts, of more than half the American tax payers expenses regarding Iraq's jeopardized security, now being sold off as planned to the bushmob at what will be, lower than going values. Namely, your own as measured worthless.

As American Soldier, in unbiased corporate TV america, your told you're willing to DIE in servitude as a thieving bushite slave without question, a blind loyalty and obedience, not to a Just God mind You, or the Battle Hymn of the Republic, no, but to worship the demon bush in a destructive cult-like ignorance that does not even afford Your costly ongoing sacrifice, the luxury, of telling US why corporate america refuses to scientifically report on your actual consuming of MEASURED microscopic radio-active heavy metal TOXIC waste, that includes plutonium in trust, to 'bushite' your dumfuk evil comrades you'll kill with especially, or to being blowed up to smithereens by sexy rummy's cluster duds. Mr. franks and bush bitch buford blount State it is of little or no concern to corporate americans how many bomblets were used, or where they fell to kill women, children or US Patriots with, for, the glorious bushmob will take a few extra bills payable from America to the commi business partners that way for including You in indiscriminate mass murder, see?, and none are the wiser. American Patriot Soldier, repeat after me: "A proud bushite nazi soldier is a dead bushite nazi soldier halted from harming our innocent sons and daughters." Or, AGAIN, corporate america's public refusal to speak up for 'The People' (soldiers included) paying the almost half of Iraq's monthly bill going mysteriously vanished in rummy or bush's war crime pocket... Who gives a toot where it is all going wasted right bushite?, it's only You or yours who could go as the innocent in God's favor still being sacrificed next.

Look, as the very old tales tell repeatedly, the lawless Satan wager, to somehow without knowing how, become omnipotent ruler as tyrannical dictator of this forsaken World, leaving US ALL including Johnny, deprived our rights to justice and freedom, and instead, to the lot of US, be ACTUALLY put up on a cross to die again

metaphorically for unarrested bush to continue example with, as an illiterate barbaric enemy of "The Man", just like, isn't going to happen in this lifetime. I ain't no fictional character, and as true blooded Patriot, hate the bush demon war monger during breakfast, lunch, and supper. And besides, I'd personally kill bush first before that neither world tried. Trust US, G, or I single handedly as a man, will triumph over traitor bush's criminality, as the American cop killing 9/11 perpetrating war profiteering savage he is as antiChrist, it's just, will you like Talk Radio in America censors, and rich CNN celebs readily encourage, silently continue to watch your fellow family murdered for bush bitch buford blount, and still refuse to voice objection nor take any action in defense of all that is Our World truly suffering as Yourself included? I despise bush like every alive person who would read this is.

Refuse to speak for Your own freedoms truly pirated by bush, and you'll likely continue to lose out really like America currently is. Refuse to help our desperately pleading God you know being victimized in Your name truly, and you will bare the consequences of being forsaken. Maybe even, towards an end you'll declare, someone else has forsaken you, when it will be only yourself to blame for not speaking for all those denied their happy lives through the brutal criminal tirades of the demon antiChrist, Your Mr. bush Jr.. Again, this will never change: We had complete co-operation granting one hundred percent access through Iraq without delay, prior to bombing any of Iraq's public sector with toxic waste that contained US People. Every Iraqi child murdered served no good reason or purpose but to war God's love, and my good name. And, still today, that unarrested evil demon tyrant dictator, still chooses to sacrifice many a soft spoken, slow footed American Patriot to, so far, too few bushite nazi dumfuk losers. In addition: We have also learned, Iraq had granted surrender of Iraqi assets to give to the war criminal bushmob, if they would forego the needless indiscriminate murder of easily tens of thousands of innocent families, (like dropping cluster bombs into our residential communities), but war criminal rotten rumsfeld refused because he had already PERSONALLY set up hundreds of illegitimate targets that would, kill primarily only innocent people while destroying public institutions, and bring home a few extra million American payments, tax free.

What more could Saddam do that he wasn't asked for? I beg you to kill the demon bush on behalf of our humanity, and on behalf of the rare American Patriot who will get rightly confused as, bush bitch buford blount's thoughtless nazi teen savages. The anitChrist must not be allowed to survive continuing such heinous war crimes against our being, and myself as the no longer reluctant standing eternal King.

Listen to witness, America's corporate news celebs will mention it is of no concern to You as the unjustly robbed from and dying for the demon antiChrist in sacrifice. Look, I as Christ too, would destroy any cowardly proud bushite nazi teen soldier victimizing my innocent family irrationally, as most, if not all able-bodied men of our world would also if forced into a decision to defend our lives from the likes of a bush bitch buford blount, or a bomb wherever death squad running tommy franks heroin pusher, but I'm told through my faith in the power of myth, the military should have one or two brave and godly Patriots still idly standing around, who would willingly chance to uphold their sworn Oath to protect their country and family, like with the American Constitution's Bill of Rights, and Justice everywhere by protecting the falsely accused, as could be, themselves, they should know now, or soon will be learning of the other way. A proud nazi bushite savage, is a dead nazi bushite savage halted from harming our innocent families irrationally, and low and behold, a good nazi bushite savage is easily found as an enemy of ALL Humanity and God, hiding as nazi vermin in the pirated, bushite military uniform, not true Americans, but enemies to US all, which includes their selves they pour toxic waste on, while the bushmob robs their 'smart' family back home, undefended, neglected, and wounded like Christ was.

Your Mr. bush Jr. is worthless to this world as a hater of American freedom to not arrest himself and rotten rummy for murdering US New Yorkers on 9/11.

All I'm looking for in this world, one human enough to join US equally as a Loyalist to Humanity, and to do everything we can together to destroy that treasonous 9/11 perpetrator, corporate america's so very deeply hated and despised this entire Universe over, Your Mr. bush Jr.. To not bravely kill or immediately arrest the demon antiChrist along with rumsfeld the rotten, sets enslaved america tracking further down an old worn path of History, as enemies of not only the good Iraqi People bush and bremer whom openly rob from now without apology while giving out cheap candy, but of US all truly in the bigger dream without bindings. It's like bush is waging his demon war with every political body that believe evidence is a requirement to convince US who is evil, or criminal, an wallah, as if by some Supreme Will, the Son of a Just God named Johnny really comes down to our levels to raise a simple awareness through one hell of a, big time collecting plate. (Every proud bushite nazi bagged, I'm willing to pay the good deeder, ten cents per..)

Fear not my friend, the fascist bushite shall be lost by our universally wreathed good guy plot line. An evil bushite now irrationally fights against everyone's freedom for a war criminating ungodly tyrannical evil power that persecutes the innocent with murder, or torture to steal our, sworn to uphold eternal values from. If I don't destroy the demon bush antiChrist in Our defense with this last breath, someone else will, and our faith in God will with hope, find a love truly honored with respect and gratitude for being so magnificent. Never again, left vulnerable in my name as undefended to be victimized for a war monger's consequence.

Let US get out there and bag US the bush demon for God, or the Lord, Allah, or just Johnny, instead of victimizing Catholics, Muslims, Jews, or Atheists, along with all the rest as a Palestinian truly measured, encompasess everyone.

Again, by denying the rest of US as Humanity Justice,
the bushites need advertise between commercial break only, "Laden did it", no need to follow the ample criminal 9/11 leads folks, because the crime they say wasn't committed by true American values. Go on along bush, cheney, and rumsfeld say, pay no attention to our evidentiary findings such as, the American FBI's documented contention, that bush's business partner, General Ahmad, funded the 9/11 'mastermind' Atta, or the CIA's, regarding bush LYING in America's name about Niger (TREASON), or MSNBC's almost Biblical Revelation, about the bushmob having a signed and sealed, 'top secret' war plan to not follow the 9/11 evidence to secure invasion of Afghanistan for Enron, at Condoleeza's desk, two days prior to the terrorist act taking place, of which when confronted, confessed as fully implemented by the Whitehouse. A 'top secret' plan to blame Laden on a crime they wouldn't actually try to arrest for with evidence, a plan arranging that would find bin in Afghanistan pleading innocence with the help of bush's partner again, General Ahmad, a crime of such magnitude, it would 'justify' a war mongers criminal invasion to thwart Enron's impending CRIMINAL bankruptcy, THIEVING FROM MOMS AND POPS, to then, ATTEMPT, to close the surviving, armed with knowledge for good reason Police investigations. All of this setting a lowly nazi bushite war criminal, frothing publicly at more than six billion + of US, to state without opinion, that We, as Humanity, are no longer afforded God's GIVEN Human Rights to defend ourselves, nor is the criminal dictates of the demon antiChrist accountable to any rules of law. Universal they publicly quip, as the not-so 'secret' ungodly bushite doctrine of tyranny as enslavement of all that is Righteous and Holy in this World, because, hey, there is no God to speak of... and the King of kings, Son of God fellow, well.. that's all just ninepence fiction. No,
WE, as all the make believers of this World, will no longer have ANY legal recourse to defend our own loved family from being stolen from through a bush bitch buford blount doing whatever criminally with dumfuk loyal nazi teen bushites leading to sacrifice for, for demon bush dictates his corporate american bred bushite nazi teen leaders, can not be held to a code of conduct, distinction, or honor. That's the bush world now you'll except without say. As an American, you're forfeiting your rights by not saying anything to protect those falling murdered in evil bush's name. American Talk Radio is waiting for your call to be hung up on.

All Nations outside of America are a politician's friend, and nobody is going to vote to incriminate ourselves for something we would be innocent of. For bush, Ashcroft, and rumsfeld to contend, humans outside of bush america's border, are no longer afforded the rights of being, and bushites can rob our Universe and there is nothing anybody can do about it, isn't going to sell well anywhere. The criminals have enough of a time not getting caught for the things that they do, and almost no one but the lifeless, would stand silently with bush while needlessly murdering ourselves as the innocent.

See?, when bush bitch buford blount murderers innocent people, often their surviving friends and family take it out by killing bushite soldiers that mindlessly follow bush bitch buford blount's criminal command. And, why shouldn't we? The unarrested bush bitch buford blount confesses to murdering thousands of good honest People, for no objective, but to let the bushmob rob even further more children from US all. Kill bush for the love of Jesus, please.

Notice to the World: Literate American Soldiers have not voiced written objection to my writing, (us.military.army) but for the exceptionally rare bushite nazi savage, who sorrily slack, others shouldn't be allowed to tell the truth about polls, 9/11 criminal investigations, or bush and rummy getting the Patriots murdered for pension thieves and heroin pushers to tyrannically profit at our devolvements. Encouraging US to continuing in bush's name getting robbed and murdered irrationally? no rights to defend ourselves from crime in a court of law they say?, without a God, or any reason for love of this world whatsoever? The bushites think that they can first degree murder our world's women and children, our freedoms as Justice for US all, and miraculously, as the result, will bring our entire, dazed and confused World to it's knees as the whore of Babylon. Indefinitely. (Not like a real Whore mind you, most crack-addicts, and even some G men, hold limits on how far they'll go victimizing the innocent to glorify a blatantly evil and ungodly enemy of all that is good and righteous in this world.

Anyway.

The CIA, and the FBI are surely in agreement with US, on this indivisible Justice thing. The quicker bush dies as unarrested traitor by the hands of a true American Patriot, the sooner an explanation will be demanded as forth right and coming.

Again, American soldier, wake up, and kill bush for sacrificing your friends and family to die as cowards, too afraid to stand with God in defense of the once great American flag. My America, is the land of the not so stupid, and brave enough to kill unarrested bush and rumsfeld for 9/11 almost immediately, or any other war criminating enemy of America fighting to not have our Justice served by nabbing the true 9/11 suspects.

Through a legal lens - the attack and occupation of Iraq
http://electroniciraq.net/news/printer1262.shtml

/ / The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, RATIFIED by both the U.S. and Britain, pulls no punches on this count: "Any propaganda for war shall be prohibited by law" (Article 20). \ \

This is what bush needs to be immediately arrested on for his Niger claims, if you see him not behind bars awaiting public trial, do the American Police force and soldiers everywhere a favor, and kill the escaping demon bush for the love of Your life wills it.

By protecting the demon antiChrist bush for continuing in Our names to rob from Humanity by breaking American laws willingly, will now be a public declaration supporting crime against our betters. I will not stand motionless while bush and rumsfeld with bremer persecute school teachers not guilty of criminal offences, while pirating Iraq's wealth for Dutch-Shell, Worldcom, and double billers, commi Halliburton, all the while, feeding American Patriots radio-active toxic waste to die as losers. Think Patriot.

Arthur MacArthur "Those forty minutes when I defied my orders, were the keystone of my career." A career that would lead him to the highest rank in the United States Army. Saving many lives he did by doing so bravely.

His son later, defying Hoover, smashed thousands of American WWI vets, who were demanding their promised checks to save themselves from starvation. Winning he did, corporate banking's recognition and praise as a savior of the american way of life, and The People?, they ate it again when in 1950, at the age of 70, defying Truman, launched a win sumtin at all costs attack against China, that quickly during the unreported stupid needless slaughter of countless American teens, forced Truman to concede defeat by begging for a immediate truce with China while firing MacArthur, who came home to giant demonstrations of love and affection for sacrificing American lives forgotten to the accolades of corporate america's unsung hero.

P.S. My reader, I taunt you again: forward these words of love or hate as if they were of Your own concern. This is why I plead with armed Americans to kill the unarrested bush for the love of children everywhere.
Look, we know directly who the bushites are who PUBLICLY advocate the murder of innocent People through corporate censorship, who support furthering the demon antiChrist's senseless crimes against my America, and our World. Example: You'd think Art Bell figures none of his listeners could in no other way, learn of traitor bush murdering thousands in New York City, and his contemptuous silence on the issue forbidding anyone else from publicly mentioning it. I have dominated alt.fan.art-bell for years, while Art Bell, like Canada's Peter Warren, will continuously advertise open line calls, but abruptly end calls topicing on KNOWN FACTS surrounding their evil false deity bush, 9/11, Iraq, depleted plutonium, Halliburton, and the deaths of our innocent lives fallen to their personal inaction depicting our community as uninterested. Art Bell in FACT has pre-screened his "open line" calls since bush stole power, and does so, to make appear Americans aren't clued in, on the now hundreds of thousands of innocent lives bush has murdered as war criminal. A good nazi bushite, is a dead nazi bushite, halted from advocating further war crimes constituting the murder of our innocent families. The dumfuk bushite parasites have been PURPOSEFULLY blowing themselves up with mined cluster bombs as suicide bombers! Not dying for any noble cause, but to only further toll more American Patriot lives. We should ask all soldiers, who are they loyal to, the 9/11 perpetrating American cop killer bush, or the People's America, as so enshrined by the Bill of Rights, and true Justice to actually protect the freedom of US people by following a leader?

These OUTNUMBERED and OUTGUNNED nazi bushites are indiscriminately bombing residential communities with radio-active toxic waste for nothing but to please their evil false deity, Our Mr bush Jr.. No rational reason but for a hatred to Your Humanity, and God if you believe.

Example: that evil nazi terrorist buford blount confesses to murdering thousands of innocent Iraqi People for nothing, no reason he proudly professes as wicked evil heinous traitor. Think of the lives You could save Patriot, by justly killing the unarrested buford blount, on hopes a person to take his place could at the very least consider being honorable in defending Your America? Demon buford blount is truly the enemy to American soldiers, for, if your family was murdered by buford blount irrationally commanding mindless bushite soldiers for nothing but to further rob the dying American tax payers, would you not too, spend your will hunting the evil nazi fuck down personally to spare further another innocent family suffering? To kill the unarrested unAmerican buforld blount is to stop him from ordering the practically dead already, nazi dumfuk treasonous bushite brethren teens, from victimizing again US as the innocent undefended.

While CNN still insists it's better for them to misinform and ignore, than to expose the demon bush as the true target for any Patriot's rage. American soldiers are being sacrificed to die for no known good reason, but for bad leadership as evil bushite war profiteers.

The best evidence to kill bush quickly.

Demon bush "These terrorists target the innocent, and they kill by the thousands. And they would, if they gained the weapons they seek, kill by the millions and not be finished. The greatest threat of our age, is nuclear, chemical, or biological weapons in the hands of the terrorists, and the dictators that aid them. The evil is in plain sight, the danger only increases with denial."

Remember: Demon bush doesn't forget signing his soul to the invade Afghanistan plan by not following the 911 evidence, but would top secretly attribute to Laden for blame, authored by himself, rumsfeld, Condoleeza, and General Ahmad two days prior to the public event of murdering "thousands" in wealthy corporate America, a secret plan that has been confessed publicly to US as fully implemented by the White House right from the start to Jim at MSNBC, months after the fact when the demon antiChrist was caught with American blood in his breath.

Not to follow the criminal leads surrounding evil bush
as mass murdering antiChrist, is what the White House confesses to Americans today as official policy under every circumstance. Karma. Demon bush tells corporate america that they'll persecute the innocent in any country by denying our fundamental human rights of Freedom and Justice, while now dropping 2000 pound bombs in God's World containing children, while corporate nazi bores, report in judgement of the great King who MAY have cuddled some cute boy! Jackson has given so much to America in stone, and in return, the corporate news nazi bushites sit condemning a great man whose open vulnerability gives him his wondrous strength and power as true American artistry. While these very same treasonous corporate bushite news anchors refuse to report on tommy franks running death squads against school girls, Guantanamo's Taliban's Girl School teacher Mozam Begg whose family served proudly for generations in the British Military, or tomorrow if YOU don't help US speak out publicly, continue refusing to report the general murder of civilian populations by the godless evil nazi bushite traitors. A good bushite, is a dead bushite halted for advancing their murder rampages against our innocent families irrationally. Demon buford blount, who runs like the nazi coward he truly is from my challenge to a death match, confesses to murdering thousands of US People for no military objective, but to get killed those that serve as bushwhored slaves under him to take his cowardly place instead, a die hard bushite nazi traitor. No government in Iraq would give WorldCom and Halliburton a blank check because they care too much for The People, nor certainly would they not, steal helpful Humanitarian Aid from poor people to pay the fraudster commi double billers, Halliburton again, nor either or, dump radio-active toxic waste on themselves to help bush's re-election campaign get off on murdering Americans for financial pain as God betrayers to US all. KILL BUSH NOW! Remember: a bushite soldier hides behind an American uniform, while knowing the bushmob has likely robbed their very own family of their savings and vital protection. Weak and cowardly, stupid and murdering innocent People for the demon antiChirst as their false deity parasite they are dying for TODAY as. I HATE bush as much as any real man would. The bush demon sells his Satanism by offering NO skills required to be dishonorable and dishonest, no reading newspapers, or feeling the pulse of the plundering nation required while ransacking the faithful. While these corporate news experts and CNN and CBC censor pleads from Humanity paying the wages of evil bush's wars against freedom and God, Justice and America, denied our corporate news coverage to be my primary lonely concern mostly it seems sometimes, as too, how terribly it truly is for life whose love isn't appreciated by our will anymore as the living in america, oh yeah, I mean America.

As an American then, what life will you forsake where bush'll rob you over and over as the never living for something better? These american bushite nazi fuks, think your gonna wash their feet, and instead of defending yourself and family, just turn the other cheek right before the bushites drop a two thousand pound bomb or two on your innocent neighbor next door? Done for nothing but feeding the bushmob?, as unarrested buford blount contends in God's presence? Then to think, buford blount figures I as a real man will not seek him out one to one to the ends of this universe for payback.

What can God do to help, if your refuse to help yourself? The true danger to America increases with American doubts on bush's blatant, true naked evilness, or humoring God as Johnny, and betting on yourself for a change by supporting me as the time being? Look, what could you do for your freedom, when I demand the pursuit of Justice by following evidence to truly protect this World we share? Support my demand to raise the news media's ignorance on what you shout even louder?

Think this: demon bush makes no public mention of where almost half of the monthly 4 billion dollar tax payer bill is quietly disappearing while grandma loses her cable television, or only grandson? Is that Leadership
I ask every American Soldier to be brave and forward this letter on terrorism to your fellow comrads secretly. Then, we'll see...

Johnny Wizard is Mainstream!

The nazi fuck bush, the unelected American cop killer, has still to be questioned by american corporate dictates, why, General Ahmad, is not a wanted man by American Patriot flag waving standards being coporatized as not worthy thinking as. Our entire World can easily witness, no American soldier has publicly stood up verbally against my calls for bush and rumsfeld's immediate arrest or execution for 9/11. Sure Blitzer, and Bill Hemmer froth secretly in contempt for all the American People, at the opportunity to sit secure well blocking US interests at CNN headquarters, to watch in glorious minute by minute coverage, scores of unrepresented by corporate cult standard Humans, be criminally murdered by their evil anti-American propaganda by the will of now more than 2 billion people
the bushmob has declared as his personal enemy (60 countries), just like what Blitzer and Bill have done unbiasedly regarding Afghanistan's heroin pushers, the deliberate bombing of the Taliban's girl schools, and the running of death squads by wimp ass coward and traitor to EVERY soldier the world over, tommy franks, largely as he has, against the understood by all to be innocent, unarmed and practically defenseless. With bush's america, showing no interest in preventing the further degradation of the living standards of US People in Afghanistan, (who were already at the brink of starvation), but for to steal the resources of an impoverished nation, and too, as they have, already indebted to the World Bank by purchasing millions of unused american minted terrorist handbooks from the eighties, while spending 4-5 billion dollars a month to continue killing US innocent people to steal even further American values, like "we" don't even exist anywhere. More wealth wasted than would be needed to feed and house the entire population, while forming a just police force accountable to a rule of conduct. But no, according to the election rigging repuglicans, (ES&S search "Dozens of Documented Reports") there is no money to steal if they don't murder, torture, and rob from our communities to destroy our belief in Humanity. Again, I will remind you reader, and NRA card caring member if your joining ME late, I have personally contacted Bill Hemmer, and Bliter's secret "War Room" in Atlanta, as well as contacting Walter Issacson (CEO of CNN), and Sid Beddington (super dumbass CNN producer) with the following facts, that they have refused to allow Americans to openly consider in bush's criminal american dictatorship. Our Mr. bush Jr. and rumsfeld, had a plan revealed by MSNBC to invade Afghanistan, on the premise of not following the criminal evidence for a undisclosed crime, while planning to blame bin Laden for it without producing any evidence, a crime that hadn't even yet taken place when the plans were officially drawn up and dated with General Ahmad, plans to specifically attack the Taliban for not siding with Enron we learned from Niaz, The Working Group, India, cheney and Ken. Also, the Taliban, had offered Laden for arrest during Clinton's tenure, but Clinton admitted, they could not actually find any evidence to stand the scrutiny of the public, nor justify the reasons for Laden's blind vilification through corporate controls. (It has been alleged it was Barbara Bodine HERSELF who sent the Cole into Yemen against the voiced concern of all involved military commanders, then insured the criminal investigations into her matters would be halted, as example.) So, clearly, a brand new crime would have to be devised secretly. (Note:

without 9/11, how would it look killing indiscriminately severely poor Afghan families not tied in anyway whatsoever to flying American planes into American buildings by a German, Mr. Atta, who was funded by the General, salaried by the 30 billion plus Tenant?) That's right. This same General Ahmad, from the ISI, not only put together the 9/11 cover up plan together with the bushmob in Washington according to several members of the Senate Intelligence Committee, but also was according to the fine FBI officers involved in the criminal investigation, the prime terrorist funder, to our Mr. Atta. (globalresearch.ca) Also, if this doesn't already clearly paint a clear picture of betrayal by CNN ignoring the American People, consider this also: The bushmob insisted this same General be the war criminal to go to the Taliban personally, to tell US, no evidence would be offered against Laden, nor public trial offered, against what would be to all Americans who actually believe in the Constitution, and the Bill of Rights, (or the Taliban leadership who really believe in God while mistaking like everybody else does), not guilty of the accusation based only as blind speculation. The very same General who devised the plot we're telling you, as documented, and confessed to MSNBC by the White House ALREADY. What an "embarrassment" the ISI blushed! So, what did bush, america's false deity then state as traitor to ALL humans while closing investigations? "We don't need any evidence, we know he's guilty.", right on que. Mr. bush, the demon plays that cheat against Humanity over and over again now, like he figures someday it'll really work for me, (never mind G), cause he figures no truth exists actually in his dark evil world of betrayal against himself as US all included. His wicked dumb evil, that costs the lives and hardships of REAL Americans, only succeeds, because corporate dictates demand no discussions on anything politically factual. (At least not for longer than two or three minutes, with nobody respected as invited for being knowledgeable, or knowing basic high school maths either.) It's the term "we", bush and rumsfeld uses routinely, without substantiated fact to honestly hold our conclusion, as their criminal justification to willingly murder US people as unheard of. He figures as the anti-Christ, because he stole the title of President, he therefor inherited all knowing wisdom like dark magic by openly fooling himself, as all of humanity witnesses repeatedly his falsehoods on our truer Nature. Not as a Jesus the Creator might, to play the crazy, laugh at strangeness, or sing almost lyrically to life for the joy of it, but as a talentless demon monster to rob and murder from ourselves as the established innocent factually, and left unprotected because the Living eternal Universe can be feared for nothing I suppose. If bush is not following the criminal leads, nor the relevant public information easily available for all to peruse, how can he disagree with everyone without public answers to disprove our existence? "Secretly", he and rotten rumsfeld continue to state to the six billion plus of US, even so though, it doesn't therefor make the recorded History, or the actual evidence of reality go away somewheres else, such as some of the great work the FBI, or the CIA has done being directly involved, again doesn't just vanish as not presidentially viable.(The highest office in America, should be citizen.) Or, make WMD just appear out of nowhere either, if Iraq don't actually have any. You'd figure, as Mike said better at whatreallyhappened.com, but I can't recall specifically, if bush has secret evidence to substantiate his allegations against the Iraqi people, and thinks his knowledge, being better than all US rest put together, shows a threat to the American People, wouldn't he therefor make it known to all, to protect ourselves truly as concerned? Like Johnny would? Instead of, as he is, using the bluff to excuse the potential MURDER of untold thousands if not millions to also steal from for himself, like the election, and that 50 billion? Remember: bush killed New Yorkers to steal American lives, and publicly showed Our world no interest in arresting himself, the true evil doer for the 9/11 money maker. No purpose in life, but to make others suffer and die, is the bushmob mantra. (Even if weapons do show up, staged, or otherwise, it is still no reason to kill Iraqis to steal their resources, to leave US people there, under a criminal dictatorship for a planned thirty years of massive American casualties after American casualties, so the bushmob can steal even more from our grand parents left unprotected without police protection here at home left alone.) Particularly, if the public evidence we conclude as documented FACT stands directly in opposition to bush's dark secret fantasy of Universal criminal tyranny he spews daily as lies against GOD in Our public air space. A planned criminal tyranny of evilness, that has been released to US publicly through one real American after another, ignored overtime by the CNN celebs, yet, still happening as Our high priority issues. I'm beginning to have a difficult time keeping up with the truth that leaks from the bushmobbed syndicate like a sieve practically everyday too. Have you heard of,

"RebuildingAmericasDefenses.pdf" on CNN? Or, how about "11-14-02_Chin-4.pdf"? (Don't miss that one.) I haven't, but can't really stand watching them pretending we can't see anything at all either. So, these terror plans.. When the nazi bushmob was caught without them, (as they were top secret presidential documents entrusted to the witch condoleeza), could do nothing but confess they were fully implemented. Why? Because they walk through the entire scenario that bush puppeted the months before to armed Soldiers. (God wins every time.) Mr. bush and General Ahmad's plan, is to continue to wage an unending war against humanity, (60 nations) as the "way" of escaping public Wrath, Your Wrath American Soldier, for something, that, again, for 9/11, hadn't yet happened, but bush and rumsfeld prepared for to close investigations on. Mr. rumsfeld was reported (emperors-clothes.com) to have been told by his own Secretary, in case he had forgotten his top job responsibility while sitting behind his desk fidgeting, he was, as rotten rumsfeld, required to be at NMCC immediately. He didn't go after then either. The only possible place the terrorist plan could have been carried through to stand down the Air-Force. (Let those under him take the bullet if push comes to shove. American traitor rotten rumsfeld thinks of everything too eh?) His public excuse I'm sure it would be, he was concerned about the death of US People while sitting there doing nothing. The same rotten rumsfeld, who tells US openly in Our public arena while almost cackling, he wishes to murder and torture completely innocent people that Americans should be forbidden to learn of in a open as the Public court room of Our peers through America's once respected, if sadly, mostly mythologized fair Justice system, now headed by ashcroft, a total incompetent, who wishes not to apprehend terrorists by tracking the criminals, but to destroy what little freedom is left for America by advocating, in public, the persecution of US innocent persons instead. Really. Again, listen up Ashcroft, last time: bush and rumsfeld's plan, that the White House confessed to as fully implemented, demands by excuse after excuse, that the actual evidence trail not be followed, and that legitimate FBI, and CIA officers (Rowley, and the insider trades for example.) are to be continually ignored. Just as CNN has done staying unbiased. Allowing bush and rotten rumsfeld to kill innocent People deliberately, stealing America's Freedom through injustice to themselves. First degree murders. See, the nazi bush slaves go on and on how great it it to be murdering innocent populations far away as terrorists to steal and plunder, but, for who would be there as themselves close up and personal (gods WE are) to question their own demise by someone who thought without thinking likewise? (God is Not.) This is why I ask an American Soldier somewhere to stand as One single person for America, a Family Man, and take out the re-offending mass murderer, unelected dictator, Our Mr. bush Jr., by thinking like a Soldier is really Universal. And, if his successor, should do the same secretly, publicly advocating wars, death squads, or torture against Ourselves as the innocent to steal from, WE do the same again, until, CNN finally opens up communications to the American People as warranted to be wise.

Sure, only Jews in Kenya, like with Odigo, seemed to be warned to stay clear from an impending terrorist act, and sharon played a personal role as documented several months ago to attempt the blowing up the Mexican Congress and blame it on the Unionists, or bin Laden, oh ya and also, I shouldn't forget, apparently, the rocket launcher was painted blue lying in a field untouched when the mossad in Kenya pointed it out to reporters they brought to witness the whole story by-line, but that doesn't therefor, make the likud party, or especially ariel sharon Jewish. For ariel knows when he steals or kills others as innocent being himself openly a terrorist, is ariel knowing, real Jews would be murdered too, by someone like himself, albeit, in secret avoiding the trying but divided coppers, that he murders also. But, hey, that's where he gets all the repuglican money he doesn't earn but steals over the lives of Jews he watches fall dead as unfigured. Mr. sharon, will tell us how disgruntled he is to see only Jews die by terrorism, then goes out as a PUBLIC FIGURE, and commits the same, but far more hanious acts against G as a pirating criminal National icon. So, sharon, what is it that so upsets you to see US Jews die then you nazi parasite, you cancer tumor, you disingenuous harbinger of suffering to God as Humanity? It is only his private show without questions for comment, as he can not answer publicly without being dishonest about his criminality. Murder is murder, and sharon, the bigoted-racist murderer, the terrorist supporter and perpetrator, has stolen the rights of the Children of Israel to live in peace by good will, and Justice for everyone counted. Jews are Palestinian. See, being Jewish is a religion, and the ancient Palestine, is of a label for comprising every understanding to this, that can not be completely understood symbolicly as contained to be definitive.

Also, like America is truly melting, and murder accomplice negroponte, can not face for personal weakness, ineptness, and hatred for all of Humanity, so advocates huge oppression against all America as real People corrupted by a government of injustice, and contempt for themselves unheard from. (Jesus, just try to get together two people who agree on everything. Justice however, should be a no-brainer for everyone, but CNN say's nothing in Our defense as equals, and would, as they do, watch You be robbed and murdered, and not raise a word.) Also, just for double, the oldest practicing Jews we know of through recorded history, (the almost censored "Dead Sea Scrolls" included), are dark skinned, and live in Ethiopia, and the likud party, like so many other "settlers", are mostly filtered christian Kaisers, who migrated from Russia on the promise they would receive stolen property, (sure, I'm jewish!) (search "ILA" and the "JNF") like farms, houses, and Our children's toys. (FrontLine's one time broadcast) See, If sharon didn't steal and murder, repuglicans would have no excuse to receive kick backs to plunder even further, from the great stupid American People. Which is why a bush supporter is so deeply ignorant on just about everything like Speilberg is regarding the Holocaust, and like too many american soldiers, who we can be sure, would die in sacrifice from cowardice before bravery as evil under the anti-Christ, dictating war crimes against US all as Humanity unrepresented. Until Now. For, Christians have no protection from anti-discrimination laws in Israel, nor do Atheists either apparently. How spooky dumb is that? Legitimizing hitler they are politically. Jews are this, jews are that, and all of everyone else, is something unquantifiable, unknowable, and all around unloved and disrespected everywhere as G-D is forgiveness to be abused on Christmas, according to the deliberate practices of sharon singularly, as a bigoted nazi murderer, and the written words of the banned in Canada talmud also.) No bullshit. Clearly to all, very anti-American. Biggest secret going! Why? Americans are largely illiterate, drugged, and all around dumb. Now, where is CNN, or Our beloved "wealthy" celebs, who advocate blind obedience as slaves to the anti-Christ, to discourse me a liar truly as Jesus? Nowhere? You are still waiting People, while American families continue to be robbed and left for dead by inaction through corporate american standards. For, what can only one God do I ask yourself really?

If a thing is done wrong often enough, it becomes right.

Holy Jesus Man!

Have you heard the Revelations from India's government to the FBI now made public?, regarding the principle terrorist funder of Mohammad Atta being, the ISI's, General Ahmad? The bush administration's personal confidant, and top secret military strategist? See, it was Jim at MSNBC that informed US of bush's terrorist plan existing as once top secret presidential documents, and, that this same general, was also responsible for, according to several members of the Senate Intelligence Committee, developing the said war strategy of invading Afghanistan on behalf of the evil bushmob, with the very anti-human premise, of blaming bin Laden for a crime without any evidence to substantiate our public accusation, to murder more than a hundred thousand, plus! A crime, 9/11, I will remind you, that for when the evil plan was devised, hadn't even yet taken place. But was threatened would happen, if the Taliban didn't side for Enron's interests in serving for Ken Lay, one of bush's many bum buddies. (They apparently do that sort of thing on a regular basis, with all the members in their secret meetings of the 'only Boners' fraternity.) It doesn't take much either to understand why rotten rumsfeld, corporate america's sweetheart, (you know, the sadistic nazi war criminal who gets off on murdering or torturing innocent people), told US he wanted to have arrested those at the WhiteHouse and the Pentagon, or even in the Military, who would dare as Americans, to inform Americans what he and bush were truly doing in their names.

Destroy the unelected unarrested heroin pushing American cop killer war criminal, the demon we all know so well as corporate america's false deity, the super evil doer anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr. Now Patriot Soldier, and be loved by all as Savior. Or not, and be a thoughtless degenerate, a cowardly regressing nazi bush slave, who would sacrifice your own family as yourself truly, because JESUS CHRIST, life is living to survive for Justice, as God is warranted to be as ourselves, with equal rights to being as is of US all included. Mr. ashcroft tells Americans he is purposefully destroying their freedoms as legal due process because he, as an idiot, and a traitor, has to fight ourselves as a terrorist blindly in Our names without American Justice, but never explains his action, is asked to, nor could he. As ashcroft, like most in the bushmob are, is founded completely unqualified. Why doesn't ashcroft move to have bush and rumsfeld arrested or executed immediately by following the criminal leads for 9/11 on behalf of Americans as an American?, what with all the ample evidence documented as factual and everything? Instead, decides too, like the demon bush demands in attempt to sway his capture, that evidence will no longer be mandatory for him to decide who should be stolen from, as the left dead to be robbed as forgotten by Justice denied to all as Godly. American soldiers are truly as represented, weak, slow, and painfully pathetic cowards, refusing to protect their own families as a national defense measure, instead, as nazi dumfuk bush slaves, willingly support the murder of would be themselves as criminals, truly against US all as the innocent.

Mr. bush was quoted once again defending his irrationality as criminal murder rampages against the innocent as ourselves like he did in New York City with rumsfeld, by stating,

"Maybe somebody needs to explain to me why they say something, but I don't feel like I owe anybody an explanation."

The evil anti-Christ figures he'll just continue to rob and murder American Patriots while destroying freedom as Justice for US all, and simply escape Your wrath by corporate america making no fuss to speak in Our defense as the still living to be underestimated as equals.

Destroy Our Mr. bush Jr. now, and be loved by all as God would!

Britain backs US plan for attack on Iraq
By Philip Webster, Political Editor

(Quoting the terrorist supporter blair, Philip was),

``To be TRUTHFUL about it, there was no way we could have got the public consent to have suddenly launched a campaign on Afghanistan but for what happened on September 11.'' ...

Oh, so there was a criminal intent known also by yourself then blair to prop up heroin pushers to save Enron's impending criminal bankruptcy?

We have repeatedly witnessed, CNN and CBC refusing to represent our Democracies, our FBI officers, like airing Coleen Rowley, General Ahmad, or the sabotaging of the Moussouie investigation by ashcroft, or the CIA, regarding the insider stock trades, or dealing heroin. The innocence of the Taliban for 9/11, and the barbarity of the Northern Alliance as heroin pusher slave owners. No, every single american according to CNN being unbiased, does not want bush the anit-Christ arrested immediately for killing Americans in New York City to steal our worths and freedoms as worthy of defence matters by their own measure as corporate cultists. As I told you, Bill Hemmer and several other celebs at CNN, now are fully aware of bush and rumsfeld being the true purpetrators of 9/11, yet, Bill continues to play evil against US all, figuring nobody ever will know without CNN coverage on his contempt for American Patriots he asks to have sacrificed for as bushwhores like himself and Blitzer. CNN refuses to protect Americans as equals commited to Justice for US all.

It was just reported by Chris Marden on the 27 November 2002, that bush's top whore richard pearl, has advised Britsh MPs, that bush secretly as the anti-Christ has no intention of allowing the Iraqi inspection process to succeed, and instead, is commited to murder ourselves either way.

Again, bush and blair, like CNN, have no evidence to substantiate their allegations against Saddam, and have stated because they have no evidence, they therefor as demons, can murder anyone on the face of this planet to steal our lives in OUR names as US innocent. Mr. blair and the bushmob have recently stated, that they have no evidence that Saddam has any WMDs, nor, is any threat to OUR WORLD community, and because of that, if the inspectors find no weapons, and Saddam insists it is because he doesn't have any, this, accordingly, would give these criminal master minds a cause to murder hundreds of thousands of innocent people, if not millions, and steal all the assets of the Iraqi people, while destabilizing our entire endangered species. They are mass murderers, threatening humanity to recommit more murder as TERRORISTS! Never while I stand ALIVE evil nazi dumb fucks. KILL BUSH NOW! Hey, have you heard about rotten rumsfeld's P2OG? "O", as in Oh rumsfeld is truly an evil fuck! Apparently, rumsfeld wants to provoke terrorist activity to murder ourselves as innocent cilivilians, as an opportunity to invade any country he wants to rob and plunder further. Also, most importantly, according to the official documents, rotten rumsfeld figures it would be important when he and his mobsters commit these crimes, it be understood, that nobody be able to trace it to himself, or his partners in crime, so they figure, the criminal acts should be carried out through his department at the pentagon, then, get this, he won't therefor be accountable, or scrutinized by the American people through corporate news channels. The offical pentagon report details this.

All Wrapped Up
CBC as managed has deliberately with intent, worked to misinform and propagandize our community on what is as, documented provable fact, regarding Mr. bush's complicity to the murder of US as the innocent in New York City. CBC has refused to live up to our responsibility to protect our democracy, and in silence, has pirated our names to murder those understood to be innocent of the accused offence. CBC has refused to allow ourselves as the public to understand, Mr. bush forbade the FBI from pursuing bin Laden investigations, just prior to 9/11 with secret Presidential directive W199I (199I WF213589), which had John O'Neil, the anti-terrorism head for the FBI publicly protest by resigning over. This W199I directive was put into place after the administration had been warned by the BND, and several other legitimate intelligence agencies, of an impending terrorist plot involving the high-jacking of American airplanes to be used as weapons and flown into land marks. In addition to these unreported top priority political issues that stand to be true as documented factually, the bush administration had also secretly put together a sinister war strategy, that was revealed to ourselves as the public, by Canada's own Jim Miklaszewski at MSNBC, to have existed without any doubt as Presidential Directive documents, two days prior to 9/11 at the WhiteHouse. A planned strategy to invade specifically Afghanistan, by blaming bin Laden for a crime, but providing no evidence to back up the allegations. That's right. The super evil criminal bush dictatorship had a plan in place to not follow the actual evidence to arrest the true culprits for a crime that hadn't even yet taken place, but that they were prepared for to close investigations on, as an opportunity to invade specifically Afghanistan, propping up the Northern Alliance who still practice the barbarity of sharia law, with the bush bonuses of selling heroin to our world, and most importantly, building a liquefied natural gas pipe line for bush and his Enron friends, to rob even more further from us all.

Legitimate FBI officers unrepresented by Mueller claim General Amad was the principle terrorist funder of Muhammad Atta, responsible for a wire transfer of $100,000, who, incidentally was in unusual meetings, the General was, with the bush administration a week prior to 9/11, who also not only participated in meetings with several top officials in the Senate Intelligence Committee, but also, was reported to participate in building the war strategy of invading Afghanistan, as the reported desperate excuse offered for the General being there just prior to 9/11, and also, was personally responsible for negotiating the non-surrender of bin Laden, of which the ISI claimed, the General advised the Taliban not to do so because, no evidence would be offered, nor public trial for an offence bin claimed he played no part of.
We are all in agreement, in truth we rise, evil is just the deceived disguised. Boo!
The case is wrapped up, and bush and rumsfeld need to be immediately arrested for 9/11, for murdering countless thousands for stolen gain, at the losses to our humanity, that show through every putrid utterance of scum bucket bush, as contempt for our living as humanity through Law. Where a person accused of a criminal offence without any evidence is clearly innocent. For why I ask you reader, would any unjustified leader of US people blame someone for a crime who wasn't linked to the offense, while working to close investigations, and not follow through with the ample clues to capture the true evil doers? Just how cowardly stupid can soldier families be taken without conviction as themselves worth fighting for?
Justice for all, and glory be to godly.

Freedom is only garnered through Justice for all equally Nobody deserves to be murdered, but a murderer escaping to recommit
"Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel" wrote Samuel Johnson, and he wasn't just mixing words. Patriotism is not about mindlessly as cult slaves obeying bush the unellected nazi fascist criminal dictator, it is about protecting freedom for all as democracy demands by law. Ours. Mr. bush has said that if we, as Nations, don't agree with himself as world dictator, removing the guiding principles of constitutional Justice as freedom for all instills, while actively destroying America and murdering innocent people for no crimes who struggle now only to survive from his criminal tirades, advocating torture while declaring wars against anyone poor and unrepresented, with a complete disrespect for all human life, and our courts of Law, has clearly stuck himself to be our enemy everywhere, as being evil personified, which inextricably demands his immediate incarceration for the crimes he is committing against ourselves as a true terrorist without question, no? The bushmob desecrate the ideals of freedom, Justice and democracy garnered by truth as our own being to be individuals, and is exalted by CNN claiming to be representing ourselves while watching us be robbed and murdered as stolen from openly. Mr. Turner, you have terribly disappointed our world in this great time of need for ourselves as humanity.

Again, all relevant evidence, circumstantial and otherwise, regarding the WTC terrorist act, points to the bushmob, and rumsfeld especially.

"Any argument about any aspect of the conduct of the war against terrorism," as Globe and Mail columnist John Ibbitson puts it, "must begin with those airplanes smashing into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon. And then it must stay there and never move from that spot."

Flight 11, all ticket sales are accounted. How did terrorists board without purchasing tickets? No, the airline industry did not take the names off the lists on Sept. 11, as too on the 12th they confirmed so with a small correction, but if they had, how then would, or could, the desperate doubter explain strange flight 77 from the same company, which does leave room for terrorists to be on board with the given total. Oh... I think I know. Two flights had duped terrorists hired by the bush wrecked state department, explaining the State Department connected money transfer discovered by the good FBI to the head terrorist, Germany's Mr. Atta, unreported by the Commi Nazi Network of course, showing a belief on Atta's part, that he would not die with the top secret arrangement he had made with the bushmob privately, explaining why the bushmob had his passport in their possession secretly, and why Atta couldn't have checked in with baggage. (Ya right, he's gonna pack a jet fuel consumption calculator and a video titled, "How to fly a jumbo jet airliner in twenty minutes for dummies" left behind of all places in baggage, explaining the secret bushmob audio tape still to be never released where Atta is heard mumbling, "Jeeze, where's my lucky shirt?" and, "Does anybody here know who's flying this thing?") The $100,000 didn't go far, and Atta clearly wasn't a devote Muslim, as in the bar he drank vodkas and flashed a huge wad of hundreds and fifties to the manager, and everyone else in yelling distance, bragging how much the bushmob had paid him stupidly to do so, for a flight he couldn't possibly have boarded as a viable pilot or passenger. Also, why need carry his passport loosely as needing to remain unnoticed, if he didn't buy a ticket, nor planned to travel anywheres, if he somehow magically just appeared on the plane in mid-flight after an all night bender with hookers? Also, none of the four flights easily indicated that they had been highjacked, while the transponders were all turned off by code from inside the locked cockpits, at roughly the same time as if by automation, with flights not changing their flight course for as long as fifteen minutes, like no passenger ticketed terrorists aboard flight 11, ("Hey Atta! check out the view!", or "You left the manual where?", or "Gee, thank God you have the final draft, suicide letter still with you for when we burst into a fireball."), as too, the 200 mile precisely aligned trajectories, without HUD, do attest something not quite normal, according to experts in the Air Force with thousands of hours flight experience and some chaos theorized war gameroom background, and elsewhere, who know of bowling a perfect game while blindfolded, using a checker.

Flight 77. The planted terrorists failed to highjack due to the fact, the plane was returned to control of the real pilot who managed to use communications after a fifteen minute fight for something. Conversations that the bushmob confiscated. For after 77 changed course in the dramatic after some struggle for the controls, it then returned to it's original flight path, and okayed, but, not for long, for now they knew inside information. "No, I wanna fly this plane according to procedure while you guys fight a fair three round fight." or "You say planes have actually flown into the WTC towers?" or "Let's just pretend we're the real pilots, and maybe no one will notice?" But shut off transponder only then? was it on again, or had it never been off before? If the terrorists were subdued, or gave up by showing their red bomb boxes only contained confetti, how do they so quickly take the pilots place, (who had just been last near for calls after returning to normal), to push the codes? This is why the bushmob took the tape. CNN tells us rumsfeld says the FAA didn't contact NORAD until 9:25, while at the same time, CNN also tells us controllers who handled 77, knew it had been highjacked at 8:46.
Also, explaining the now no longer strangeness of why bush desperately ran to confiscate those airline videotapes of the passengers boarding flight, not thinking to know we now know who they all were. (Maybe things didn't go exactly according to his evil nazi plan?) Truly brave American soldiers would arrest bush and rumsfeld by the end of a loaded ready to fire rifle, and any other who stand to stop us from viewing our evidence available. Why, that's called obstructing Johnny Wizard. Also, consider this, the thought to necessitate the order of the terrorists to force passengers to use cell phones as secretly planned, two flights, (Time magazine Sept. 24 - Flight 93 "We've been highjacked. They're being nice.") but make no declarations on behalf of themselves leaving no point for departure? With a communication plan not controlled from the air perchance? Ah, but not on flight 11 or 175 where terrorists weren't present, as again, every passenger accounted, but no calls? Only one not talked about, because it doesn't fit with the bushmob lies. Flight attendant Sweeny was reported as the only one I am aware of to make a cell phone call over the entire hour on flight 11, or 175, to the ATC at Boston, giving seat numbers to highjackers that were not on board as registered ticket holders, (so how did she?) nor even sitting where Meuller lies, who in so doing, disputes she made the call to know factually. Makes no sense to me also, and CNN, we can be sure, will do nothing for the Americans who lost their lives over the senseless ignorance of their corporate cult status, that perpetrates this form of dim-wittedness without helping you by interviewing anybody involved in the investigations, to rather let the bushmob continue dictating unchallenged to murder more of us, for staying unawares of our silent screaming.

hmm... Any unboarded tickets? Apparently so, for it was reported all purchased tickets were used but one. Another koinkydink regarding the hooting and hollaring, drinking and carousing in the strip bar the night before of the bushmob barkers, is that nobody would PURPOSEFULLY give their lives in a collective criminal operation for CASH payments through the State Department as to go gone dead broke next day, against living life's costly riches freely would they? Did Atta from Germany even attempt to give the 100k to his wife and children for safe keeping? Bingo. Also it has recently been revealed by India's officials, and Pakistan's Foreign Secretary, Niaz Naik, that the bushmob had contacted their governments in AUGUST as himself typically idiotic, as privately to public representatives in a unreported meeting in Berlin to state, he, as the anti-Christ, would slaughter the innocent people of Afghanistan's government, who had ended the heroin trade and were protecting the country while progressing towards equal rights for women,(We will sue CNN for every dollar Turner has.) making illegal, slaves and murder, by forming national laws that five years previous didn't exist, also making it safe to travel, and started opening schools for girls while being starved for doing so good for everyone. Why would bush the demon attempt to do so? To shore up corporate banker support for Enron, who had placed a 3 billion dollar investment in Dhabol Power Company, and needed liquefied natural gas in a big hurry, what with Qatar drying up, and the tripling in price of naphtha. Stuck no longer able to garner partnership with the present pipe deal contract offer for Afghanistan agreed to as well by tribal leaders who Tommy murdered, as too, India's insistence in not being ripped off any longer, by a company the entire nation learned easily to hate over the past decade, and the laundered employee pension money unretractable in the Cayman Islands proved to be of little use apparently, and of course most importantly, also the secretly known to fellow shyster cheney, impending criminal bankruptcy, and we must also not forget bush had excepted 2 million dollars in bribes from Ken Lay, who had his own late night office suite at the White House for their private encounters, so it has been kinda reported, but difficult to believe bush manages to whore so much, but understandable, what with the way he walks so funny. See, the Taliban had excepted a deal from Bridas, a pipeline offer to help rebuild the nation, while the bushmob just threatened to murder all their families for Enron's conspiracy tied to the repuglican nazi regime. Enron could never obtain investors desperately needed, to attempt with capital, to hide their crimes against all the American people, without a binding contract, investors such as from the multi-billionaires in the post WWII charity organization, World Bank, of which as unocal, being typical repuglican, only offered bribes to officials from Afghanistan to hurt their nation they, as the Taliban, truly believed in working for. As a another example where these nazi vermin relate their uselessness against us all from, Mr. phil gramm lobbied for slave labour at 10 cents an hour for America, while sneaking in a bill for California to have their electricity price quadrupled, for his relatively paultry personal check of one hundred thousand, while California citizens payed billions and billions as stolen from without police protection, as companies fell going bankrupt due to gramm's assault, leaving many out of work to get swindled even further by repuglican corruptions that run rampant through the entire state in other places, without me there to bask on the beaches to give an occasional cameo appearance, while flexing my muscles to the tune of some free beer, a place to crash, and maybe pretzels, hint hint. Achem. On the morning of the fast paced Sept 11th, bush was aware of something special in NYC that he would comment on as asked SPECIFICALLY he stated while leaving his hotel room, on his way unswavered directly to hear about goats from school children by nine, as it was reported his comment to be so nationally, on ABC News with Peter Jennings reporting on the terrorist highjackings. While we now know according to the FAA's official report, that at 8:20, officials were made aware of the unprecedented emergency while channelling through authorities, (the bushmob as rotten rumsfeld through CNN speaks nothing about it saying, all the FAA employees are lying, and don't keep watch professionally) and according to the criminal indictment against the bushmob filed by Ilarion Bykov and Jared Israel available at www.emperors-clothes.com, the Secret Service are kept more informed than anyone concerned with bush's safety, so, you'd figure, would have made bush aware of all four flights, since he was already familiar with one important thing going on in NYC, that he would talk to the media about directly later as massed for it, right? (Perhaps someone should ask Andy?) Bush was also reported to receive a call in his motorcade about the horrific event, with him also confirming to witness the tragedy of flailing bodies from the epicenter of disaster, you know, the WTC towers, commercial airlines thing?, school television sets we presume existed that he left only a moment to thought, as he then quickly entered smiling nonchalantly, a different world stage, the class room unshaken, without thought to think he may have been confused earlier to then attempt seeking clarity, no, he sat for 25 minutes unalarmed, chit chatting like nothing was happening, just as we rehearse, and as disturbingly deceived evil as ever to be believed, as anti-Christ he is it would seem to be. He later after tinking tried as dumb as he is, to deflect his gruesome macabre conduct, by suggesting he had learned only of the doom just prior to entering the classroom, where he immediately without thought, quickly attributed the disasters to pilot error while making a funny, while completely dismissing his concern as not even present for the loss of innocent American lives, bankers even, (then, before, and now he'd even tell you unblinking, "What?"), just like the tens of thousands as children in Afghanistan, and the terrorist crimes he advocates in Palestine, as he then pressed on to more urgent matters regarding his press op cover up. Did you see his media reaction in front of the classroom, when he heard the news for the forth time officially that morning, as again, he even admitted to actually visually witnessing some of the devastation before that moment, and that only then, had it become a serious matter to change, or not change his demeanor? Stuck he was then, with no mind to ruse, er.. time to snooze, Arg! What was the cue? Errrch... If he moves with priority interest as concerned openly honest public figure, as he knows a legitimate President would have been to first learn of such carnage,

THE MONTH BEFORE IN AUGUST,
why not previous before he left his Hotel room with a television? Outside the Hotel? In the motorcade? With school staff as you'd figure would have been present too laughing, no? Instead he stayed as he had been to give no orders publicly, nor attempt to make public inqiries, but to listen with such unbelievable absolute devotion, equating a beautiful child's story, as if it were Jesus from the heavens himself, speaking directly on the living Nature of our Universe... Okay, maybe we won't be able to convict him on that, but, if that isn't worth enough salt to be considered newsworthy, how about when bush said he didn't hear of the towers until he was at the school building, nixing the recorded comment reported on by John Cochrane of ABC News with Peter Jennings, that bush made a noise saying that he was importantly aware of something in NYC to speak directly on later? Or how about at the memorial, when he publicly stated it would take two whole hours to read the names of those he would without thinking, murder as innocent for Enron he told India and Pakistan in August similarly, so he would just read the titles of companies to say Grace, then would press on to more urgent matters.

Too many loose ends...
By Barrie Zwicker
... Yet at 6:30 the evening of September 11th NBC Nightly News, along with many outlets, reported: "It was after the attack on the Pentagon that the Air Force then decided to scramble F-16s out of the DC National Guard Andrews Air Force Base to fly ... a protective cover over Washington, D.C." ...

Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Richard Myers testified to the Senate Armed Service Committee of Sept. 13th, that no fighter planes had been launched until after the Pentagon was hit. CBS reported the next day, three days after the event took place, that everyone in the media and government as Myers, who of all would surely know as much as anyone with the paper work he had to prove it, including also highly respected employees at Andrews Air Force Base, and at New Jersey, were all lying without explanation nor reason to, and that at 8:44 two F-15s scrambled from Otis Air National Guard Base on Cape Cod, and were racing to New York at less than 300mph, below 20% throttle, to arrive way too late from over a hundred miles away, making the 'official' CNN story implausible. Although, the FAA has stated that it, as required by statute, and rehearsed for decades as practiced, drilled, and executed flawlessly, alerted military authorities in Colorado, throwing the command to rumsfeld's chain at the first sign of a possible high jacking, and did not sit staring at radar for 29 minutes, then yet again for another 20 twiddling through the manuals as bush would have us believe without suggesting. The attackers clearly did not act alone, as rumsfeld fights to threaten us with murder to think anything but his assuredness of who are the evildoers without evidence available to us all as facts to speak for ourselves, which to the trained observer, incriminates himself as suspect on the purpose. (None of even the how would anyone know who 'suspects' without having purchased tickets, are al-Qaida, nor from Afghanistan, according also to the FBI's Mr. Mueller, who in his knowledge of evidence as it pertains to criminal conviction required for our civilization stated, only "one --->--- OR ---<--- more" might.) Showing a cowardly fear nullifying judicial procedure, by swaying the numbed corporate automatons to think likely as machines, while not searching nor speaking to give reprimands for correction, which would be done as normal, if rumsfeld wasn't directly responsible for the crimes himself as nazi traitor. Why else? Because real soldiers as American employed at Air Force Bases have whispered behind our locked corporate news doors, with no place to speak openly as national, being corporate news is taking none of our phone calls, as Americans are generally broadcasted to be illiterate and cowardly because generally they seem to be that way actually, as I too, still haven't been addressed as someone with something to say by our professional, they know us better than ourselves, news standards. However, I am presently working desperately with many at CBC for an up coming let's slam Johnny documentary, or possibly even a legitimate news story, and others in the alternative media are slowly opening up channels of communication by returning my phone calls, of which, you as well, could do the same in our name. The universe is turning, take hold somewhere. As I was saying, real soldiers as American employed at Air Force Bases have stated without an ability to be wide open, leaving this point very difficult to confirm as of yet on our part, without jeopardizing ourselves as dazed and confused hopelessly lost nowhere. Example, our media giants we all suffer without answering any of our important questions,

airwave savvy broadcasters such as Myers, rumsfeld, Mueller, Ashcroft, Chris,

law enforcement officers everywhere, enemy or otherwise,
that has so far, found no rebuttals regarding the evidence before us, and rational for Justice to be served as a protection for our freedoms we must struggle

That stand down orders forbidding any military aircraft taking flight for defensive measures were given out verbally right after the first airliner hit the tower.
Mr. rumsfeld and bush's immediate public explanation to us meetin like this', given to surviving American serious accusation that demands resolution either way

In darkness they claimed they would not be individually involved professing from somewhere if asked by another playing evil against the wall, and therefor as anyone could be entrapped as victim, would get Johnny on a indefinite termed mental health care rap for being intelligence, they would try, to publicly accuse myself lacking hounor and character, on behalf of the secret service good cop bad cop Don jokingly told me for life, as trapped helpless supporters of cop killers and lottery scammers stealing from our grandparents, just ignoring their jobs, our lives, my written words, that do largely include, my publicly made requests to protect our communities as legal bound claims based in our criminal codes as Constitutional, who as themselves will attempt to stand publicly not to bring attention if afforded the effort of public accusation against myself, pretending to be us they'd suppose eventually, captured in our public arena against me as unworthy. Standing otherwise to Lord over us against themselves. Truth, Justice, freedom and liberty destroy ignorance as injustice, slavery and oppression, like it or not, here come's Johnny with no lawyer. If a murderer is on the loose recommitting, do we not use the required force to stop the transgressor from re-offending? The media is our messenger. Anyway, (Jeepers, I sure can go on eh?) as I was saying, Myers later in another committee addressing the timeline specifically, stated something like:
Oh, I don't know any longer, now that the professional news corporations are dictating our existence without my records, and our democratic governmental testimonies, left me thinking to not bring anything with me as required this time, sorry, no, actually, I forgot why I came here today. Is it over now?
Also, in retrospect, we, as you, can also witness through archived military newsgroups an almost complete support by our gun saluting soldiers and several real OFFICERS, American and Canadian, for my calls as a single citizen in our fledgling democracies for the immediate arrest of rumsfeld and bush escaping our authorities for murdering American civilians. Gore won the election, so let's make him President until a new election can be called as soon as possible. CNN must become humans and demand public representation. Look, we've screamed around the world regarding the facts irrespective of myself as an individual, and the corporate cult members refuse to report our stories, while actively working to oppress us all with deceit, they feign as brave to steal from us as poorly represented. See? Mr. bush as anti-Christ states that if a dictator pirates the authority of a nation and commits CRIMES against ourselves as humanity, the nations police officers should be slaughtered without mercy, or allowed legal council as defences, as regard for our standing universal laws of decree by our big time Creator grants us free will as unthinkable anyway (it's a long story, read the somewhat boring, "Johnny's Last Stand" if your interested in how I do this without flinching), and in bush's extreme evilness, now suggests, America as in deed our world needs to be nuked for not defending our flag. As we witnessed horrified in Florida, as bush the demon tyrant self destructing in his personal hatred for everything truly, argued with only himself publicly, that he as pure evil, isn't required to have evidence to murder anyone, and if The People should speak out as Justice for all as reason does sustain, he'll annihilate the entire planet, as he is against every life as US not understood, perceived, or believed, because he is generally so stupid as evil is always, leaving him targeting specifically, any police officers who are protecting ourselves as community he would blindly spout proudly, if we could nail him on the question directly. Justice to protect a person not guilty of a crime, he believes is ONLY relative to whom holds the speakers platform for accusation, so as dictator, he sides to steal and destroy our lives unworthy as himself, and doing so, has him deceived it brings bounty by monetary value stolen, not earned, seeing no value in personal relationships but to distrust others as reflected to being a part of himself also, leaves him in relationship to us, secretly planning to deceive the entire infinite forever Universe, being harmful to all as the anti-Christ he is without exception. Ah, but alas Mr. bush, infinity plus infinity equals infinity super dummy. Nothing else wiser as this Universe is intelligence known to ourselves as wonder eternal. See, if there is one thing every single conscious entity in this Universe of Universes can all agree on despite whatever bush spews, is that we don't wish to be deprived our right to life and liberty for just living to not deny that right from any other. Lucky for bush, God is forgiveness, being of a causeless force before an actual beginning kinda nature, me on the other hand as Johnny, representing life and death the way I do honestly, am not so stupid nor tolerant watching him destroy ourselves in error. It's a crazy world. Mr. bush tinks the world is only of his perception, nothing more of ideas, no strength in wisdom, fearing equality for us would leave him in all honesty, a life wasted trying to cheat himself. While I as Christ say every single individual has the equal born right inherent as existence eternal dictates, not only because I'm naturally a caring, compassionate person familiar with physics, but also because it does me well for my freedom to be all I can. For in this struggle of living, I foresee great potentials, not only for myself having fancy dinners and super big parties, but also for the realms of knowledge I'm familiar with ourselves neglecting, and how many important issues go unresolved due to doubters who dismiss actual experts in areas such as understood sciences that need our utmost immediate attention, motivating me to do anything possible to make this place a better world on behalf of everyone, that of which, to resolve, only lacks a lounge act King, who as should be, me, because here I am to crown myself standing this way forever dreaming. Plus, believing I'm actually trying to help this big old clunker of a Universe as I understand fairly well as friendly, really makes it an extra special bonus for the planet and everything, as long as our world isn't completely decimated by the bushmob, due to the general masses having absolutely no interest in understanding themselves.

I don't have any interest in what others do with their freedom, other than deny ourselves to do likewise. If a nation commits a crime against my freedom as a individual, of which I know as a god to be equally represented through everything, an innocent person murdered effects me personally, especially when it's advocated in a public forum where freedom is advertised, but obviously not present, there is where my voice demands by RIGHT to be in defence of all innocence, (big G 6 power) such as is my eternal struggle for freedom in my own name of John. (I'm in the book.) I wouldn't kill everyone in the country, or police officers as bush would advise, but demand the perpetrator to be corrected, chastised, insulted, arrested, or shot smiling as my two year John is crazy mad about bush the nazi tyrant murderer, has manifest ourselves this way. Freedom is only garnered through Justice for all equally. Mr. bush and cheney don't understand that, nor wish to learn about us, because it runs to expose their weakness publicly, as cowardly and truly pathetic individuals they both truly are, as they fail to pretend otherwise to more than half who know better, and as bush, to hide from us all as a very anti-American war criminal. Which is why we as humanity, must demand bush and rumsfeld's immediate arrests for mass murders and also for decimating the American Constitution and Bill of Rights in our corner. Mr. bush and rumsfeld must be stopped at all costs as our own willing, shot smiling now if need be, twenty dollars a head I'm offering, as too, helping our disabled officers enforce our laws to protect ourselves on behalf of every person. Did you notice how our corporate professionals ignore my world wide factual claims, only to silently advocate yourself to be oppressed and stolen from again? Maybe blown up real bad, while bush blames whomever now that evidence isn't necessary to convince the numbed and drugged of America for paying to destroy themselves by rewarding bush as saviour? Do you notice how our professional corporate cogs, refuse to report on bush's fifty billion American worker tax dollar rip off, and by omission, advocate criminal acts against ourselves as society's helpless tax paying victim? Or CNN refusing to report the closing of certain voting polls in Florida as all eligible people from the area, were lined outside the station, left to be told to go across town in fifteen minutes, but first the repuglican party is going to charge you for loitering, er.. I mean busing, no, wait, and so it went till many never made it as reported. Never mind all the disqualifications. Mr. bush was not elected, and is a tyrannical dictator of evilness never known before or ever to be again, for his gamble is for all our real lives he leverages as we truly fall dying. Either we survive, or bush destroys all of humanity due to the lack of real courage as heroism in America to challenge his hatred of our world living to continue, and irrational fear of our ultimate freedom to remain forever wondering aimlessly. Mr. bush shall not continue to advocate murdering our police officers while stealing our monies, or we will get him ourselves for continuing to do so, as he daily advocates on all corporate news channels, smiling his demon grin as dumfbuck shihtead. Mr. bush is presently trying to dump tons of radioactive waste on a extremely volatile fault line under Yucca mountain, shipped right across the country from all over. Purposefully ignoring all
